SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

All-Out Job Drive Promised

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

B.C.'s Social Credit government today pledged an all-out job creation drive in the speech from the throne.

The promise came as hundreds of unemployed staged a mass protest outside the legislature.

The speech, read by Lt.-Gov. Walter Owen, said the 1978-79 budget to be unveiled next week will have but one direction — job creation.

The twin enemies of the people of British Columbia are unacceptable levels of unemployment and inflation, "and these have been our enemies for far too long," the speech said.

It also said the first financial report from the comptroller-general will show a government surplus for the 11 months to Feb. 28 — the amount was not specified — and that MLAs will be asked to consider a new budget emphasising that governments must perform within the limits of their income.

The eight-page speech also said the B.C. Development Corp. will make $20 million available in low-interest loans to small business.

The cash will be available to firms wishing to modernize, expand or establish manufacturing or processing facilities in the province.

The speech said the government recognizes that small business has suffered neglect across North America and MLAs will be asked to give it positive support.

"The provincial sector should not be dominated by big government, big business or big labor," it said.

Premier Bill Bennett said earlier his government in the third session of the 31st legislature which opened today would concentrate on incentives for small business.

The speech from the throne said the government wants the private sector to lead the drive to create permanent jobs to prevent the government from becoming the provider of short-lived jobs.

But the speech said government must do its part in generating confidence and its funds will be made available for public construction projects aimed at stimulating the economy and creating jobs.

Projects will include the construction of both new mental and medical health facilities, court facilities and educational projects and hos-

Speaker Named

Deputy Speaker Harvey Schroeder today was named to succeed North Peace Socred MLA Ed Smith as Speaker of the Legislature.

Vancouver South Socred MLA Steven Rogers was named deputy speaker.

Schroeder's appointment results from the resignation Wednesday of Smith.

Smith quit after coming under heavy attack from opposition MLAs following the appointment of his girl friend, Barbara Pennock, to a job in the auditor-general's department.

TOP BRASS of B.C. Federation of Labor arrived in Victoria Wednesday to oversee federation organized protest by B.C. jobless at legislature today. Hundreds Stage March In Unemployment Protest

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

They came more than 2,000 strong — from the Kootenays, the Okanagan and the Lower Mainland — jamming the morning ferries to march through Victoria's streets.

Among them were woodworkers, mechanics and plumbers and they had one thing in common — they want B.C.'s 115,000 unemployed put back to work.

"Jobs Now" demanded hundreds of signs the demonstrators waved as they marched from their rallying point at the Memorial Arena to the legislative buildings.

The rally — more than 42 buses were used to bring participants — was tightly organized by the B.C. Federation of Labor, with demonstration marshals spread throughout the crowd to keep everyone informed and to head off any trouble that might flare.

The marshals met with Victoria police before the crowd left the arena and received a caution from the police spokesmen that it was their duty to keep things cool.

Police told the organizers a four-man team would escort the protesters on the way to the legislature, that Douglas Street would be closed off for them and that a token four-man team would be on duty at the buildings.

But the marshals were told extra police could be called in if the situation warranted it.

One marshal asked if police were aware that Right-to-Work demonstrators also planned to show up at the legislature.

"I guess everybody will be there," he was told.

Organizers urged participants to behave.

"Any kooks here who want it any other way better leave now," one organizer told the crowd.

Today's protest was the biggest demonstration the federation has organized for an opening of the legislature and federation officials said it would have been bigger except for the logistics of moving huge numbers of people across from the mainland.

Total cost of the protest is not known but based on bus charter costs, transportation alone will come to about $20,000.

Federation organizers failed in efforts to have extra morning ferry sailings ar-

NEWS BRIEFS

PWA Mediator

EDMONTON (CP) — The federal government announced today the appointment of mediator Martin Slutsky in the dispute between Pacific Western Airlines and the Canadian Airlines Employees Association.

Teenage Killers?

NEW YORK (AP) — Two boys, aged 13 and 14, have been arrested and charged with accepting a $500 "contract" from a numbers collector and killing a rival racketeer because of a territorial dispute.

IWA Walkout

PORT ALBERNI(CP) — About 1,200 members of the International Woodworkers of America were off the job today at MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. divisions in protest over the two-day suspension Wednesday of a camp chairman at the Sarita division.

Russians Expelled

THE HAGUE (Reuter) — The Netherlands has ordered two Russians to leave the country and banned the re-entry of a third, it was officially announced today.

Sask. Blackout

REGINA (CP) — Vandals who shot insulators off a major transmission line were responsible for power failures in about 50 towns in southwestern Saskatchewan Tuesday night, says the Saskatchewan Power Corp.

Raiders Abduct Pupils

SALISBURY (Reuter) — Black nationalist guerrillas have abducted 420 pupils from a British Methodist Church missionary school in southwestern Rhodesia, a church spokesman said today.

The students, aged between 13 and 20, were taken across the border into Botswana at gunpoint after the raiders entered the mission Wednesday night, he said.

Twelve of the mission's staff of 24, including the headmaster, Rev. Luke Kumalo, had also been kidnapped, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, the government reported that Rhodesian troops have slain 78 guerrillas since a major new incursion from Mozambique was reported last week. Unconfirmed reports said remnants of the guerrilla force were on the move deeper into Rhodesia.

Eight security force men were killed in the fighting, the communiques reported.

Although there were conflicting reports, it appeared that more than 100 insurgents infiltrated from Mozambique into the thickly wooded Burma Valley, about 325 kilometres south of the eastern garrison town of Umtali.

They were reported to have brought with them bundles of leaflets denouncing the recent settlement reached between Prime Minister Ian Smith, head of the previous white-minority regime, and three domestically-based black nationalist leaders for establishing a black-dominated government by Dec. 31.

Long Shot

Marcello Mastroianni, the veteran Italian actor, has been nominated for the best actor Oscar this year.

He was a strong contender in 1962 when he was nominated for Divorce Italian Style and many were surprised when he didn't win.

This time, however, with his second nomination, he is seen as merely filling out the five places in the card in a rather weak year for male performers.

Most Hollywood observers rate him as the longest shot on the board, although the fact he has been around a long time may put some sentiment in his corner.

His performance in A Special Day opposite Sophia Loren was good but not spectacular and not of Oscar stature. Still, Liz Taylor won for Butterfield 8 and Jane Fonda won for Klute, and both actresses had done better without getting an Oscar — so Mastroianni must be rated at least an outside possibility.

The Times and CJVI are offering a chance to win a trip for two to Hollywood plus 10 secondary prizes for readers who correctly predict the Oscar winners for best actor, best actress and best movie.

Official entry form is in the advertisement on page 41.

Cadboro Bay Bomb Scare

A bomb scare forced evacuation of several homes in the Cadboro Bay area this morning.

A Canadian Armed Forces bomb disposal squad was called by Saanich police to a Cadboro Bay home to dispose of a bag, following a reported bomb threat to an occupant of the house.

Police said a youth living at 2551 Sinclair contacted the department after he received a threat. He searched the property with an officer and they found a grocery bag in the garage which ought not to have been there.

The bag was placed in a military truck and driven away. It was not known if the bag contained an explosive device.

About a dozen neighbors on both sides of the house, across the street and on an adjacent street were asked to leave their homes for about two hours while the team was disposing of the bag.

Old Age Numbers Soar In Major Census Shift

OTTAWA (CP) - Canada is about to undergo a shift in age structure of a magnitude unparalleled this century, says a Statistics Canada report released today.

"An increase in the proportion of the older population and a drop in the number of children are leading indicators of a major shift, which will undoubtedly have important implications for Canada's society and its economy," says the report.

It says the government should be planning its programs and institutions for a society which by 2031 will see every senior citizen supported by three working Canadians, compared with the seven at present.

"What seems clear as Canada enters the fourth quarter of the 20th century is that the proportion of the national effort required to meet the needs of the younger population will drop. On the other hand, there will be demands of a different nature by the population 65 and older," the report says.

Retired Canadians now make up nine per cent of the population. By the year 2000, the proportion was expected to increase to 12 per cent. Within the next 50 years, it would rise to about 20 per cent.

At the same time, the report predicts the fertility rate will continue to drop from its present level of 1.8 births per woman to 1.5 by the mid-1980s. After that, it is expected to stabilize.

The study says the two trends will work in opposite directions and leave Canada's support ratio at about the present 65 per cent of the population. That is, those between zero and 17 years and over 65 would comprise 65 per cent of the population and would be supported by the remaining 35 per cent.

However, the burden of supporting this non-working population could change drastically. The report makes no attempt to compare the dependency cost of a child with that of a senior citizen, but says there are major differences to consider.

Instead of providing food, clothing and shelter and education for children, more of the national income would be directed into old age security, pensions, hospital care, nursing home support and senior citizen residences.

The medical field would be one of the major areas of expansion. Patients 65 years and older now use about 30 per cent of patient-days.

By 2030, when they will constitute 20 per cent of the population the percentage will shoot up to 104 per cent of the maximum capacity of today's hospitals — or 57 million patient days a year.

Slight Rise For Dollar

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian dollar staged a modest recovery on New York money markets after slipping precariously close to the 88 U.S.-cent mark in early Wednesday trading.

The dollar closed at 88.27 U.S. cents in the interbank wholesale market Wednesday, but was off 1-25 again this morning at $0.8823.

Pound sterling was down 2 at $1.8605.

The U.S. dollar improved in Tokyo today and was generally steady in morning trading on European money markets.

The price of gold continued Wednesday's sharp downward trend.

Only Jobless Know the Anguish

By MARK HUME
and MIKE HUGHES
(Last of Four Articles)

Sometimes it seems like just so many wasted words trying to explain the anguish of unemployment to the employed.

To really appreciate it you have to have been there.

Unemployment isn't so bad at first. Painless really. The biggest problem is trying to get used to having so much free time.

But it doesn't stay that way for long. As the dry spell lengthens to a month, then three, then a half-year, and the bank account evaporates, things get rapidly worse.

The boredom is soon replaced by bleakness, cynicism, and a pervasive feeling of being unneeded. The unemployed interviewed by the Times during the past few weeks have all spoken of the same things, in one way or another, and reporter Hume experienced it for six months in 1976.

Most people learn to resign themselves to being without work. They make the regular trips to Manpower without any great hope, for then there's no let-down when the job boards call for things like a resident psychologist in northern Nova Scotia or an aerospace technician in Toronto.

The unemployed tend to laugh a lot when they read the job boards at Manpower, but it rings hollow.

There's nothing easy about adjusting to unemployment, and perhaps the hardest thing to learn — and believe — is that you are no less a person because you don't have a job.

That's easy enough to say, but it's not so easy to believe in a society that equates money with status.

In the consumer society, to be without money is to be worthless.

To a person without a job that lesson is driven home in countless little ways.

Virus Test Planned Against Budworm

VANCOUVER (CP) — A bacteria and a virus will be used in limited tests this year by the British Columbia Forest Service in an attempt to control the spruce budworm, Forests Minister Tom Waterland said Wednesday.

Earlier this year the service cancelled its chemical spray program against the budworm because it could not be justified economically.

"Our research programs this year will cover control measures, the economic impact of the budworm and more detailed studies on the mortality and long-term damage to trees," Waterland said.

Mike Finnis, of the forestry protection service, said the bacteria and the virus will not cause any side effects on animals or humans.

"The bacteria (bacillus thuringiensis) is effective on a small group of insects and has been used extensively to spray lettuce," he said. "The virus causes a disease that affects only the budworm."

The virus, developed by the Forest Pest Institute at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was tested here in 1976 and the results were marginal.

Finnis said there is only enough virus available this year to treat 150 acres.

The new program was recommended by chief forester Ted Young and the forest pest review committee, composed of government, university and forest industry resource people who have been studying the budworm problem.

At the end of 1977, budworm infestation covered 585,000 acres of Douglas fir in the Fraser Canyon and 18,000 acres in the Adams-Shuswap region east of Kamloops.

HYDRO READY TO LISTEN

The general manager of B.C. Hydro said Wednesday he has agreed to meet with each of the three unions that have served strike notice on the Crown corporation to hear their concerns about Hydro's contract offers.

J. Norman Olsen said in a news release that the meetings would take place during the next several days, but Hydro would not be entering into negotiations with the unions.

Hydro met Tuesday and Wednesday with the Amalgamated Transit Union (ATU), the Office and Technical Employees Union (OTEU) and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), all of which can legally strike at any time.

Fred Trotter, president of local 378 of the OTEU, said all parties concerned had agreed to provide no details on what had been discussed.

"We are simply meeting with Hydro to resolve the situation," said Trotter. "We are at an impasse and are trying to determine whether there are methods to resolve the impasse."

He said no job action is being contemplated while meetings with Hydro were continuing.

The ATU called off a week-long strike against Hydro March 20 to join with the other two unions in finding alternate ways to put pressure on the company.

The unions have pledged not to sign contracts until all have reached settlements with Hydro.

TEL TALKS BOG

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Telephone Co. and the Telecommunications Workers Union have given up on their search for a chairman to head a joint committee on contracting out of work, the major issue in a recent three month strike-lockout.

Under a provision in the back-to-work agreement, Nathan Nemetz, chief justice of the B.C. Supreme Court, has been asked to select the chairman.

Company spokesman Keith Matthews said Wednesday that neither side was able to come up with a mutually acceptable nominee to head the committee made up of four members each from the union and the company.

U.S. Curbs Investment In Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. corporations have trimmed $830 million from projected 1978 capital expenditures in Canada, a U.S. commerce department survey shows.

The survey, released this week, shows that U.S.-controlled corporations now expect to spend about $5.94 billion in Canada this year, instead of the $6.77 billion they had projected in a survey conducted six months earlier.

This means that gross capital expenditures this year will be only about one per cent higher than in 1977, not 13 per cent as projected in the last survey.

The latest poll of major U.S. multinational corporations also predicts a decline in total 1977 expenditures in Canada, to $5.8 billion from $6 billion in the last check and $6.4 billion in a survey conducted a year ago.

Total 1977 investments in Canada are expected to be about five per cent higher than in 1976, the survey says. Final 1977 figures will not be available until later this year.

A commerce department official said in an interview Wednesday that uncertainty about Canada's economy and political problems created by the presence of a Parti Quebecois government in Quebec "could very well have had an effect" on the spending estimates.

He noted that the multinationals plan to increase world-wide investment this year by about 10 per cent. This figure is down two per cent from the projection in the last survey.

He said much of the spending decline in Canada is a result of postponement of major projects expected to have been started this year.

The biggest drop was in the mining and smelting industry, where spending estimates have been trimmed by about $400 million.

PROVINCE PROMISES JOBS

pitals throughout the province.

The government will streamline its own operations by undertaking a complete ministry by ministry examination of boards, agencies, commissions and departmental structures with a view to cutting regulations which no longer serve a useful public purpose.

Plans call for a continued highways maintenance and construction program. An extensive highways program last year exceeded its budget estmate of $336 million by more than $84 million.

Also coming, the speech said, is increased financial assistance for first-time home buyers to help stimulate more housing construction.

The speech indicates the ministry of municipal affairs will introduce initiatives in urban transit — a promise made in last year's throne speech.

As expected, new forest and range acts are to be introduced in the session.

The government intends to place a major emphasis in the coming session in this area and the new legislation will "bring about long-needed changes to the government's role in managing these important natural resources."

The new forests act to replace the 66-year-old legislation now in force will call for a program of intensive forest management that will involve both the public and private sectors.

Hundreds of Marchers Protest Lack of Jobs ranged to accommodate the rally.

The protesters gathered at the arena about 10.30 a.m., listening to music by Bargain at Half the Price, making up signs and planning their march to the legislature.

During the 1975 election campaign the Social Credit party promised jobs would be its number one priority if elected and with the third session of the legislature opening today, the federation said it was time to remind Premier Bill Bennett's government of that promise.

Some of the demonstrators had travelled all night to attend the rally — others who couldn't come held similar but smaller meetings in Vernon, Prince George and Nelson.

The Victoria protesters marched down Blanshard to Caledonia and along Douglas Street to mass on the legislative lawns for speeches from politicians and labor leaders.

Federation officers had met with Victoria police, RCMP and legislative security officers to discuss the protest.

NDP leader Dave Barrett, Liberal leader Gordon Gibson and Tory leader Vic Stephens were committed to address the crowd.

Federation president George Johnston, secretary-treasurer Len Guy, Vancouver Ald. Harry Rankin, Victoria Ald. Larry Ryan, Mike Kaufmann of the Vancouver Union of the Unemployed and representatives of the B.C. Teachers' Federation and the B.C. Students' Association also addressed the crowd.

Labor representatives had earlier lobbied MLAs pressuring them for action on the unemployment problem.

Tanker Hit Again

BREST, France (AP) — The French Navy scheduled two more depth charge attacks today on the hull of the wrecked supertanker Amoco Cadiz, hoping to put more holes in her storage tanks and free the rest of the oil aboard.

the weather

Most interior and south coastal communities lay under a blanket of cloud this morning. The odd shower lingered over the south coast while one or two flurries were reported in the interior. Residents of the north coast enjoyed sunny skies today as a ridge of high pressure continues to build in from the Pacific. The ridge will gradually slide over the rest of the province today bringing clearing conditions to most localities. The next disturbance approaching from the weather ship will spread cloud to the north coast tonight with rain arriving on Friday.

Cairo Talks Stall

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israeli Defence Minister Ezer Weizman met with President Anwar Sadat for two hours today in Cairo but no progress was achieved toward renewing peace talks between Israel and Egypt, Cairo Radio said.

The report was monitored in Tel Aviv and broadcast on Israel Radio.

Cairo Radio said there was no decision to renew the parallel talks of defence and foreign ministers and added "There will be no renewal as long as there is no basis for it."

Meanwhile, Weizman said today his nation's forces will pull out of occupied south Lebanon as soon as United Nations peace-keeping forces are fully deployed in the region, Cairo radio said.

The Cairo talks began as U.S. President Jimmy Carter in a news conference in Brasilia categorically denied his administration seeks the ouster of Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, but defended his bid to sell fighter jets to other "moderate Middle East nations."

"I can say unequivocally that no one in a position of authority in the U.S. government has insinuated that Prime Minister Begin is unqualified and should be replaced," Carter said.

He called "completely false" reports his administration believes Begin is an impediment to Middle East peace.

Carter said Israel is able to maintain its military capability, and any sale of fighter jets "does not threaten its security."

Carter also said he believed the Begin government is completely capable of negotiating a settlement with Egypt.

Engineer Proposes Air Bag Executions

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — A retired auto safety engineer is seeking a patent for an execution device he says offers a "humane alternative" to the electric chair, firing squad and other methods of capital punishment.

"This invention consists of a standard commercial airbag as presently used in cars now on the road," Emile P. Grenier said Wednesday.

By inflating an airbag directly under a subject's head, Grenier said, "a force of 12,000 pounds can be instantly brought to bear which will snap the neck of the person to be executed far more effectively than the hangman's noose with an action so instantaneous as to preclude any pain."

Grenier, a safety consultant who recently retired from Ford Motor Co., is a longtime opponent of mandatory airbag systems in automobiles.

"It is a known fact that if an individual's head is moved into contact with the airbag aperture at the instant of activation by the inertial trigger at the time of impact, that the person's head will be rapidly accelerated to the rear resulting in a fractured neck," Grenier said in the patent application.

WANDERING GYPSIES MOVE EAST

WINNIPEG (CP) — Police said a band of more than 25 gypsies, told to leave their Winnipeg motel shortly after arriving from Vancouver, left the city Wednesday.

The group, which has been trying to get the federal government to approve their status in Canada, was heading east but its exact destination was unknown.

Police had been watching the band, which is made up of two families and includes 13 children under 10 years old, although the gypsies were not wanted for any crime.

Anti-Pneumonia Vaccine on Way

TORONTO (CP) — A new vaccine that can prevent the most common type of pneumonia will go on sale in Canada on Monday, Dr. Robert Austrian, a U.S. physician who developed the vaccine, said Wednesday.

The vaccine, which went on the market in the United States on Feb. 1, is effective against 14 of 84 strains of pneumococcal pneumonia, he said.

Dr. Austrian, who pioneered the development of the vaccine while working with the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, said the new vaccine should be given to everyone 50 to 55 and older as a routine measure in good preventive medicine.

He said the new vaccine could be given to anyone older than two who has a chronic illness such as liver, heart, kidney or lung disease, diabetics and persons who are going to have organ transplants.

The vaccine, which takes effect within two weeks of being administered, is not effective for pneumonia caused by viruses.

Gordon R. Klodt, president of Merck Frost Laboratories, the firm marketing the vaccine, said pneumococcal pneumonia kills about 6,000 people a year in Canada and 25,000 in the United States.

Dr. Austrian said the first known vaccine for pneumococcal pneumonia was developed in the South African gold mines by scientists before the Second World War.

Airline Fires U.S. Workers

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada fired 84 ground service employees at three major United States airports Wednesday night and brought in private contractors to replace them, the airline said.

The change, which the carrier says will save almost $2 million a year, was originally scheduled for April 9 but was moved up when news of the firings was leaked to employees.

It affects baggage handlers and ramp attendants at New York, Cleveland and Chicago, the only airports where Air Canada employed its own attendants.

The workers will receive extended severance benefits to compensate for lack of notice, an airline official said.

Air Canada regional vice-president J.P. Labrie said the need to move up the starting time was "unexpected and unfortunate," but was decided on to "avoid retaliation."

The 84 employees lost their union certification in February, 1977, while their union, the International Asociation of Machinists, was negotiating a new contract. An Air Canada official said there was no connection between the union problems and the switch to private contractors.

In Cleveland, Allegheny Airlines will take over the baggage operations while private service firms handle the work in the other two cities.

YOUNG'S
THE ORIGINAL

SALE!
Personal Shopping Only
All Sales Final!

This is the lowest price we have ever sold a system of this quality. 18 watts RMS per channel from the Audio Reflex Receiver is more than enough to get concert hall levels from the 3-speaker, 2-way ACCUSOUND speakers. Add a Taya (by Toshiba) belt-drive manual turntable and you have sound that's hard to beat! Normally, this system would cost you $469.95.

MADNESS PRICE $349.95

PACKAGE DEALS

Amazing is the only word that comes to mind. Kenwood quality, in a 22 watt RMS per channel AM-FM stereo receiver . . . combined with two Challenger 8A speakers, with dome tweeters for maximum clarity, and the Taya, belt-drive manual turntable. This system should be heard to be believed. Normally, this system would set you back a full $680.00.

MADNESS PRICE 429.95

Our "BEST BUY" package! This system was our most popular with the original Challenger 10b speakers! Now, with the new series 2 Ten b's, it's even better value. The Toshiba 420 provides a full 25 watts RMS per channel, with PLL F/M — AM too, and one of the smoothest flywheels around. Add the Toshiba SR-500 turntable with DC servo controlled motor and belt-drive (for minimum wow and flutter, and rumble) and auto-shut off (for maximum convenience) and the new Challenger 10b's, and you're set. Normally, this would cost $800+ even on sale.

MADNESS PRICE 629.95

We're rapidly running out of superlatives with which to write this ad . . . but if you want really good sound, and don't want to spend a real fortune, this system should not be ignored. JVC's 50-watt per channel, 12" 3-way 150+ watt speakers, and JLA-40, top-rated, direct drive turntable (with auto-return) combine for excellent sound at an excellent price. Full value is over $1510.00.

Yes, There Is A Problem

If you were ever one of the many who asked periodically whether there is really a serious unemployment problem in Canada, the Unemployment Insurance Commission (sorry, the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission) has now answered you with a resounding "Yes!"

The change the commission made this week to its own rules, abandoning its time-honored tradition that all those collecting unemployment insurance must prove they are actively seeking work, is the best measure yet of the severity of the problem in Canada. For the government to be willing to pay out UI benefits to anyone who comes along without first ensuring he is not abusing the system is surely proof that it has given up its pretence that jobs are available for those who really want to work.

The commission has said it is changing the rules because of the amount of flak it was taking not only from the unemployed, who become immensely discouraged with constant rejections from firms that have no openings, anywhere, for anyone, but also from employers, who were becoming frustrated with the number of unemployed arriving daily at the door to look for jobs that aren't there so they could satisfy the UIC requirements.

A look through the help wanted advertisements in Victoria shows clearly why those problems would develop in our city, especially among young people with little or no work experience. Aside from a few very specialized positions (experienced machine shop foreman, licensed nurse-practitioner, accountant) a few part-time and/or live-in babysitting jobs and a few jobs requiring considerable experience and training (experienced cooks, experienced hairdressers, experienced waiters or waitresses), there is virtually nothing — probably fewer than a dozen jobs for which the young person fresh out of high school or college could apply. When one local firm recently advertised for an office clerk (at relatively low wages), it received a total of 375 applications.

The commission is quite right in saying that it is both useless and frustrating to have those 375 people going to every business in town whether it has any jobs or not.

The new regulation will undoubtedly be abused by some of the unemployed who will abandon the search for a job altogether. A few of the abusers will give up job-hunting because they really would rather live on UI than work; far more will do so because they are too discouraged and disillusioned to risk more rejections.

However, the commission apparently thinks the change will solve more problems than it will create. It may be right. But it will not solve the biggest problem — the unemployment itself. It should, however, prompt all governments — federal, provincial and local — into a greater realization of the magnitude of the problem and the need for an ever-greater search to find some relief.

Safe Predictions

Although everyone is cautious about predicting just what legislation and financial data will be brought down at the legislative session that opened today (even the throne speech now contains no more than a few tidbits about the upcoming government program), it's quite possible to anticipate a few events with unerring accuracy.

Among them:

☐ The NDP opposition will make, during the course of the session, at least 23 speeches blaming the provincial government for doing nothing to help the unemployment and, indeed, for making it worse through its economic policies.

☐ The Social Credit government will reply an equal number of times with the defence that unemployment is a national and international problem, not a provincial one, that B.C. is doing better than a lot of other places, and if anyone should be blamed, it's Ottawa.

☐ Liberal leader Gordon Gibson will be asked at least 14 times (mostly by Social Credit backbenchers) when he's going to give up on B.C. and try to move to Ottawa to help the federal Liberals' cause.

☐ Gibson will deny this at least 13 times. The last time it is asked, however, will be a few days after the federal election is called; on that occasion Gibson will have to make up his mind. He will probably decide to run federally.

☐ Conservative leader Vic Stephens will make at least 11 speeches about the need for a moderate option in B.C. and his intentions to follow Scott Wallace's traditions of independence and integrity.

☐ The new Speaker of the House will get far more co-operation from all opposition members than Ed Smith ever did, mainly because the opposition will feel they have accomplished their aim in having Smith resign.

☐ The NDP will make at least 31 references to the record $215 million the Socreds ran up in budgetary overruns; most of them will be along the somewhat unctuous theme that "Our (the NDP's) overruns were spent on people; yours (the Socreds') were spent on blacktop."

☐ The Socreds will claim at least 32 times that the the province's finances remain in difficult straits because of the immense mess the NDP left behind when the voters threw them out 2½ years ago.

☐ At least one MLA (the chances are nine-to-one it will be an opposition member) will be thrown out of the House for unparliamentary behavior.

☐ At least 17 separate groups will hold demonstrations on the legislative lawns. (This does not include solitary individuals who sit on the front steps protesting their ill treatment by the Workers Compensation Board, their local bank, or Bill Vander Zalm.)

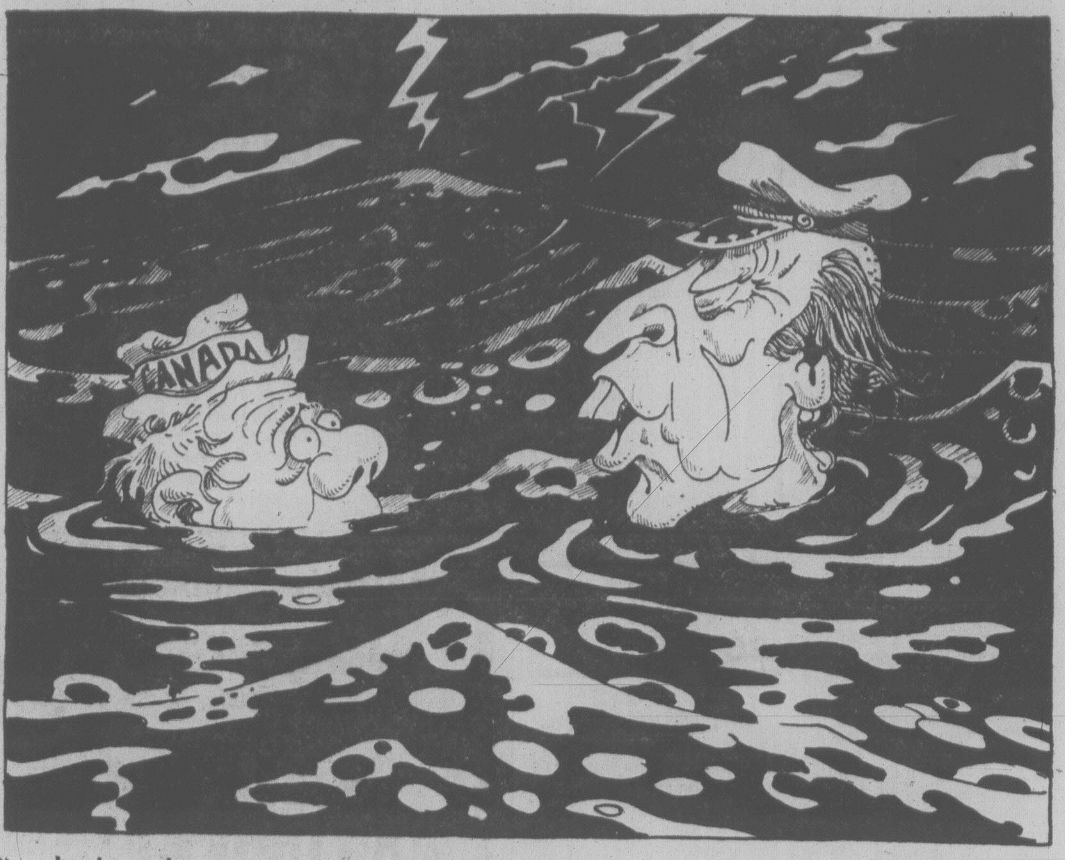
☐ Oh yes — some time during all this, our 55 MLAs may actually spend a little time debating the 1978-79 budget and the government's legislative program.

A Good Idea

The post office is shafted often enough in this space, but today a small piece of praise for the people who cope with the mails, specifically for a necessary and useful innovation — the drive-up mail boxes being located around the city.

There's one in the 1100-block Johnson Street, for example. When the drive-up box outside the main post office on Government Street was removed as part of the mall widening project, many Victorians protested. The handicapped who were able to drive were particularly inconvenienced.

But the new drive-up boxes which the post office is building fill the gap nicely. A good idea. Thanks to the post office.



". . . here's my plan . . . we tread water 'till this storm blows over . . . then swim to shore somewhere . . . rustle up some material . . . build another ship and continue our journey . . ."

Engineering History: the WC

HOVE, England — It began in 1596 with the remarkable invention of Sir John Harington, Queen Elizabeth's godson. And Britain's romance with complicated bathroom plumbing continues to this day.

It was Sir John who came up with the idea of a "flushing closet." His story and the history of what the British like to call "the loo" is told in Chain Reaction, a novel exhibition being held at the Brighton and Hove engineerium.

The exhibition, accompanied by appropriate sound effects — gurgles, swooshes and clangs — has proved a success beyond the dreams of the engineerium, a museum located in what was once Brighton's waterworks and primarily devoted to steam engines.

Made them Quieter

About 1,000 people a day at $1 a head have been going through the exhibit.

There is some doubt about the origin of the word loo — perhaps related to an old game involving a pool, or more simply to Waterloo. But none exists about the legacy to the language of the great refiner of the British lavatory: Thomas Crapper.

"He was the bloke who quietened them down," said John Slight, one of the organizers of the exhibition, pointing to a cast iron cistern proudly engraved The Noiseless.

But Crapper did much more. It was he who perfected in 1872 the valveless water waste preventer with silent action (so he claimed anyway). Previously most designs had been either earth pits or variations on Sir John Harington's rudimentary valve system — you pulled a chain or handle lifting a valve which allowed water to flow from a barrel or cistern above a cavity in a cylinder with a wooden seat.

Through the years there had been small refinements, by Alexander Cummings in 1775, by the famous Joseph Bramah (who also lent his name to the receptacle) in 1778 and who sold a record 6,000 Bramahs, by T.W. Twyford in 1870, whose family name lingers on today and by Bostel of Brighton.

But Thomas Crapper perfected a system using only two gallons of water at a time when conservation was a major issue. A previous model in use in Brighton, for instance, was said to consume 68 gallons per person per day.

The only competition came from Reverend Moule's earth closet, circa 1870, named for its inventor, of St. John's College, Cambridge, which unleashed clean earth from a hopper poised above a bucket (which still had to be emptied sometime) and consumed 2½ tons a year for a family of six, and was sold in the famous Army and Navy department store up to 1908 for 30 shillings.

The Crapper model sold for 20 shillings and sixpence painted, or 26 shillings and threepence galvanized, with the cover one and nine pence extra.

One of the models on display carries a handwritten note: it was in continuous use for almost 100 years until 1976 by the granddaughter of its builder, Thomas Vine, died 1889.

Another model, luxuriously decorated with pink and green flowers, came from King George IV's royal pavilion at Brighton.

Many bear the name of their maker, but some carry serious and reassuring names, such as "the excelsior, a number one prize medal winner" by Brighton's Bostel "suitable alike for the palace, mansion, cottage or school."

Then there is the blue magnolia, the raised acanthus, the pedestal log, the mulberry peach, the robero, the clement.

"It is typically British," said Jonathan Minns, the director and founder of the engineerium. "Lighthearted — yes, but serious, too. This is a part of engineering history."

He started his museum, using the basis of a collection of steam engines and models acquired since boyhood, with $600, leasing the waterworks abandoned for 22 years in 1976 and renovating the interior. It now houses one of the best collections in England, including a huge 1876 two-pillar compound beam engine restored to working order, as well as "works" by all the famous names in steam — Watt, Stephenson, Faraday and Trevithick and rarities dating back to 1680.

"To borrow what the Duke of Edinburgh says, engineering is regarded as a second class intellectual activity," said Minns. "Not at all; it is a neglected art and I want to teach its history." He has started a small school, and the first 15 students are to begin their six-week course next month.

Avocado Suite

His venture has been partly financed by grants from the local sanitation department, the national department of the environment and Christies, the well known auction house, for which he formerly worked.

Although Chain Reaction was scheduled to last only from Easter until April 16, it may have to be extended by public demand. It represents all that is particularly British about plumbing, both loved and hated.

The last item on show is a current Twyford model, Royal Doulton china no less. The price is somewhat higher than Thomas Crapper's model: for the avocado "suite" featuring "double trap syphonic action," $219. With seat, an additional $31.50.

Double Pay

I do not begrudge old age pensioners being able to make a few extra dollars.

What I do object to is the fact that the B.C. Steamship Company, a crown corporation, employs old age pensioners ages 68 to 74 full time. These are men who draw CPR pensions as well as old age pensions and must gross $2,500 per month.

With our high unemployment this has to be very wrong.

I would suggest that these greedy old men give their job to someone who needs it or at least donate their pensions to charity. — Owen Johnson, 402-670 Simcoe Street.

The Circus is Here

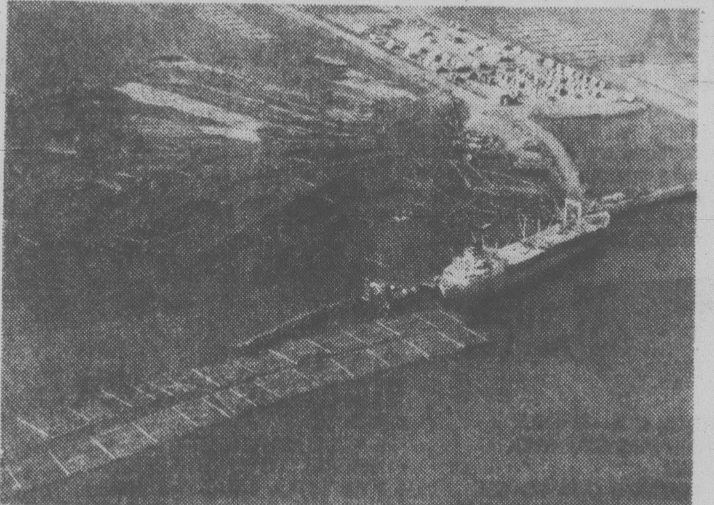
At last Victoria has come of age and joined the club. Step right up, folks. Get your tickets here for the Royal Victoria and Captain Cook Circus.

Only once in a lifetime can you witness these two events taking place at the same time. The greatest causeway show on earth. All the best of Brighton and Coney Island right here in Victoria. Canadian Tally-Ho, San Francisco trolley car (cum bus), London double deckers.

Popcorn, chewing gum, ice cream, cameras, bike rentals — in due time bingo will be played on the lower causeway. Ferris wheels on Parliament building grounds, and the latest sideshows at the Empress Hotel.

No need to stress our city was once a pleasant, clean and very different place to visit to get away from all the normal hassle of larger cities everywhere. We were once unique in these respects. Once lost can never be regained.

Wonder why tourists would come here now? Wait for five to seven hours for a costly ferry to see a glorified circus? Progress yes — circus no. — L. Joseph, 1958 Bee Street.



Ship loads lumber at dock on Cowichan Bay, near controversial estuary.

Cowichan Estuary

I was pleased to read the Times editorial of March 15 (Right for Wrong Reasons) concerning the statements of federal Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc, regarding the federal Fisheries Act and the Cowichan estuary. You have made more people aware of the situation and certainly stirred discussion on the subject.

However, I am puzzled by your criticism and apparent lack of background knowledge of the problem. The federal fisheries department participated in the original 1974 task force that established the present status quo situation that the industrial developers are now trying to alter. The task force was comprised of federal, provincial, regional and municipal representatives and was a rare example of multi-government co-operation. Its findings were endorsed by local residents by referendum reflected in the Cowichan Bay community plan.

I am also puzzled by your reference to the "pre-election" thinking. LeBlanc's policy statement is the result of requests by private individuals and organizations in the Cowichan Valley culminated by comments by Jim Nielsen (supposedly minister of the environment) who has declared himself in favor of industrial expansion in the estuary, and an attack against the Fisheries Act by the minister of forests.

Let us look at the events leading to this policy statement. In 1975, the provincial minister (NDPer Bob Williams) disregarded the task force reports and authorized Doman's present sawmill. At this time Doman's agreed to a no-expansion policy and also to certain restrictions on the operation of the mill to protect the estuary. Among these was an agreement that there would be no bulk storage of chips or hog fuel, booms would be restricted to 20 acres. At the present time there are two mountains of chips in the estuary and vast areas have been utilized for log storage; some estimates range as high as 200 acres. Now Nielsen has instituted a new task force to look into questions that the original task force settled. LeBlanc's statement comes at a time when these forest-related industries are finalizing plans to move into the estuary and warns them that he will act to protect the fishery.

You indicate the question is: "Does the federal government have enough authority to stop entirely resource development because it will hurt the fish supply?" I would suggest the question is: "Does the federal government have enough authority to protect the fishery resource?" There has not been a question of stopping resource development.

It has been shown that there are alternate sites for these mills and that simple expedience is not sufficient justification to endanger the valuable commercial and sports fishery. We can move mills but we cannot move productive rivers and estuaries.

Let us look at the credibility of the two ministers involved — Romeo Le Blanc, the federal minister of fisheries has come out strongly to protect the fishery. Jim Nielsen, the provincial minister of the environment has come out strongly in favor of the industrialization of an estuary. — Hal Orrick, President, Cowichan Fish and Game Association.

Amalgamation

The outstanding Finnis study on local government deserves much more comment from your newspaper than the condescending editorial A Starting Point (Times, March 13). The study is unquestionably a most comprehensive and vital work on a subject of urgent interest.

Local government (including regional government) in the Greater Victoria area desperately needs restructuring to meet the growing pressures of urbanization. Even a superficial appraisal of the current situation in the unorganized territories, in recreation, in water distribution, in zoning manipulation, in mounting property taxation and in the mounting cost of government, points up the urgency for a reappraisal of the effectiveness of the local level of government in the capital region.

The costs, both social and financial, of the growing chaos in regional and local government in Greater Victoria are mounting rapidly; they will haunt the next generation.

It is time your newspaper took a position of leadership by not only presenting a digest of the Finnis study but also by vigorously demanding action by the provincial government. — Peter Pollen, 3470 Upper Terrace.

Chisanbop, Bop

I read with great interest your recent article about the Korean mathematical figuring system called Chisanbop (Times, March 16). I decided to try the system out myself using the author's instructions: "Calculations are made by moving and exchanging the fingers from one hand to the next." I soon found that with Chisanbop, as with many other things, a little knowledge is worse than none at all. I managed to correctly perform one calculation, but my delight at achieving the correct answer soon turned to dismay as I noted that both of my thumbs, as well as seven fingers, were not on my left hand.

It is particularly unfortunate that this mishap occurred during the transit strike, as my condition makes it very difficult to hitchhike. It is also interfering with my ambition to become a concert pianist. Would the author of the original article please print the instruction for performing the reverse finger exchange? — J. Bonfonti, 2626 Wentwich Road.

Belleville, Ont.

An authentic 100-year-old log cabin rebuilt in downtown Belleville is the headquarters for our city's centennial, being celebrated this year.

Belleville, a pioneer United Empire Loyalist settlement, has been the home of many diverse personalities such as the well-known author Susanna Moodie; the irascible former newspaper reporter who for a short time was Canada's prime minister, Sir Mackenzie Bowell; and Bill Davis, the talented Hollywood producer of the Sonny and Cher Show and the upcoming John Denver special.

Our city is situated 120 miles east of Toronto. Citizens of Belleville extend a friendly invitation to all former residents to join their centennial celebrations, especially Homecoming Week starting July 30, which will feature exciting parades, moonlight cruises on the beautiful Bay of Quinte, ethnic feasts and band concerts. Of course, it will also be a time of reunion and family gatherings. — Mayor J. Ben Corke, Belleville, Ont.

Poisoned Pot: A U.S. Dilemma

THE NEW REPUBLIC
An Editorial

Every year more than 2,500 tons of Mexican marijuana finds its way into the United States, accounting for perhaps 70 per cent of the total consumed. In analyzing samples of marijuana seized in major drug busts in the southwest since October 1976, the National Institute for Drug Abuse has discovered that more than 20 per cent is contaminated by a chemical called paraquat, which is a toxic defoliant.

Where the chemical is coming from is no secret. It is traceable directly to a program jointly conceived by the Mexican government and U.S. drug enforcement advisers under which opium and marijuana fields in Mexico are sprayed from helicopters with paraquat and other agricultural herbicides similar, and in some instances identical, to those used to defoliate the jungle during the Vietnam war. As in Southeast Asia, hidden marijuana and opium fields are located by infrared aerial photography.

The program was originally designed to destroy Mexican opium, which is the source of about 5,000 pounds of heroin each year. According to the State Department, spraying marijuana as well was entirely the idea of the Mexicans. To be sure, the chemical paraquat is highly effective in eradicating marijuana — if the plants are allowed to sit in the sunlight and open air for a day or two after spraying while the herbicide does its work. But the Mexican peasants who cultivate the stuff in inaccessible mountain fields are inspired by a stiff entrepreneurial spirit. After the helicopters depart, they simply hustle out and harvest the freshly sprayed plants, immediately squeezing the leaves into bricks before decomposition can begin. Thus more and more frequently the marijuana that is sold in the U.S. has the poisonous chemical in it.

It's not clear just how harmful marijuana laced with paraquat is. According to the February 24 issue of Science magazine, which has carried the most thorough examination of the problem to date, the paraquat label states that one swallow can kill and there is no known antidote. According to Science, "ingestion or inhalation of one-tenth of an ounce is sufficient to damage major internal organs and result in a painful death after 24 hours"

However, NIDA testing of paraquat-laden marijuana — ordered by President Carter's Special Assistant for Health Issues, Peter Bourne — indicated that at the levels of concentration initially found on the imported samples, no hazardous amount was likely to be inhaled as part of the smoke from a marijuana cigarette nor a lethal amount ingested by eating marijuana cookies or brownies. But levels of paraquat concentration have increased dramatically in dope from recent seizures — up from six to 50 parts per million to highs of 2,000 per million. Furthermore, no one really knows whether there is any harmful effect from ingesting amounts too small to make you ill on the spot. The Environmental Protection Agency has warned that the chemical can cause birth defects, and all the concentrations of paraquat turned up in the Mexican marijuana greatly exceed the tolerance levels set by that agency.

Dr. Lester Grinspoon of Harvard Medical School, the author of Marijuana Reconsidered, points out, "There's no way for a consumer to know that his grass is poisoned or by how much. Nor is there any way to complain about it, because the government is putting the poison in. Whatever needs to be done to reverse this should be done immediately. The Drug Enforcement Agency should move to stop the spraying program."

Peter Bourne of the White House takes a more casual view. "I'm not sure there's any demonstrable health hazard of any consequence," he says. "People who disagree with that do so on a largely emotional basis without any scientific substantiation. I mean, we have nobody coming into hospital emergency rooms with toxic effects."

People also disagree about how much the U.S. government is responsible for the marijuana spraying. The official State Department position is that the entire operation is Mexican and it is important for their local politics that it be perceived to be so. We provide funds only for opium eradication. The Mexicans extended it to marijuana on their own, almost as a favor to us, it would seem. "Right now they are spending an inordinate amount of their resources on a project that essentially benefits the U.S." a State Department official told Science. "We don't want to disturb that." State also insists that we have no direct influence over the choice of herbicides used in the program.

On the other hand, over the past five years the U.S. government has provided $40 million in direct funding for the program, most of which has gone for the purchase of helicopters and other aircraft for spraying and reconnaissance. We've also trained aviators and mechanics, actually operating the infrared photographic equipment and advised in the use of chemicals. Drug Enforcement Administration officials often accompany Mexicans on the flights. The State Department has asserted that we allow the Mexicans to use the helicopters to spray marijuana only because we would have to maintain them in the poppy offseason anyway.

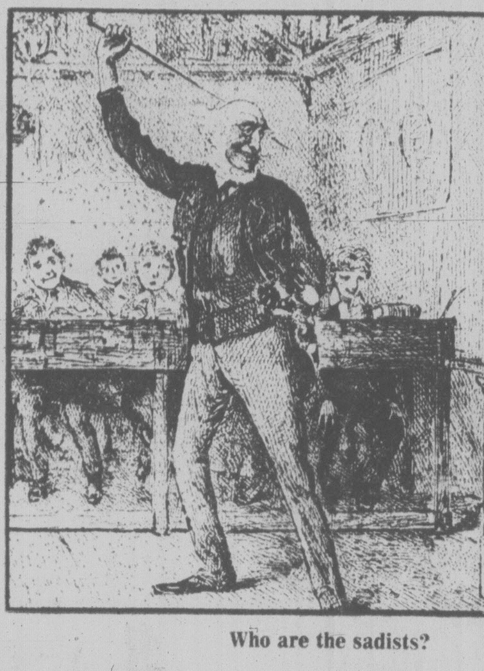
Opinions differ about what obligations the U.S. government now has in all this. The National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) believes that all U.S. involvement should be stopped until it is conclusively proved that the chemicals used in both the poppy and marijuana programs are not putting poisons into grass or heroin consumed in the U.S. Illinois Senator Charles Percy, who has kept a constant pressure on government drug enforcement authorities for nearly a year, takes a similar, if softer, position. Percy says, "The United States government has a responsibility to ensure that its actions do not foreseeably endanger the health and safety of any of its citizens, drug users included."

The Vietnam treatment

At the other end of the spectrum, some U.S. drug enforcement officials believe that the government has no obligations whatever: marijuana is illegal and the government has no responsibility to assure that illegal activities are safe. But if there is some danger, it is the direct result of U.S.-supported spraying operations. That much even Peter Bourne is prepared to concede. Does that imply any further obligation? "I don't think so," Bourne says. "If the risk exists the guy still has the option not to smoke the grass to begin with."

As far as the Carter White House is concerned, the little matter of poisonous paraquat on Mexican marijuana is "not a policy question." The U.S. government does not intend to suspend the spraying program, or even to recommend to the Mexicans that safer chemicals be used. It has done little to publicize the potential danger since it was discovered. Bourne says, "It's a health issue comparable to cigarettes, and we have instructed HEW accordingly."

Why Are British So Keen on Beating One Another?



Who are the sadists?

By JOHN RAE

(Rae is headmaster of Britain's Westminster school. He wrote this article for the Times of London)

When Robert Southey died of a fever on March 21, 1843, obituaries dwelt on his virtues as poet and biographer, but did not mention one of his more interesting achievements: He was one of the first schoolboy martyrs to the cause of humane punishment.

In 1792 Southey was expelled from Westminster for writing a vehement protest against the excessive use of corporal punishment by the head master, Dr. Vincent.

Southey was one of those boys headmasters publicly praise but privately regret. He had a mind of his own and the courage to say what he thought. Appalled by the headmaster's predilection for flogging and inspired by a revolutionary fervor caught from events in France, Southey started a new school magazine which he called The Flagellant.

The fifth issue carried his attack, though the article was unsigned. Corporal punishment was "so beastly, so idolatrous a custom" that "whosoever floggeth, that is, performeth the will of Satan, committeth an abomination; to him therefore and to all consumers of birch as to priests of Lucifer — Anathema, Anathema."

Dr. Vincent was furious. He bullied the publisher into revealing the name of the author and then promptly expelled Southey. Southey was at first incredulous, then embittered. He wrote to a friend: "I live in the charitable hope of one day dosing Vincent 'till I kill him." But the only effect on Southey's career was that Westminster influence closed the doors of Christ Church to him and he had to settle for Balliol.

In later years he made the familiar journey from youthful radicalism to High Toryism without returning to the controversy that had ended his school career.

The controversy has long outlived him and the anniversary of his death is a suitable occasion to unravel some of the contradictory elements in the debate.

Nearly 200 years after The Flagellant, corporal punishment is still used in British schools, though it may console the ghost of the Young Jacobin to know that at his old school the practice has fallen into disuse. Physical punishment in schools is banned in the great majority of countries, though not in those that have been penetrated by British traditions.

Why are the British so keen on beating one another? The question still arouses extravagant passions, so much so that it is difficult to disentangle evidence and emotion. This is particularly true when it comes to a discussion of the psychological implications of corporal punishment.

Does corporal punishment account for the so-called English vice among adults? Are those who use the cane sadists or is it — paradoxically — those who oppose its use?

The connection between corporal punishment and sexual abnormality has been known for a long time. Three hundred years ago it was a subject for broad farce on the Restoration stage. In Thomas Shadwell's play, The Virtuoso, first produced in 1676, one of the male characters, Snare, asks his mistress to flog him. "I wonder," says she, "that should please you so much that pleases so little." To which he replies: "I was so used to it at Westminster School, I could never leave off it since."

Swinburne, who was mercilessly beaten at Eaton two centuries later, could never leave off it either, though in his case the addiction was to fantasy. That thousands of other Englishmen have been affected in this way seems clear from the nature both of pornography and of the services offered by the oldest profession.

Does it matter? Not to the pimps and porn merchants, certainly, who have no wish to see normality restored. But what about society? It is surely a matter for concern that a practice in schools promotes vice among adults and that there should exist in otherwise respectable lives these sad, compulsive corners of abnormality.

An old controversy surfaces again in Times of London

Here the abolitionist case is sound. it is less so when it accuses those who administer corporal punishment of being sadistic. Indeed the vehemence with which the accusation is sometimes made raises doubts about the psychology of the accusers. After the First World War psychoanalysts interested themselves in the unconscious motivation of men who had refused military service and came up with the idea that pacifism could be a reaction against the individual's own sadistic tendencies; he could only live with himself by rejecting violence.

James Strachey was a case in point. His work with Freud after the war led him to believe that his own conscientious objection had been the product of excessive personal sadism combined with a violent reaction against it. It seems more than likely that a similar process is at work in some of the more extreme opponents of corporal punishment; that it is not the suffering of the victim but rather the chord struck in their own hearts that provokes such powerful opposition.

Does corporal punishment maintain good discipline or reflect bad? Its defenders speak of the cane as though it were a wand that could transform bad dicipline into good. But good discipline is the result of many factors among which the nature of punishments would appear to be of little importance.

The great flogging headmasters of the past, such as Dr. Keate of Eton, were remembered as disciplinarians but they were nothing of the sort; Eton underKeate was in a state of near anarchy and he merely tried to flog his way out of trouble. Corporal punishment was not a way of maintaining good discipline but of limiting the damage done by bad. Similarly, flogging was thought a necessary punishment in the army when the quality of recruits made the risk of disobedience and desertion all too obvious; as the quality improved and other factors made good discipline a real possibility, so the use of physical punishment disappeared. A headmaster who demands the right to retain corporal punishment is only saying that discipline is so bad that the least he can do is to try to contain the problem.

In this limited sense he may well be successful, just as the eighteenth century commanders achieved a rough and ready cohesion by the liberal use of flogging; but what he will not achieve by this method is the creation of good discipline

On their part, the abolitionists are not always honest when they sing the praises of alternatives to corporal punishment. Southey regarded the use of the birch as tyrannical and unjust but some of the alternatives may represent a more subtle form of tyranny and injustice.

The process of excluding pupils, by suspension or rustication, even the substitution of counselling for punishment, may not be as humane as they appear at first sight. In communist China, the rebellious pupil is re-educated by his peers, just as the worker with capitalist fantasies is re-educated by the street committee. No physical punishment here.

Is it possible that what we regard as counselling or pastoral care is the moral equivalent of political re-education and that corporal punishment, for all its apparent humiliation of the individual, respects the dignity of personality more than these?

To these twists that make the task of reaching a conclusion difficult enough, there is often added an element of farce, such as when Mr. St. John Stevas suggests that parental choice requires some schools to specialize in corporal punishment just as they might specialize in science or music, or when the ILEA announces that a survey of caning in Inner London will be carried out by a Dr. Birchenough.

Contradiction and farce do not however make a reasoned decision impossible. The case for abolitin may not be as overwhelming and unambiguous as some enthusiasts believe, but the case for retention is at best an admission of failure.

Southey's attack may have been intemperate, but it is difficult to escape the conclusion that he was right and that "so beastly, so idolatrous a custom" is overdue for a phased withdrawal from the British scene.

Plastic Garbage Kills Pacific Seals

VANCOUVER (CP) — At least 8,000 northern fur seals in the North Pacific are doomed to die a lingering death because they entangled in plastic debris dumped overboard from ships, Michael Bigg, a marine biologist, said Tuesday.

"We're sure 8,000 are entangled right now and it could be more," Bigg said in an interview from the Pacific Biological Station in Nanaimo.

He said they are doomed to die slowly from starvation, strangling, drowning or infection because of man's carelessness with plastic garbage.

Bigg said he has assessed the magnitude of the problem on an estimate of the numbers of animals which return annually to their breeding grounds on islands in the Bering Sea.

The problem started about 10 years ago when fishermen began switching to synthetic nets and mariners began using plastic packing bands instead of twine to bundle up their supplies, Bigg said.

The nets and twine of natural fibres would sink and rot but the synthetic material is virtually indestructible, Bigg said.

"The seals play with these floating bands and get their heads caught in the noose," said Bigg. "As the seal grows the plastic eats into his skin and eventually strangles him."

"We can't put a finger or any particular culprit because this plastic material is so widely used," said Bigg. "And Canadians are not the only ones causing the problem. Because of currents, garbage thrown into the sea at one place can affect many other parts of the ocean."

He said the North Pacific Fur Seal Commission, which is the governing body for the care and maintenance of fur seals, has launched a publicity campaign to make people aware of the problem.

Canada, the United States, the Soviet Union and Japan are the four members of the commission and Bigg is Canada's representative.

Canada and Japan don't catch any of the seals but both countries get 15 per cent of the catch taken by the Soviet Union and the U.S. by international agreement.

"All the members of the commission are going to distribute booklets and posters in an attempt to slow down this dumping of plastic garbage and ultimately we want to stop it completely," said Bigg.

Rustling Declines

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Cattle rustling has declined during the last two years although rustlers continue to be a costly problem to stockmen, says Henry Blazowski, secretary-manager of the British Columbia Cattlemen's Association.

Blazowksi said in an interview Tuesday the decline is because of stiffer sentences, low beef prices, range patrols by ranchers and improved RCMP co-operation.

The courts now recognize rustling as being tantamount to "stealing a person's livelihood," he said.

Sergeant Wes Knopp, head of the Kamloops RCMP stock section who in 1971 set up the province's first rancher range patrol near Vernon, said the incidents of cattle rustling have been reduced by 50 per cent from three years ago.

Airlines Hike Fares Before Official Sanction

VANCOUVER (CP) — CP Air and Air Canada are charging passengers increased fares for tickets on flights after April 1, even though the new fares have not yet been approved by the Canadian transport commission.

Current fare for Vancouver-Amsterdam return flight is $429, but the airlines are charging those who book for after April 1, $459, rather than asking for an additional $30 at flight time if the fares are approved.

"I wouldn't call the practice unethical," said commission member Barrie Thomson, chairman of the air transport committee. "It looks to me like they are simply following a practice they've always followed."

He said that it is "good sound business sense" and that it avoids bookkeeping costs that would be passed on to the consumers.

Commissioner J. T. Gray supported the airlines' argument that the practice saves customers from the problem of having to pay the increase at flight time.

"For instance, if you didn't know there was a fare increase, you arrive at the airport, there are relatives waiting at your destination, and you suddenly find out you need another $50 you don't have to get on the flight."

Gray said the commission hasn't "actually sanctioned the practice."

Murder Hearing

SURREY (CP) — Abdul Rahman, 22, will appear in court April 24 for preliminary hearing on a charge of second-degree murder.

Rahman was charged in the shooting death of Allan Aniel Nath, 20, of Vancouver, whose body was found in bushes here last November.

Jail Witness Won't Testify

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Kauri Hapi, 21, and Dave Bennett, 28, were acquitted in provincial court Wednesday on charges of buggery and indecent assault after Crown witness John Ash refused to testify for the second consecutive day.

Judge Ivor Bruhaug accepted defence requests asking for trial by magistrate instead of the original trial by judge and jury, and then acquitted the two British Columbia Penitentiary prisoners for lack of evidence.

Hapi and Bennett were charged after a riot at the penitentiary in 1976.

"My brother had no choice but to clam up," Sandy Ash, the sister of the witness, said outside the court.

"He'd been told that they'd get him, even in Millhaven (federal prison in Ontario). And he knew they meant it — that they'd ship him out in a pine box if he told what happened to him."

A threatened contempt-of-court charge against Ash was also overruled by Judge Bruhaug because he is already serving life imprisonment for murder.

HIKERS FOUND

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Three Vancouver youths who had been missing on a hiking trip between Chilliwack and Hope were found safe Wednesday about 27 kilometres south of Hope in the Fraser Valley.

A rescue spokesman said Allan Grant, 19, Yves Bernard, 18, and Ian McKay, 15 encountered deep snow and creeks with high water levels and wandered slightly off the Centennial hiking trail.

GREENBELT ACT

Notice is hereby given that in accordance with Section 5 of the Greenbelt Act the Minister of the Environment intends to dispose by way of a Free Crown Grant to the Provincial Capital Commission the Greenbelt properties described hereunder:

1. THE DIRTY DETOUR TEST
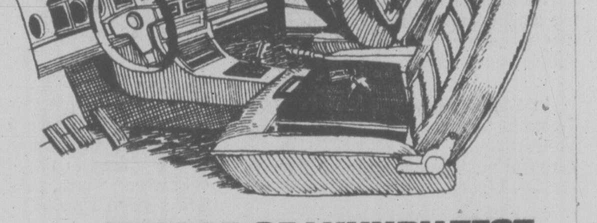
If you can combine a Dirty Detour with dirty weather, so much the better. These rotten conditions would be ideal for testing the 510's steel-belted radials, power-assist front disc brakes, pressure sensing valve, dual headlights, front, rear and side window defoggers, and wide 304 degree window visibility. While you can't test a car's rust protection in a test drive, be assured that 510—like all Datsuns—gets one of the most advanced anti-corrosion treatments in the industry.

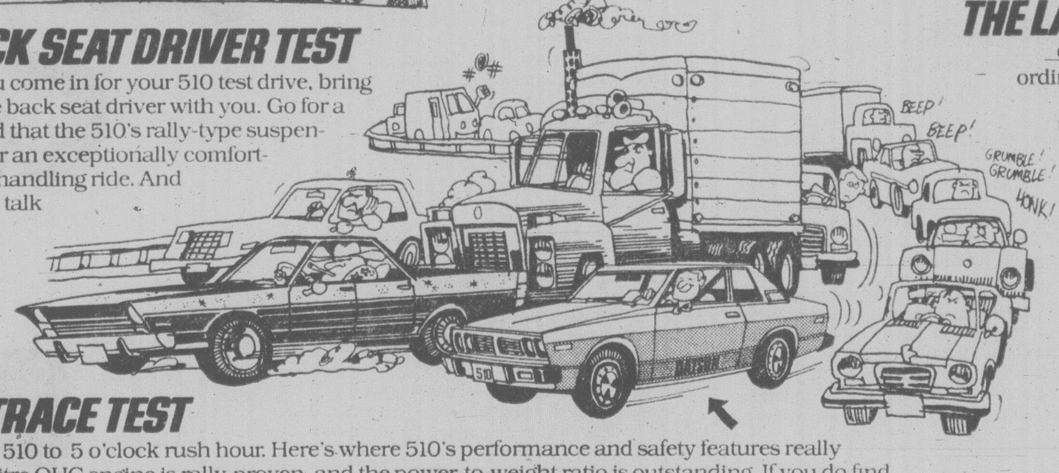
THE DRIVEWAY TEST
On your test drive, drive home. Do it when the neighbours will be home. Park the 510 in your driveway as conspicuously as possible. Wait for applause.



THE FAMILY SAFARI TEST
If your family motoring trips resemble a troop movement, bring the troops along for the test. Be sure they all fit in, bag and baggage. There's room enough in the 510 for 5 adults plus luggage. Or 2 adults, 3 children and a St. Bernard, plus luggage. The possibilities are endless . . .

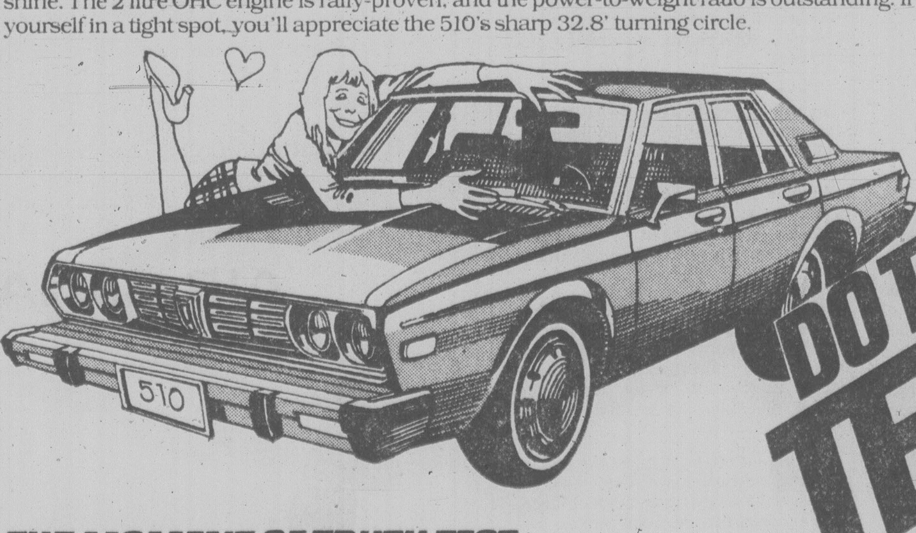
THE BACK SEAT DRIVER TEST
When you come in for your 510 test drive, bring your favourite back seat driver with you. Go for a run. You'll find that the 510's rally-type suspension makes for an exceptionally comfortable, smooth handling ride. And a lot less back talk from the back seat.

THE LAP OF LUXURY TEST
Get inside a 510. This isn't your ordinary family/economy car interior. Admire the colour co-ordination throughout. The deep pile carpeting. Reclining bucket seats. Fold down rear seat on the Sportback and Wagon. Check the dash for full instrumentation. The endless extras that are standard. Even in a 510 that's standing still, you could go on forever.



BEEP!
BEEP!
GRUMBLE! GRUMBLE!
HONK!

THE RATRACE TEST
Subject a 510 to 5 o'clock rush hour. Here's where 510's performance and safety features really shine. The 2 litre OHC engine is rally-proven, and the power-to-weight ratio is outstanding. If you do find yourself in a tight spot, you'll appreciate the 510's sharp 32.8' turning circle.



DO THE DATSUN 510 TEST DRIVE TEST

THE MOMENT OF TRUTH TEST
Compare the 510 with other cars. There are comparably priced cars. Then add in all 510's standard features (that aren't all standard in comparable cars), and add in the gas savings and maintenance savings. You're bound to agree: the Datsun 510 adds up to the smartest value on the road today. So, why wait?

Air Canada Nighthawks Raise Richmond's Ire

RICHMOND (CP) — Council decided Tuesday to call for an official curfew at Vancouver International Airport to prevent airlines from operating late-night flights.

The decision was made in response to an Air Canada decision to go ahead with a proposal to offer nighthawk flights from Vancouver to Toronto.

The company wants to fly two half-price flights a week, leaving Vancouver at 1:30 a.m. Return fare would be $202.

Alderman Harold Steves said Richmond residents are subjected to enough noise from the airport as it is.

He said there is a "gentleman's agreement" between the airport and airline companies which says there will be no landing or taking off between midnight and 7 a.m.

Steves said there are curfews at Toronto International Airport and Montreal's Dorval Airport and airlines violating the curfew are fined.

An Air Canada spokesman said earlier Tuesday that the company believes the ministry of transport will give it permission to go ahead with the flights.

The airline has promised to use the quietest planes available and to take off over water.

The proposal has also drawn fire from airport general manager Lorne Howell.

Meanwhile, a scheduling committee made up of all airlines using Vancouver International Airport discussed Air Canada's plan for late-night flights to Toronto from Vancouver this summer and decided to neither encourage nor discourage them, Allan Jay, airport public relations officer, said Wednesday.

Jay said neither the airport manager nor the scheduling committee "have the authority to tell Air Canada that they cannot operate the flights."

Darrel Smith, regional controller of civil aviation, said the flights are timed to avoid formal curfews at Toronto International Airport.

Compare Work, Teachers Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Elementary school teachers will be asked to evaluate their own courses in an attempt to compare the effectiveness of their programs with those at other schools, Walter Hardwick, deputy education minister, said Wednesday.

He told the annual convention of the British Columbia Teachers Federation that a pilot project involving evaluation of 30 elementary schools will be completed this summer.

Results will be distributed in an elementary accreditation guide to be made available to elementary teachers. It is not known if the program will be mandatory or voluntary.

Hardwick also suggested that other government ministries — health and human resources — accept part of the responsibility of providing programs for disabled children.

"Growth of these programs has not kept up with the demand in school districts but we feel that resources and services should also be funded by these ministries," he said.

Earlier, Hardwick said that although enrolment is declining, family allowance payments in B.C. increased in the first quarter of 1978, indicating that in a few years enrolment could be on the upswing again.

CURRICULUM PLAN DENIED

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the Council of Ministers of Education denied Wednesday that the organization is preparing to introduce a national core curriculum for schools.

Dr. Eugene Torgunrud, chairman of the council's curriculum committee, said in a telephone interview from Edmonton that members are reviewing all provincial language arts and social studies programs but not with the intention of setting up a standard cross-country program.

The Alberta professor said the committee does not have a mandate to set national standards.

Michael Herron, an executive member of the Canadian Teachers Federation, said in an interview Tuesday at the B.C. Teachers Federation conference, that the council was secretly developing a national core curriculum and work is in the exploratory stage.

Torgunrud said that for the past year the curriculum committee has been conducting a review of the similarities and diversities of public school courses.

Education Minister Pat McGeer said Wednesday that no province will be pressured into accepting the programs of another province.

"Certainly B.C. will not yield its authorization in the field of education to the federal government or to any other provincial plan," he said. "We may be influenced by their actions but that's the extent of it."

Core French Retained In Coquitlam Schools

COQUITLAM (CP) — The school board in this Vancouver area municipality has decided to retain its core curriculum French instruction in elementary and secondary schools and to adopt a new late immersion program for French-language instruction in high schools.

The school district, which has set up more French-immersion schools and elementary French classes than any other in British Columbia, voted five to three for the program, under which there will be 50 hours a year of mandatory French instruction in Grades 5, 6 and 7 in its core curriculum, as well as optional French instruction in the lower grades to kindergarten.

High school students again will receive 100 hours of mandatory French instruction in Grade 8 and will have the option of continuing with the same amount in Grades 9 to 12.

Retention of the early immersion program for elementary schools permits students from kindergarten to Grade 2 to take all of their instruction in French. Grade 3 students will be taught 80 per cent of their classes in French, with the ratio lowered to 50 per cent for Grades 4 to 7.

The only new program is the late immersion program, which will permit Grade 6 students in two or three elementary schools to take all of their classes in French next year, with Grade 7 students being taught half of their courses in French.

One senior secondary school will be designated as at least a partial French immersion school, with Grade 11 and 12 students taking half of their courses in French.

The decision ended a lengthy series of debates over the French instruction issue. Some board members had felt that the existing immersion programs — which include B.C.'s only junior-secondary immersion classes — were too few in number and in some cases, incomplete.

Lion's Gate Contract

The first of three contracts for renovations to the main spans and towers of the Lion's Gate Bridge in Vancouver has been awarded to Canron Ltd., Highways Minister Alex Fraser said Wednesday.

He said in a news release that the $168,775 contract is for a number of minor jobs on the bridge before proceeding with the remainder of the $32 million project.

Fibre Clue in Apt., Robbery Trial Told

Navy blue fibres were found by police in the bathroom of a James Bay apartment, a Victoria county court armed robbery trial was told Wednesday.

Sgt. Patrick Braiden, head of city police identification section, said four navy blue fibres were found on the bathroom floor and two on top of a vanity. They were sent to the police crime laboratory in Vancouver for analysis.

Two Victoria men, Harold Trevor Hughes, 30, and Roger Lindal, 39, are accused of robbing James Bay Inn desk clerk Walter Scott at knifepoint Sept. 1.

Const. Kenneth Dibden said he was let in the apartment Sept. 1 by the occupant, Jimmy Morrison. Three persons were asleep on the floor — Hughes, Kathy Wells, who testified for the prosecution Tuesday, and a man not identified in court.

Another policeman drew his attention to two woollen toques on top of a garbage box on the patio. They were dark blue, almost black, and were taken to Braiden.

Dibden sought and obtained from Hughes a sample of his hair and noticed a small blue fibrous material adhered to a hair.

On Sept. 2, he went back to the apartment and saw another policeman find a breadknife with a seven-inch blade in the bathroom and observed a number of wool fibres on the floor and sideboard.

Morrison, who said he is a retired schoolteacher, said Lindal and a woman introduced to him as Jean came to his apartment the night of Aug. 31-Sept. 1 but he couldn't say whether it was before or after midnight.

Later, Hughes came and was accompanied by an unidentified man and a woman introduced to him as Kathy.

He said Kathy, Lindal, Hughes and the unidentified man left the apartment and returned but he couldn't say how long they were away. Later, Lindal and Jean left and the others remained.

Shown two navy blue toques entered as court exhibits, he said they weren't his.

Scott said he was robbed of $114.70 at 4:30 a.m. Sept. 1 after he opened the door and found two men wearing toques over their heads.

One of them pulled a knife which looked like it was seven or eight inches long and said "this is a holdup, give me the money."

He said the taller of the two men gave the orders and the shorter man cleaned out the cash till. He was told to lie on the floor or he would be killed.

Scott said he was not able to get a good look at the face of either man but "figured" the toques were black or dark blue with slits for the eyes.

Shown two toques in court, he said they were "something" like the ones he saw.

He said he couldn't identify either Hughes or Lindal as being at the James Bay Inn.

The jury trial, presided over by Judge Montague Drake, was to continue today.

How Your Garden Grows

Growing a new lawn

With careful preparation, anyone can grow a lush, healthy lawn. Simply follow these steps:

1. Dig or till the entire area to a depth of at least 8 inches. A rough grade can then be established. At the same time, remove large rocks and debris.
2. If soil is deficient in organic matter, sufficient should be added (peat, mushroom manure, compost or good topsoil) to produce a loose, friable structure.
3. Apply Green Valley Super Lawn Builder 12-4-8 at the rate of one pound (.45 kg) per 100 square feet (9m²). This is a complete lawn food, also containing secondary plant food elements, and is pelleted for easy, dust-free application. It will provide immediate results and controlled, long-term feeding.
4. Mix the fertilizer and organic matter with the cultivated top 8 inches of soil, using a tiller, hoe or potato hook.
5. Rake soil deeply two or three times to the exact grade desired, removing small stones and debris. Then, again apply Green Valley Super Lawn Builder 12-4-8, prior to final raking.

PENN-HIGH LAWN GRASS MIXTURE

6. Broadcast Penn-High Lawn Seed mix at the rate of one pound per 150 square feet, being careful to spread as evenly as possible. Rake seed in lightly with backward motion of rake.
7. Roll seed bed with lawn roller. Keep soil moist for thirty days. Cut with a sharp mower when grass reaches two inches.

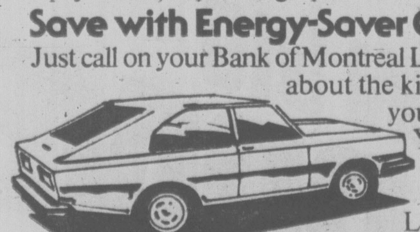
SAVE ENERGY SAVE MONEY

INTRODUCING ENERGY-SAVER LOANS. A LIMITED-TIME OFFER OF SPECIAL INTEREST RATES ON ENERGY-SAVING CAR AND HOMEOWNER LOANS.

Bank of Montreal believes in energy conservation. That's why we're offering Energy-Saver Loans at special rates until June 10th. To help encourage people to save energy. When you qualify for your Energy-Saver Loan, you could save a substantial amount on your repayments, depending upon the amount you borrow.

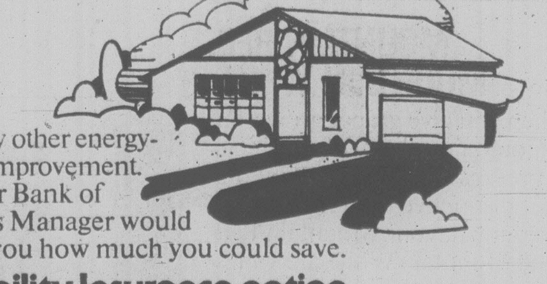
Save with Energy-Saver Car Loans.

Just call on your Bank of Montreal Loans Manager and talk about the kind of new or used car you're planning to buy. You can take advantage of the special low rates on Energy-Saver Car Loans if it's a 1975 (or later) model, and the average* mileage performance when new was 22 mpg or 35 km/gal or better (based on published statistics). Our Loans Manager can show you how much you could save.



Save with Energy-Saver Homeowner Loans.

We could save you money if you're planning to insulate, put on new siding, install a new furnace, repair your roof or make any other energy-saving improvement. Again, your Bank of Montreal Loans Manager would be pleased to show you how much you could save.



New Disability Insurance option.

Bank of Montreal now offers a low cost disability insurance option on F.F.P. personal loans. So if you ever find yourself unable to make payments because of sickness or accident, they can be made for you. While you're discussing your Energy-Saver Loan, be sure to ask about this option. And of course, all F.F.P. personal loans are life insured at no extra cost.

June 10th is the last day to save.

You have from now until June 10th to see your Bank of Montreal Loans Manager with your energy-saving idea. Now's the time to get moving to save money on your loan. And energy in the years ahead.

First again! Energy-Saver Loans are just one more way the Bank of Montreal is first with what you need. Whether you're planning to buy an energy-saving car, or make home improvements, see us first at the Bank of Montreal. But see us before June 10th.

Couvelier Raps Job Subsidies

Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier has recommended to council that the municipality withdraw its applications for funding under the federal and provincial youth employment programs, which might have provided as many as 136 summer jobs for young people.

Couvelier said in a news release Wednesday he is urging the pull-out because of demands by Local 374 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees that Saanich pay full union rates for most provincially funded and all federally subsidized jobs, as well as a premium of 69 cents to $1.29 an hour for playground supervisors.

Such demands would mean taxpayers having to absorb an additional $120,000 this year for work which need not necessarily be performed, the mayor said.

"Insofar as none of these summer positions can be construed as priority, I cannot in good conscience recommend that council accept these terms," he added.

"At some point unions must stop 'pushing' and 'whipsawing.' Our local is the only one making these demands."

Local 374 president Larry Newman issued his own statement explaining the union's policy of supporting a "living wage for students and other people hired under various government subsidy programs."

Newman claimed the mayor had agreed on three separate occasions to payment of the union base rate for all summer employees except plaground supervisors, and had acknowledged that the union's position was "just and reasonable."

But earlier this week Couvelier inexplicably switched to considering the union demands untenable, he said.

Newman said the union supports all honest efforts to reduce unemployment, but added:

"Eroding the living standards of employees, and making political hay by hitting those least able to protect and support themselves, is not a reasonable approach.

"Pay rates should be tied to duties and respect human dignity. They should not be reduced, as has been suggested by management, purely because of age."

Dial-a-Claim Plan at ICBC

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The Insurance Corp. of British Columbia will introduce a dial-a-claim system here on Monday, an ICBC spokesman in Vancouver said Wednesday.

Bob Egby said the system is expected to speed up service and save time.

Motorists will be able to phone the centre and report accident details to an adjuster, who will, if there is vehicle damage, make an appointment for the vehicle to be brought to the centre for damage appraisal.

Tom Holmes, ICBC senior vice-president of auto insurance, said the system will save time because the estimator will be expecting the vehicle.

Bridge Contract

A $314,000 contract for the final stage of the new bridge over the Englishman River north of Nanaimo has been awarded to Dura Construction.

AIR SEARCH A FAILURE

Three helicopters and two Canadian Forces Buffalo aircraft found no sign Wednesday of a single-engine plane, missing since Monday in south-central B.C.

A search and rescue spokesman said that, weather permitting, the search will resume today.

The plane, with two Ottawa men on board, was on a flight to Victoria from Penticton. Name of the pilot was not released, but the passenger was identified as Douglas Craig.

Lost Fishboats Search Spreads

The search continued today for two American fishboats, each with three people aboard, missing en route from Washington to Alaska.

A U.S. coast guard spokesman in Seattle announced the search began Wednesday night for the vessels Northern Lights and Nancy—L, neither of which has been heard from since they left port.

All points between Washington and Alaska are being asked to report any signs of the missing vessels.

Northern Lights left Blaine March 17 or 18 while the Nancy—L left Anacortes March 23. Both were headed for Ketchikan.

Weather in the area has been variable during the past few days. The two boats are in the 30- to 40-foot range.

Bruises Go Deeper as Unemployment Stretches On

off because you'll be able to make a payment in a week.

The phone company doesn't think much of people without money and a guy who's behind on his payments because he can't even find a job doesn't rate a lot of respect.

You won't be spat on, but to be reduced to begging for your telephone might make you feel as if you had been.

It's little things — like leaving your friends at the pub after only two beer because that is all you can afford — sure they'll buy for you but it doesn't taste quite the same when you know you won't be able to return the favor.

And then there's the landlord who calls to ask why the rent is three days late.

It's not easy to explain that your UIC cheque seems to be hung up in the mail. When you don't have to wait for UIC cheques, you don't really understand such things.

People survive unemployment, there's no doubt about that, but pride takes a beating. And for some the bruises go deep.

In a decade perhaps, Canada's current million unemployed will have found work. Undoubtedly they will have been replaced by others, but by then there may be something new in society — a true empathy for the unemployed based on first hand experience for so many of us will have been there.

When Peter Martin finds a job, for instance, he won't forget the period he's living through right now.

There are more than 350 unemployed carpenters and apprentices in the Greater Victoria area and Martin is one of them.

The interesting thing about that statistic is that this current jobless stint is the longest he has experienced since coming here in 1963.

Peter's case illustrates the fact that the country's current unemployment problem, like a spreading cancer, is beginning to hit those who have worked steadily for much of their lives.

There are about 850 construction employees in this area and 430 of them are currently out of work.

Fifty per cent of the Greater Victoria construction workers are unemployed!

For the whole of Vancouver Island that jobless figure lies somewhere between 40 and 50 per cent.

There are more than 21,000 construction people out of work throughout the province.

These cold statistics may not mean much to the politicians, the movers and shakers of our society or even to those colleagues of Martin's who may be fortunate enough to have jobs.

But they begin to hit home a bit when you pull one of them out of the hat, like Peter Martin, and give it some human coloring — cover the bare-boned number with some meaty facts like a wife and two kids, a mortgage and the usual bills to meet.

Martin is 42, and he and his wife, Deanne, and two children — a 10-year-old boy and a 13-year-old daughter — live in the Colwood-area home he built himself nearly four years ago.

He's been unemployed for more than a year now except for the occasional odd job and during the previous year he couldn't find work for six months.

He figures he has less than four months to go on unemployment insurance which gives him $145 a week.

After that, who knows? Maybe welfare, although Deanne balks at that mostly because she feels statements by Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm and others have given the impression that anyone on welfare is a deadbeat.

Both admit the biggest strain in their situation is the worry.

"We're scared," Deanne says. "We're using our savings up."

"Sometimes you can forget about it. But other times you go to bed and think about it.

"You just pray that it won't last."

But it looks like it is going to last.

If anything it is going to get worse, they say, spreading to other sub-trades like sheetmetal workers, glaziers and floor layers.

When he's working, Peter makes about $11 an hour. Living on $145 a week means all the frills go.

Meals become very basic. Nutritional, but plain, with maximum use of leftovers.

It means no holidays, no movies, no evenings out dancing, which the Martins enjoy. It means no dinners at restaurants with the whole family.

"We can't afford to go to McDonald's any more," Deanne says in a humorous overstatement of their predicament.

It means no more trumpet lessons for their daughter and no more automatic allowances every two weeks for the kids.

But maybe more importantly, being unemployed for long periods of time puts a strain on family relationships.

"You find yourself getting short with the kids," Deanne says.

"And I know there are times when we get snappy at each other as a result."

But the biggest worry is how long the money will last.

"We've always tried to put something away for a rainy day," Peter says. "But it has been raining too much lately."

And, he could have added, there are black clouds on the horizon.

A DAY FOR KIDS

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

The engineer's moustache fell off at a crucial moment and many of the squashed pennies were never found, but other than that the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway's 90th anniversary celebration ran smoothly.

About 1,000 people were on hand at the foot of Pandora Wednesday evening where 5,000 stood back in 1888 to greet the first train.

The gathering included Victoria Mayor Mike Young, Premier Bill Bennett, event organizer Ald. Murray Glazier and a host of other dignitaries representing up-Island communities, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the CP Retired Employees Association.

There was music and political speeches with promises to keep the railway running forever and ever, but the day really belonged to the kids.

Nearly $2 worth of pennies, nickels, dimes and an odd quarter or two went down on the tracks as old Dayliner 9103 rolled across the Johnson Street bridge.

As the train wheezed in it hooted, whistled, flashed its headlight and did everything but blow off jets of steam.

And it squashed the small change flatter than tiny pancakes.

In the excitement, the engineer's fake moustache fell off but he soon had it restored.

There was a big to-do up front when 9103 shuddered to a halt beside the waiting dignitaries, but the real fuss was back where the caboose would have been if Dayliners had such things. (They sure don't build trains like they used to.)

A flock of kids, and even an oldtimer or two, scoured the tracks looking for the flattened currency.

"Goodness grief," said one lady who was old enough to be the engineer's granny.

"My penny must have stuck to the wheel."

She wasn't the only one to lose money on the E&N — CP Rail's been doing it for years and that's why it wants to shut the service down.

The Canadian Transport Commission has ruled CPR can abandon the passenger service, but the original Jan. 31 cut off date has been put back until the end of June to allow the provincial government to appeal the ruling.

Premier Bennett has said he will pursue the matter through the courts and to the federal cabinet if need be.

Wednesday Bennett repeated that promise, saying he will fight to see that "this railway runs not for 90 year celebrations, but forever."

CPR wants to mothball the Dayliner service because it has been eating money almost as quickly as the old steam engines ate coal. Last year it finished $230,000 in the hole.

But Bennett has pointed out that between 1946 and 1974 the railway netted $136,872,358 in timber land sales and in 1969 sold 86,000 acres for $12.9 million.

CPR got a land grant of 2.1 million acres from the government when it took over the E&N operation.

But while the politicians made speeches the kids who'd lost their pennies were looking under the train.

"It's got to be somewhere," said one while his friend scratched at the imprint of the Queen's head left on the rail.

STOLEN SECURITIES FOUND HERE

Part of some $54,000 in securities stolen in Vancouver have been recovered by Victoria members of the Co-ordinated Law Enforcement Unit.

A joint forces operation Wednesday arrested Theodore Captain, a Victoria businessman, and charged him with possession of stolen securities. He was to appear in provincial court today.

About $33,000 worth of the stolen items had surfaced previously, according to a member of CLEU.

Laurel Pt. Freebie Friday? Forget It

Mention the word freebie and you've had it.

Town Talk Tuesday mentioned Laurel Point Inn's opening events, one of which was a free breakfast held this morning for cabbies and other drivers.

Scheduled for Friday is a luncheon at noon and a reception later that night, but by invitation only. The inn said it has been been deluged with phone calls from people wanting to know where to park, exact times, how many could come in one group and so on. Apparently, they were left with the impression that Friday's reception was a freebie open to all.

But unless you've been invited, forget it.

RECORD RUN ON FERRIES AT EASTER

Easter weekend travellers set records for the number of passengers and vehicles on the B.C. Ferry system.

The two main routes to Vancouver Island carried more than 38,000 vehicles and 130,000 passengers over the five-day period.

This represents an increase of about 9,000 vehicles and 27,000 passengers over the same period last year.

Extra sailings solved most line-up problems although some travellers experienced waits of two hours on the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run.

Contracting Bid Draws Union's Ire

Saanich council instructed its staff Wednesday to investigate possible cost savings by putting the municipality's janitorial and building maintenance services out to contract.

The move brought an angry response today from a spokesman for the Saanich municipal employees' union.

"They're liable to be asking for a shutdown of the whole ruddy place," warned Larry Newman, president of local 374 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

He said the proposal is yet another example of council's apparent willingness to "cut the working man down."

The concern over present janitorial costs surfaced during council's first meeting to discuss the draft 1978 budget.

Mayor Mel Couvelier noted that the janitorial bill for the three main civic buildings — municipal hall, public safety building and the health and welfare building — is now running at about $160,000 a year.

He asked if any comparisons had been made on a cost-per-square-foot basis with janitorial and maintenance costs in the private sector.

Parks administrator Frank Andrews replied that no such comparisons were available, although Saanich costs were generally in line with those of the school board.

Andrews pointed out that the $160,000 total mentioned by the mayor covered much more than just salaries and benefits. It included, for example, provision for repainting building interiors, repairs, moving furniture and similar work.

Finance committee chairman Ald. Dave Paterson moved the motion instructing staff to obtain tentative cost estimates from one or two private building maintenance firms.

Three other council members — Couvelier, Ald. Ian Cass and Ald. Geoff Vantreight — supported it, with Ald. Mary Casilio, Ald. Fred Severson and Ald. John Mika opposed.

Paterson said if the investigation showed only marginal savings it probably would not be worth the hassle of changing the present arrangements.

Couvelier said in that case the staff reductions could be accomplished through normal attrition.

But Newman said today he couldn't see where the eight or nine janitors involved might be transferred.

While council is concerned with eliminating lower-paid employees, he said, there seem to be more managerial staff standing around municipal hall with little to do.

Mediator For City, Firemen

Clark Gilmour has been appointed mediator in a contract dispute between the city of Victoria and its firefighters.

His first meeting with the parties will be next Monday.

The 115-member firemen's union and the Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association, bargaining agency for the city, have reached an impasse on the issue of salary and fringe benefit increases and a change in a job classification.

Union president Richard Brideson said Wednesday the firefighters are demanding the maximum allowed under the federal anti-inflation guidelines — a six per cent increase in a one-year agreement for wages and fringe benefits.

He said the city is offering a four-per-cent increase in the total package.

The firefighters' contract expired last Dec. 31.

The city says department heads have been limited to a four per cent increase and wants the firemen to show similar restraint, Brideson said.

"But they're talking to the wrong guys," he added.

Brideson said the firemen were the first group in the area to come under the anti-inflation guidelines and will be one of the last to get out. They also have been rolled back three times by the Anti-Inflation Board.

"So we aren't to be played with. We are going for the six per cent."

Lum Back in Politics To Save Industry Park

Former mayor Ed Lum announced today he is back in Saanich civic politics in hopes of saving the Royal Oak industrial park.

Former alderman Joe Bourque said he, too, is considering running again in support of the industrial park.

Their comments confirmed a statement by Ald. Geoff Vantreight that a slate will run for council in the fall in a bid to provide votes to reverse council's stand on the Royal Oak project.

The proposal to construct an industrial park at Royal Oak was defeated last week following a public hearing. Voting against it were Mayor Mel Couvelier and aldermen Robert Cameron, John Mika, Mary Casilio and Howard Sturrock.

In favor were aldermen Vantreight, Fred Severson, Ian Cass and David Paterson.

Cameron and Mika are up for re-election in the fall along with Cass and Paterson.

In a harsh attack on Couvelier and some Saanich aldermen, Vantreight Wednesday told the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce that property taxes in Saanich will jump about 15 per cent this year due in part to council's decision against the industrial site.

Said Vantreight: "If I ran my business the way Saanich council runs the municipality's business, I would have been broke years ago."

Lum said with increased grants from the provicial government there is no excuse for a 15 per cent hike in municipal taxes.

"They should be able to hold the line this year. Couvelier is not doing a good job and isn't providing the leadership he talked about in the election campaign. He is giving in to pressure groups."

Lum, defeated by Couvelier last November, said: "I have been sitting back, trying to stay out of it. But Saanich is being so badly mismanaged I feel I should speak out in the best interest of the municipality."

Lum said unless there is a dramatic reversal in council's policy towards industrial development, he will run for alderman in November and is determined to challenge Couvelier for the mayoralty the following November.

Meanwhile, Bourque said he also is considering running for office in November on the Royal Oak industrial park issue.

"There is no doubt the project is needed, and not just the scaled-down version of 100 acres but all 128 acres as in the original proposal," he said.

Bourque dissociated himself from the attack on Couvelier.

"The mayor is a businessman and he's doing a pretty fair job. But the Royal Oak decision was wrong."

In a speech to the chamber Wednesday, Vantreight said as recently as two years ago about 95 or 98 per cent of the people of Royal Oak favored the industrial project.

All this changed, he said, because of the activities of a small, vocal group — apparently a reference to the Royal Oak Ratepayers Association which organized the opposition to the project.

Vantreight said council is looking at land in a flood plain west of Roy Road to buy for an industrial park.

Earlier Ben Pires, the president of the Royal Oak Ratepayers Association, urged landowners to turn the property into a residential development as soon as possible to prevent a future council from reversing the present decision.

Consultants on Block To Keep Socred Peace

A Social Credit MLA said Wednesday he is considering firing two prominent members of the Social Credit party he hired as $30-a-day consultants for the Committee on Crown Corporations which he heads.

Elwood Veitch said in an interview that he is considering the move to keep political peace within the 14-member committee.

Veitch, the member for Burnaby-Willingdon, said Lorne Fingerson of L.A. Fingerson and Consultants, who served as his fiscal agent during the 1975 election campaign, and Norman Kelsey of N.B. Kelsey and Associates, were hired to do research for the committee's investigation into the affairs of the Housing Corporation of B.C.

"There are only five or six people in B.C. qualified to do this work, and these are two of them," Veitch said in an interview. "They are highly qualified management consultants."

The committee was set up to investigate the operation, management and administration of various Crown corporations.

Veitch said the two consultants are doing the work as a favor to him and are being paid at the lowest end of the scale.

He said that to date the two consultants have billed the committee for no more than $3,000, and they should be finished within the next two or three days.

Veitch said they were hired for their professional qualifications.

"I don't give a damn what their politics are as long as they are competent," he said.

"If their professional qualifications are being questioned, that's another thing."

He said he had also hired Peat Marwick and Partners, the same firm hired by the previous NDP government, to do research on the transit operation at B.C. Hydro.

All Boozers Aren't on Skid Row

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

He speaks with a rich Irish brogue that belies the 35 years since he left his native Ireland.

He speaks with experience about alcoholics.

He is one.

The man is Peter Tighe, a Roman Catholic priest who left his calling after seven years when he became an alcoholic. He has since beaten the bottle.

In Victoria to check on some of his former patients, Tighe is now chief counsellor at Schick's Shadel Hospital near Seattle.

The hospital, similar to one in Fort Worth, Tex., treats alcoholics medically for 10 days. A two-day treatment is given 30 days later, another one 60 days from the start and follow-ups continue for two years.

Tighe says he could have remained in the priesthood but honesty forced him to leave.

"Booze divorced me from a great vocation," he says. "I went through hell for a while."

TIGHE
. . . "I went through hell"

Now married with a grown-up son who is a successful attorney, Tighe uses every spare moment he has to try to educate people to the danger of alcoholism and to change social attitudes to alcoholics.

He met with Health Minister Bob McClelland on his last visit to Victoria and hopes to see the minister again before the year ends.

Tighe is convinced that treatment for alcoholism should be covered by the provincial health program.

He says two of every 30 patients treated at his hospital are Canadians, mostly from B.C.

"There's too much talk about drunks on Skid Row," he says. "Only 3½ per cent of alcoholics are on Skid Row. The other 96½ per cent are responsible people, hipped by the bottle — full of guilt and desperation."

He says the Washington hospital has treated many priests, nuns and ministers in the past.

Tighe says his organization has spent $6 million in research and has been operating for 43 years.

The organization hopes to have new hospitals in operation in the Irish city of Dublin and in Great Falls, Mont., by 1979.

Tighe is convinced the Schick treatment is superior to any offered in any other centre. He says the method used combines aversion and the use of sodium pentothal.

The aversion treatment is carried out by giving patients controlled amounts of alcohol, along with emetine, which prevents the alcohol from getting into the system.

"After 20 minutes the patient gets a little nauseated," he explains.

The hospital only treats 30 patients at a time, charging $2,400 for the two-year program. On the staff are five doctors, 27 registered nurses, 10 counsellors and seven pentothal technicians.

While Tighe works with the ardor of a crusader to help alcoholics, he also campaigns for more preventive medicine.

"If I had one wish to be granted I would have an educational program, not only on a national level but in our schools," he says.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was fractionally higher in active mid-afternoon trading today despite a decline of more than two points at New York.

Trading halts continued in shares of Y and R Properties Ltd. and Oxford Development Group Ltd. at the companies' requests pending news. Y and R Properties last traded at $15 a share and Oxford's first preferred A shares at $14½.

L.E. Shaw Ltd. has announced it will ask shareholder approval for the redemption of all Class A and C shares. A trading halt was issued about 11 a.m. for dissemination of the news.

Class A shares last traded at $7⅞ and Class C at $6¼ a share.

Anglo United Development Corp. Ltd. climbed 37 cents to $1.37 a share on the sale of 215,600 shares following its resumption at the opening. The company has reported significant radiometric readings in a mineralization zone in Ireland.

Among industrials, Asbestos Corp. gained ¾ to $36, Texasgulf ¾ to $29½, Inco A ⅝ to $18¼, Power Corp. A ½ to $12⅝ and George Weston Ltd. ⅛ to $16½.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were fractionally higher in moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Volume at 2:30 p.m. EST was 296,000 shares, compared with 529,300 shares traded up to the same time Wednesday.

Inco A gained ⅝ at $18⅜, Cominco ¼ at $25⅝, Bank of Montreal ⅛ at $19, Cadillac Fairview ¼ at $12 and Power Corp. A ⅝ at $12⅝. Dominion Textile lost ⅛ at $9⅜, Consumers Gas ⅛ at $16⅞, Aquitaine ¼ at $15½ and Imperial Oil A ⅛ at $19⅜.

London

LONDON (CP) — The continued weakness of sterling on foreign exchanges left the London stock market mixed near the close of light trading today.

The London Financial Times index of 30 industrials closed at 467.7, down 0.4.

"Leading industrials and oil issues were mixed, while gold stocks slipped lower with the drop in bullion prices.

Canadian shares advanced.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was down today, plagued by a "two-headed demon of inflation and high interest rates," in the words of one analyst.

One analyst said, "Inflation fears are running wild here." He added that large institutional investors are wary of government anti-inflation action that could depress stock prices.

President Jimmy Carter plans to announce a program to deal with higher prices when he returns from his current overseas trip.

Brokers also said that the broad-based decline in prices was a reflection of concern that the nation's money-supply figures, to be announced later, would show an increase that could be a harbinger of higher interest rates.

Airco Inc. was one of the most active issues, dropping two to 40¾. BOC International Ltd. said it purchased 841,500 additional shares of Airco, increasing its holdings to 6.6 million shares, or 54 per cent.

Du Pont Head Sees Low Growth

MONTREAL (CP) — Although the Canadian economy will show modest growth this year, business conditions will remain far from satisfactory, says Frank S. McCarthy, president and chief executive officer of Du Pont of Canada.

"Economists expect unemployment to persist at high levels, inflationay pressures to remain intense and capital investment in all but energy-related sectors to decline in real terms," he said in the company's annual report, released Tuesday.

McCarthy noted that under these conditions, Du Pont's earnings and return on investment would continue at unsatisfactory levels in 1978.

As previously reported, the company's net income for 1977 was $7,622,000, or 94 cents a share, compared with a loss of $2,142,000, or 29 cents a share, in 1976.

Du Pont's fibres operations improved in 1977, he said, due to the devaluation of the Canadian dollar and government-imposed import restrictions on fabrics and garments. After showing a substantial loss in 1976, these operations realized a small profit in 1977.

Islanders Looking For Another Boost

By The Canadian Press

New York Islanders said it was the lift they were looking for when they beat Toronto Maple Leafs a week ago to break a four-game winless streak.

Today, the Islanders are back to looking for another lift after New York Rangers upset them 5-1 Wednesday night.

"We didn't go out with the intensity we should have had and we lost," said captain Clark Gillies of the Islanders, who have won just two of their last seven and lead second-place Philadelphia by five points in the National Hockey League's Patrick Division. The Flyers have played one fewer game.

"Everybody has got to sit down and realize what we've got at stake and what we've got to do to keep it," continued Gillies. "It would be a darn shame to go all this way for 80 games and lose first place. The guys should be peaking for the playoffs right now."

Meanwhile, the Leafs suffered their sixth loss in the last seven games, dropping a 7-4 decision to Atlanta Flames. Montreal Canadiens beat Pittsburgh Penguins 6-2, St. Louis Blues defeated Vancouver Canucks 3-1, Chicago Black Hawks beat Los Angeles Kings 5-1 and Cleveland Barons dumped Minnesota North Stars 7-3. (Summaries on page 16).

The Islanders blamed some of their problems Wednesday on Rangers goalie John Davidson.

"I don't think I've ever seen John play better," said Islanders' Bob Nystrom.

In the game's first minute, Davidson stopped Lorne Henning from 10 feet after Pat Hickey coughed up the puck during a Rangers power-play. Then he stopped Bryan Trottier, Mike Kaszycki (who had gotten around defenceman Carol Vadnais), and robbed Trottier again as the Islanders centre rushed in alone.

Also lamenting the missed scoring chances was Los Angeles coach Ron Stewart after Hawks goalie Tony Esposito made 47 saves against the Kings.

"When you get 48 shots and can't put the puck in the net, then something's wrong," said Stewart. "You have to give Esposiito credit because he really beat us.

"We had so many opportunities, I shudder to think of how many chances we missed," said Stewart, whose Kings trail second-place Detroit by one point in the Norris Division.

Ivan Boldirev scored two goals and Stan Mikita added a goal and an assist to become the third player in NHL history to reach the 1,400-point plateau as the Black Hawks won for only the seventh time in their last 19 games.

Brian Engblom scored his first NHL goal after just 31 seconds to start the Canadiens on their way past the Pengins, who have a 1-8-1 record in their last 10 games. Steve Shutt scored his 46th goal of the year for Montreal in the second period.

Right winger Chuck Arnason scored a pair of third-period goals and assisted on another score as Cleveland beat Minnesota to snap a 15-game winless streak. It was the first win for the Barons since Feb. 17.

Larry Patey scored two goals in the second period to help St. Louis beat Vancouver and keep its slim playoff hopes alive. The Blues are five points behind Vancouver and Colorado in the race for the second playoff berth from the Smythe Division.

Willi Plett scored three goals in leading Atlanta over Toronto. Plett now has 12 points in the last eight games.

Blazers Lose Fifth Straight

By The Associated Press

Portland Trail Blazers and Philadelphia '76ers, last year's two playoff finalists, are heading in opposite directions as the end of the National Basketball Association's regular season approaches.

The injury-riddled Blazers, who beat Philadelphia 4-2 in games last spring, suffered their fifth loss in a row Wednesday night, bowing to Phoenix Suns by the embarrassing score of 127-94.

Philadelphia, meanwhile, put on its biggest offensive show of the season in routing Buffalo Braves 149-118 for their 11th victory in the last 12 games and their 24th win in a row at home.

Portland now leads Philadelphia by just one game—even in the loss column—in the race for the best record in the NBA and the home-court advantage should the two clubs meet again in the play-off finals. Portland is 55-21 while Philadelphia is 53-21. (See other scores, standings page 17).

Canada Turns Positive

WINNIPEG (CP) — The ingredient for success was simple.

It took a change of attitude by the Canadian entry and a little support from the fans to move the Medicine Hat rink into contention for first place after the fifth and sixth draws of the men's world curling championship Wednesday.

The Canadians, who jumped into a three-way tie for second place with victories over Keith Wendorf of West Germany and Bob Nichols, skip of the United States rink from Superior, Wis., struggled to a 2 2 record after two days of the competition.

"We came here as a team with a reputation of having won the Brier (Canadian title) on bad ice in Vancouver," said Ed Lukowich, the man who throws skip stones for Canada while Mike Chernoff directs the strategy from his third position. "I think we came here with a lot of people believing we were mediocre.

"We played ourselves down for two weeks; we didn't want to be hot dogs. We're not going to play ourselves down any more. We're here to win the title and we want the people to know it."

Lukowich made those comments after the Canadians whipped West Germany 9-3 in the fifth draw, with the aid of a four-ender on the fourth end. It was the fifth time Canada has scored four points on one end during the round-robin portion of the championship.

In the sixth round Wednesday night, with a crowd of 9,068 chanting Go Canada Go at every opportunity, the Albertans beat the Americans 8-6 while Jim Sanderson of Scotland beat defending champion Sweden, skipped this year by Tom Schaeffer, 9-4 in a match that ended after eight ends.

That left the Swedes alone in first place with a 5-1 record, followed by Canada, the U.S. and Scotland at 4-2.

"We certainly had to win that game," said Lukowich, referring to the match against the U.S., who dropped a fifth-round 9-7 decision to Sweden. "We curled pretty steady while the U.S. team was a bit off its game.

"Our win and the loss by Sweden certainly increases our chances for the playoffs. The game . . . against Sweden (an eighth-round match tonight) is a key one for us. We were very aggressive . . . and for the first time started playing as a team.

The loss by Sweden meant Schaeffer wouldn't receive an automatic bye into Sunday's final, under world championship rules. Now, the top four rinks will meet in the semi-finals Saturday.

In other sixth-round games, West Germany defeated Italy 12-3, Denmark topped France 7-5 and Norway scored three on the 10th and final end to beat Switzerland 9-6.

No. 9, Gordie Howe celebrates his 50th

Rogers Aids With Icing

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Three goals by Mike Rogers helped New England Whalers celebrate Gordie Howe's 50th birthday with a 6-1 World Hockey Association victory over Cincinnati Stingers Wednesday night.

And Howe, a hockey legend, was noncommittal about retirement.

He quoted baseball great Al Kaline, saying the former Detroit Tigers star had told him there were nights, near the end of his career, "that he felt good when games were rained out.

"I haven't gotten to that point yet," said Howe.

The former Detroit Red Wings star in the National Hockey League was feted before Wednesday's game at ceremonies that attracted sports greats like Kaline, Eddie Shore, Tommy Ivan, Bill Gadsby and Tony Trabert.

Howe's actual birthday is on Friday and the Whalers had planned an on-ice party for that day in Hartford, Conn., their regular home. However, the roof of the Hartford Civic Centre blew off last Jan. 18, and the Whalers moved to Springfield where they were unable book the Civic Centre for Friday.

Before the game Howe was leading the Whalers in scoring with 34 goals and 56 assists for 90 points and he added an assist one of Rogers's goals.

Going into Wednesday night's game, Howe had played in 72 of the second-place Whalers' 74 games.

He also held the following records: Most seasons (30), most games (2,252), most goals (1,028), most assists (1,457), most points (2,483), most penalty minutes (2,297), most years in playoffs (23), most all-star team selections (23), and most most valuable player awards (7).

Nanaimo Wraps Up Top Place

REVELSTOKE (CP) — Bob Dietterle scored his third goal of the game at 9:30 of sudden-death overtime to give Nanaimo Clippers a 7-6 win over Revelstoke Bruins in the final game of the British Columbia Junior Hockey League season.

The victory enabled the Clippers to finish first in the Coastal Division, two points ahead of Bellingham Blazers. Nanaimo will meet Langley Lords in one semi-final, while Bellingham plays Abbotsford Flyers in the other semi-final.

Aaron Rucks added two goals for the Clippers while Rob Clavette and Greg Adamsadded one each. Greg Adams were the other Nanaimo marksmen.

PORTLAND — The Western Canada Hockey League's round-robin playoff format allows Victoria Cougars ample opportunity to get back into contention, and the task could become easier if winger Curt Fraser gets untracked.

The Cougars suffered their second setback Wednesday, 4-3 to the Western Division-topping Portland Winter Hawks. Beaten 7-3 by New Westminster Bruins on Tuesday, the Cougars have six games remaining in the double round-robin semi-final series, including Friday's first home start against the Bruins.

Turning in a much stronger effort than they did in the opening game, the Cougars could be considered unfortunate in not faring better Wednesday. Stung by penalties in the first period, the Cougars carried the play to the Hawks over much of the final 40 minutes but were thwarted by the solid performance of goaltender Bart Hunter and some plain hard luck.

Fraser's slump hasn't helped the Cougars. The veteran and captain of the team, Fraser, a 48-goal scorer during the regular campaign, has hit for only two goals in his last 12 games. He had two chances, at crucial times in the late going, to break out of his slump but was stymied by an unyielding Hunter.

The missed chances didn't hurt any more than a pair of ill-timed penalties taken by Fraser.

Down by only one goal, 3-2, midway in the game, the Cougars were presented an excellent opportunity to get back into contention when Portland defenceman Larry Playfair was tagged with two minors and a misconduct. That meant Playfair, Portland's intimidator and best defenceman, was out of action for the second half of the second period and part of the third.

But Victoria's four-minute power-play situation was nullified only seven seconds later when Fraser took an ill-advised slashing penalty and a needless charging minor.

As it turned out, the differences in power-play success meant the difference in the game. Portland counted three of its four goals while Cougar players were serving penalties, and the Hawks' other goal, by Ron Chorney, came while Portland was shorthanded.

The Cougars failed to connect while enjoying the extra-man advantage for a total of 12 minutes.

While Fraser continued in his slump, Geordie Roberston continued to shoulder the brunt of Victoria's offense. The 18-year-old Robertson scored two of the three Victoria goals, including the first while in a penalty-killing role, and now has scored 16 in his past nine games.

Defenceman Mark Robinson counted Victoria's other goal, his second in the two playoff games.

Both Hunter and Victoria netminder Steve Amiss played well. Both stopped 39 shots.

Hunter's contribution is significant because Portland's netminding loomed as the team's big question mark for the playoffs.

The Cougars went without defenceman Leroy Heck. Perhaps the team's steadiest rearguard, Heck suffered a hip injury in New Westminster and x-rays were to be taken in Victoria today to determine the exact seriousness of the problem.

Elsewhere, Brandon Wheat Kings, the league's most successful team during the regular season, continued to find the going rough in the playoffs. Upset 3-2 by Regina Pats in their home opener, Brandon suffered its second loss when Flin Flon Bombers struck for three goals late in the opening period to grab a 4-0 lead and carry on for a 9-2 victory.

At Medicine Hat, Billings Bighorns overcame the stubborn netminding of Darrel Furmanek to edge the Tigers 3-2. It was Medicine Hat's second straight loss in the Central Division round-robin.

FORMER TEEN—AGE SENSATION ON COMEBACK TRAIL

Remember David Clyde? He's Back Throwing

By The Associated Press

David Clyde brought back memories Wednesday of the days when he was a teen-aged sensation with Texas Rangers who had signed him with a $125,000 bonus in 1973.

"Come on David, loosen up," manager Jeff Torborg urged from the Cleveland Indians' dugout. Clyde responded.

He responded so well that he wound up firing six scoreless innings in the Indians' 6-2 exhibition victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Clyde, less than a month out of Houston's Westchester High School, broke in impressively with the Rangers five years ago. He allowed only one hit in five innings and was the winning pitcher in a 4-3 Texas victory. Since then, his career, plagued by an entrapped nerve in his left pitching shoulder that resulted in surgery in 1976, has gone downhill.

After going 4-8 with Texas in 1973, 3-9 in 1974 and 0-1 in 1975, Clyde spent the rest of the time in the minors, including last year when he was 5-7 at Tucson. And the Rangers finally gave up on him this spring, trading him to the Indians. The new environment apparently has benefitted the 22-year-old Clyde.

"I've learned how to relax," Clyde said after allowing four hits, walking four and striking out one against the Giants.

"I'm a million miles ahead of where I was at mid-season last year," he added. "I'm keyed up, but I'm controlled. I was trying to throw the ball right down the middle. If I get by the first or second inning, I'm okay."

In addition to Clyde, several other pitchers were standouts in Wednesday's exhibitions. California's Frank Tanana went seven scoreless innings in the Angels' 10-4 rout over San Diego Padres.

Rick Wise tossed seven shutout innings as Boston Red Sox blanked Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0. Kansas City's Dennis Leonard allowed only three singles, one a bunt and another a bloop, in eight innings as Royals dropped a 3-2 decision to Chicago White Sox.

Montreal's Ross Grimsley and Houston's Joe Niekro each worked six scoreless innings as the Expos edged the Astros 3-2 in 10 innings. Fred Norman of Cincinnati pitched four hitless innings as the Reds nipped Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 in 11 innings.

And Don Gullett of the Yankees hurled three scoreless innings in his first appearance of the spring during New York's 4-2, 10-inning loss to Minnesota Twins.

After Tanana's sparkling showing against San Diego, California manager Dave Garcia announced that the hard-throwing left-hander had earned the opening day assignment for the third straight time, against Oakland April 7.

In off-the-field developments, Vida Blue, who has worked out with San Francisco only one day since being obtained from Oakland March 15, again failed to show up at the Giants' camp. The Cubs sold pitcher Pete Broberg to the A's for cash and a player to be named later. And players cut included pitchers Jim Hughes by the White Sox and Joe Henderson by Toronto, and outfielder Dan Norman by the Mets.

Schoolboy Rugby Players: Island Is Alive With Them

max low

Paddy Stewart is up to his ears in touring high school rugby players and warns that any minute now he might start tearing his hair out.

Stewart is vice president of the Vancouver Island Rugby Union and is also chairman of the committee responsible for junior rugby this side of the water. Though I imagine that at the moment he's wishing that last title is one he'd never heard of.

Spring, as well as being a popular time for romance is, it seems, a popular time for rugby tours. Along with the host of club teams wending their way west to rest and enjoy themselves after a hectic season in Britain, we usually get one or two visiting high school sides as well.

That's fine. Great experience for both the Islanders and the visitors.

Only thing is, though, this spring things have gone a little haywire and so many school teams are arriving that they stand a good chance of falling over each other.

Reigate Grammar School (from Surrey in England), which defeated Claremont High School 22-12 Wednesday, plays its second game at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Duncan against a Cowichan junior team before heading over to the Mainland for the rest of its tour.

A combined side from Downside and Sherborne Schools in England arrives on the Island Saturday, tackles a combined Oak Bay-Castaways junior team at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Carnarvon Park, meets the Island's Junior Tide Reps at UVic's Centennial Stadium at 5 p.m. on Tuesday and then travels to Duncan to play Cowichan Valley Juniors on Thursday.

Even before the Downside-Sherborne schools have left, The Dragons, a group of representative schoolboy rugby players from all over Britain, arrive in Victoria.

Formed in 1975 to give British schoolboys the chance to travel all over the world playing rugby, cricket and field hockey, The Dragons take on the B.C. Junior Reps at Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 9, meet the Cowichan Valley Juniors in Duncan on Wednesday and end their visit with a match against the Junior Tide at 4:30 p.m. on Friday, April 14 at Centennial Stadium.

If that doesn't set your rugby heads spinning, while this is all going on, Maison-La Fitte (a combined side from two schools in Paris) arrives on the Island for matches in the Cowichan Valley.

The whole thing adds up to a feast of rugby watching for fans who are quick enough on their feet to keep track of all those schoolboys. And as the old saying goes there's always either a feast or a famine.

As far as Paddy Stewart is concerned, it's just another case of a lack of understanding and co-operation between the Island Union and that old bogey across the water — the B.C. Rugby Union, which sets up the tours.

"We don't seem to have a firm policy on these things," Paddys says, "and that's why instead of a tour or two there's an influx right now."

I can certainly imagine the headaches that go with juggling such a number of teams and players, arranging grounds, times, billets and receptions. Still, they're all either here or on their way Paddy, so let's make the best of it. And go easy on that hair!

And I do like the rather eloquent words of Colin Galloway, founder and organizer of The Dragons:

"Only when you have been on one of these tours and seen at first hand the tremendous goodwill that can be created on and off the field do you fully realize the need (or even the necessity) for such tours to continue as vehicles of communication between the countries of the world."

Canada Drops Vital Match

BUENOS AIRES (CP) — Canada dropped a 2-1 decision to Poland on Wednesday in its final match at the fourth field hockey World Cup, severely damaging its hopes of qualifying for the next Cup competition in India in 1981.

Canada finished sixth in Group A standings and in a tie for ninth over all. A win would have given Canada fourth place in Group A and eighth place over all.

The top nine finishers from the 14 teams competing qualify for Cup play in 1981 in India and Canada now must enter a playoff round to decide the ninth spot, along with Poland, Belgium and Malaysia.

Poland opened the scoring on a first-half goal by Hacek Merlinger, but Canada tied it as Reg Plummer of Ottawa, taking advantage of some poor clearing by the Polish backs, passed to Bubli Chohan of Vancouver who scored.

The Canadians had the better of the play in the early going, but as time wore on, the bigger Polish team took control. Goalkeeper Sarbjit Dusang of Vancouver fended off numerous shots, including a penalty shot, before Poland finally got its second goal—on a penalty shot—in the 65th minute from Jerzy Wybieralskis.

In other matches Wednesday, the Netherlands joined Pakistan, Australia and West Germany in the semi-finals to decide top spot with a 5-2 victory over Ireland in a Group B match.

DESIGN ERROR CAUSED COLLAPSE

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A simple design error that should have been caught was the primary cause of a roof collapse Jan. 18 on the coliseum at the Hartford Civic Centre, an engineering inspector said Wednesday.

Inadequate bracing within the "space frame" caused severe overloads, said Charles Thornton, president of Lev Zetlin Associates Inc., the firm investigating the roof collapse.

Thornton did not blame anyone specifically and it now is up to city council to decide whether to sue for damages.

The 1,400-ton roof collapsed early in the morning under the weight of nearly nine inches of wet snow, crashing onto some 10,000 arena seats where spectators had watched two basketball games only six hours earlier. No one was injured.

Stone Grabs Crown

NELSON — Roy Stone of Trail captured the British Columbia senior (over-60) curling title here Wednesday despite having a previously-unblemished record spoiled by Ed McDormand of Victoria in the last draw of the eight-rink, round-robin event.

Stone clinched the title with a 12-3 win over George Lunn of Haney in the morning draw but lost a last-rock 7-6 decision to McDormand in the afternoon to finish with a 6-1 record.

Stone had to hit and stay against three counters to chalk up one and tie the game on the ninth end but McDormand drew to an empty house for the winning point.

The win left McDormand in a tie for third place with Bill Osborne of Qualicum at 4-3 after losing 7-5 in the morning to previously-winless Ralph Dangerfield of Vernon.

Osborn was beaten 10-7 by Fred Harris of Kelowna in the morning shift and the came back to maul Sam Golumbia of Vancouver 10-2 on the last draw.

Harris finished second over-all with a 5-2 record by routing Ed Gunson of Cranbrook 12-2 in the afternoon.

Gunson was fifth at 3-4 while Golumbia, Lunn and Dangerfield finished with 2-5 records.

Kiwanis Bonspiel

A total of 46 rinks will square off starting Friday in the annual Kiwanis mixed curling bonspiel at Victoria Curling Club.

The first draw gets underway at 5 p.m. and action continues Saturday and Sunday beginning at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m., respectively. The finals are set for 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

First draw for each rink:

5:00 p.m.— Page vs Stubbs, Wright vs Nygaard, G. Wilkinson vs Carmichael, Benedict vs Davison, Gar Taylor vs Perry, Oster vs Boescher, Leibel vs Bill Wilkinson, McDougall vs Wood.

7:00 p.m.— Peace vs Martin, Brown vs Nelson, Beasley vs Glen Taylor, Jesney vs Hooey, Schoep vs Holmes, Tarrant vs Wozny, MacKenzie vs Meechan, Begg vs Mosterd.

9:00 p.m.— Becker vs Smith, Clarke vs Coffey, Busby vs Schmidt, Macklin vs Sundstrum, Conn vs Paine, Ledoux vs Scaber, winner G.Wilkinson/Carmichael vs winner Benedict/Davison, loser G.Wilkinson/Carmichael vs loser Wright/Nygaard.

11:00 p.m.— Little vs Tervo, second games for 14 other rinks (check draw sheets at club).

Buttons to Gorge

Gorge Vale's Hugh Reid and Norm Parsons defeated Carl Locatelli and Fred Switzer of Uplands 4 and 3 to capture the district seniors' golf buttons in a match played at Glen Meadows.

Norton Wants Spinks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ken Norton was presented with the World Boxing Council's heavyweight championship belt Wednesday by WBC president Jose Sulaiman.

After making the presentation, Sulaiman said: "We will not allow power and business to rule boxing."

The WBC stripped Leon Spinks of its version of the title when he refused to fight Norton and chose instead to give Muhammad Ali a rematch.

Sulaiman said "the council was fooled by everyone involved" because both Spinks and Ali had agreed the winner of their match would next fight Norton.

Norton said his first defence would be against Larry Holmes, who outpointed Earnie Shavers last Saturday in Las Vegas.

In accepting the belt, Norton said: "I'm giving the opportunity to Holmes right off and would fight Spinks and Ali right off the bat after that. I'll fight any of them.

"The easiest way for us to settle this problem is for Spinks to fight me. But I don't think that will happen very soon. If I win against Holmes, I deserve the title. If I don't, more power to the next man."

NHL Players Told to Behave

MONTREAL (CP) — National Hockey League players who commit serious rule infractions while members of Canada's entry at the world hockey championships at Prague, Czechoslovakia, next month, will be subject to the same disciplinary measures they face during regular-season play, Brian O'Neill, executive vice-president of the league, said Wednesday.

At last year's tournament in Vienna the Canadians, immune from league discipline, were involved in several awkward incidents with opposing players, incidents that might have brought them before league officials had the infractions occurred during regular NHL competition.

The Canadian team members will not be known until their NHL and World Hockey Association clubs drop out of playoff contention. They then will be free to attend the Canadian entry's training camp.

Visiting English Side Too Tough for Claremont

Reigate Grammar School of England utilized a strong scrum and some excellent kicking by captain Nick Orlot to trip the bolstered Claremont Spartans 22-12 Wednesday in a high school exhibition rugby match at Claremont.

The win boosted Reigate's record on a seven-match tour of B.C. to 2-0. The club opened with a 42-3 romp over New Westminster Secondary at the weekend.

Ian Shipman scored a try and kicked two penalty goals to set the scoring pace for Reigate, which held a 16-0 lead at half time.

Peter Wright scored the other Reigate try and Andy Woodhouse supplied the balance of points with two penalty goals and a conversion.

Terry Cambridge and Harold Willers each scored a try for Claremont, which was strengthened by five under-19 high school graduates, and David Olson booted both conversions.

The Engish side continues its tour with a match against an under-19 Cowichan squad at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Duncan.

Liverpool Loses 2-1

Liverpool may have taken a vital step towards retaining the European soccer Cup by emerging from the first-leg semi-final match Wednesday night against Borussia Moenchenglad-Bach, who they beat in last year's final, down only 2-1.

Three minutes from time in Duesseldorf, the English champions shocked their hosts when substitute David Johnson headed a goal which cancelled out Wilfried Hannes first-half drive.

But within the minute, Rainer Bonhof hit a free kick past Ray Clemence from 25 yards to restore the West German's advantage.

In the other semi-final, Juventus looked like playing a scoreless draw in Turin with the Belgian champion Bruges until Italy's Roberto Bettega rifled home the only goal four minutes from time to delight the crowd of 70,000. Defences were on top throughout.

Holland's Twente Enschede was the only club on the night to squander home advantage. Bobby Neilsen's second-half goal allowed Anderlecht to return to Belgium with a 1-0 lead in the Cup-winners Cup.

Heavy Traffic Boston Forecast

BOSTON (AP) — Getting off the mark in this year's Boston Marathon may be as difficult as finishing the grueling April 17 race.

A record 4,100 runners are entered in the 82nd running, including 1977 winner Jerome Drayton of Toronto, American record holder Bill Rodgers and former Olympic champion Frank Shorter, making his first appearance in Boston.

The number of certified entries is a 25 per-cent increase over last year's record 3,200 total — with applications being accepted through Saturday.

About 200 women are entered so far.

Rodgers won the race in 1975 in the record time of two hours, nine minutes, 55 seconds. He has won several events in recent months, including the New York City Marathon.

Other former winners entered are Neil Cusack of Ireland, who won in 1974, and Jack Fultz of Pennsylvania, the 1976 winner.

The favored foreign entry is Kevin Ryan of New Zealand, who has run a marathon in 2:12:0.

IN STITCHES ALL THE WAY TO THE BANK

LONDON (AP) — Factory machinist Jean Ullyett, 41, bet $1.55 on soccer pools last week and was handed a cheque for her winnings Wednesday—$844,398.

She said she will give up her $76 a week job stitching plastic bags in Barnsley, Yorkshire, and take a vacation with her husband Albert and their six children.

Provinces, Ottawa End TV Squabbling

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — A federal-provincial communications conference Wednesday closed with many participants proclaiming that jurisdictional squabbles are finally being waged in a civilized manner.

Nevertheless, provincial delegations bickered for five hours after the meeting about what to say in a final communique.

Allan Warrack, Alberta's minister of utilities and telephones, said previous meetings were like shooting galleries but this one was calm in comparison.

"We've come a long way," he said in an interview.

Although no grand solutions were found at the one-day meeting, participants said a new sense of co-operativeness will dominate further studies between Ottawa and the provinces on cable television, pay TV and interconnection of communication services.

Jeanne Sauve, federal communications minister, said she regarded the meeting as an historic one and a great success.

"Indeed, because we succeeded in reaching a consensus on so many of the items under discussion, we were able to finish a day earlier than planned."

The closed meeting had originally been scheduled to continue today.

Most ministers agreed that Mrs. Sauve should begin a study on how pay TV should be implemented, although the majority of the provinces regard the service as a provincial responsibility.

Quebec Communications Minister Louis O'Neill told reporters:

"We feel the federal government should not even look into the question. It is only for the provinces."

Although O'Neill grumbled about federal policies blocking fulfillment of Quebec's cultural goals, he described the meeting as positive.

Dredging Trial Told of 'Bonus'

TORONTO (CP) — The chief Crown witness in a fraud-conspiracy trial testified Wednesday that $15,000 he used in company funds to hire a lawyer to make a deal with the RCMP was money he thought was owed him as a bonus.

Horace Grant Rindress, former president of J. P. Porter Co. Ltd. of Montreal, was testifying at the Ontario Supreme Court trial of 11 businessmen and nine companies charged with conspiring to defraud the Ontario and federal governments and the Hamilton and Toronto harbor commissions of more than $4 million by rigging dredging bids.

The trial has been told that the $15,000 cheque, signed by Rindress when he was president of the company, was to retain the services of Montreal criminal lawyer Morris Fish in January, 1974.

In the fall of 1973, RCMP twice raided Porter's Montreal head office searching for documents in connection with the Hamilton Harbor scandal, Rindress has testified.

Court has heard Rindress was told to take a three-month leave of absence from Porter after he had warned company director Bruno Desjardins they were in trouble because of documents the RCMP had found linking Porter with the rigged bid and political payoff in Hamilton.

Rindress said he spent the last four days in his office photocopying documents, which he stored in a Florida safety deposit box and disclosed 10 months later to the RCMP.

The trial, in its seventh week, continues.

Weapon In Court

SOREL, Que. (CP) — Police have tightened security at the Quebec police commission inquiry into organized crime following the discovery of a weapon in the courtroom Wednesday.

Inquiry chairman Judge Denys Dionne has ordered routine body searches at all hearings.

The weapon, which police said was the size of a large pen and capable of firing a deadly projectile, was found by security men on the floor in an area where journalists were seated.

The afternoon hearing was delayed about 30 minutes as officers searched everyone entering the courtroom.

The inquiry was told that a prominent businessman with extensive holdings in this industrial town of 20,000 was the head of a major criminal operation.

Businessman Marcel Salvail, 36, who also has holdings in Montreal, was decribed as one of several organized crime figures in Quebec previously considered "untouchable" by police.

Quebec provincial policeman Sgt. Carmel Patry testified that Salvail was linked to major organized crime figures such as Frank Cotroni, currently serving a long prison term in New York for drug trafficking.

Salvail, the inquiry was told, has been the main target of a Quebec provincial police investigation in several Quebec cities since 1976.

Police had found evidence of fraud, protection rackets, intimidation, extortion, and theft of huge cargos of such goods as alcohol.

The inquiry was told that Salvail began his career running a hot dog stand in the early 1960s and progressed to become a prominent businessman in this town 70 kilometres northeast of Montreal.

Sgt. Patry said Salvail used "unscrupulous" means to grab control of organized crime activities.

Mediator Sought

MONTREAL (CP) — The chief negotiator for La Presse and Montreal-Matin has asked the provincial labor minister to appoint a mediator in the labor dispute that has closed the two newspapers since Oct. 6.

The journalists, affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), have agreed to all but the monetary clauses of a new contract, their first since Dec. 31, 1976.

They are seeking a top rate of $400 a week for 1977 and $440 for 1978, while management has countered with offers of $380 and $410.

Did you get Unemployment Insurance in 1977?

If so, you have probably received a tax information slip (T4U) in the mail.

If the slip hasn't arrived...

If you didn't get a T4U from us, go to your local post office. Pick up a postal reply card to apply for duplicates. Fill it in and mail it. You'll get your duplicate T4U in time to file your tax return.

If the slip has arrived...

If you did get a T4U but need a replacement for any reason, also use the postal reply card. Mark "replacement" on the card in the upper right hand corner.

If the slip has arrived but you need more information...

If you did get a T4U and still need an itemized statement, fill in the same card. You must write the total UI benefits you got in 1977 somewhere on the card.

This is important. It will help us get your statement to you in time. You'll find the total benefits figure in Box "B" of your T4U slip.

"Do we HAFTA say grace just for stew?"

The Bridge Expert

A deceptive play by a defender can frequently turn out to be costly, since it can easily mislead partner as to the true state of affairs. Nevertheless, at times, defensive deception becomes mandatory if a winning result is to be obtained.

In today's deal a defender came up with a deceptive play that was calculated to deceive both his partner and the opponent, the declarer. On this day, it turned out well.

Both sides vulnerable.

Opening lead: Three of ♠.

West's opening lead of the spade three was captured by East's ace, after which East returned the deuce of spades. South misguessed the spade situation and played the ten, West's jack winning. For want of a better return, West exited with a spade, which East won with his concealed king. A spade was next led to West's nine. West then cashed the diamond ace, for the setting trick.

Had East made the normal play at trick one of winning with his king of spades, and then cashing the spade ace, declarer would have fulfilled his contract, losing just three spades and the diamond ace. But when East chose to capture the opening lead with his ace, and returned a low spade, declarer assumed that West held the spade king — and hoped that East possessed the jack. If the top spades had been so divided, declarer's ten would have forced the king, thereby promoting South's queen into a winner.

From East's point of view, he was quite certain — based on South's jump to two notrump — that South held the spade queen. But even more important, he was also certain that South did not have the doubleton Q-x: East knew that West had led from a four-card suit, for the four of spades was in dummy and East himself held the deuce.

Hence West's lead of the three-spot denoted precisely a four-card suit — and South was marked with the Q-x-x. So when east returned a low spade at trick two, there was no danger that south had just a singleton queen remaining.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Friday, March 31

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You get what you want with family support. Without it, you flounder. Key is to be diplomatic concerning possessions, purchases, budget. One you respect has a right to have a special item, luxury or otherwise. Change occurs at home and eventually proves beneficial.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If you simply mail things, nothing much can be expected. Key is to follow through — learn what is needed and fulfill it. No one is going to hand you anything. You'll have to make a grab for the brass ring. Pisces is very much in picture — and so are your fantasies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What is required is accessible. Know it and be confident about obtaining it. Study Taurus message. Get down to the basics where legalities, investments, leases, rentals are concerned. Capricorn is in picture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasize assets — get promises in writing, especially where distribution, advertising, display of product are concerned. Yes, the tough part is finished. Now, enjoy fruits of labor. Spotlight on partner, mate. Aries, Libra persons play key roles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You get new chance, lease, better working conditions. Your own style, ideas, creative capabilities will be utilized. A stubborn associate pays you tribute. Be gracious, but don't kick toe in sand. Means avoid undue display of modesty.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Speculation, affair of heart, emotional responses are featured. You could fall madly in love. Married or single, you feel more, sense your own potential and you have fresh outlook on life. Trust hunch, but don't allow gullibility to rule.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If approach is sincere, steady, you work yourself out of untenable situation. Gemini, Sagittarius figure prominently. Keep diet, nutrition resolutions. Strive for security by assembling on a solid base. In matters of speculation, you could be lucky with number 3.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You get solid responses to inquiries, calls, messages. Study fine print, read between the lines, take nothing for granted. Aquarius, Taurus, another Scorpio figure in your personal scenario. One who was evasive will become available.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What seemed out of your life comes back. Money, recognition for past efforts are part of scenario. Gemini, Virgo figure prominently — and so does the number 5. Read, write, express, be positive. Terms are such that you are not sold short.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get credit due. Popularity increases. Your ideas click. Be independent, confident, wear bright colors, make personal appearances. You have more vitality than in recent past. What seems a chance contact can prove of great import.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take advantage of delay in communications. You know something that others are only guessing about — you do have a definite advantage. Know it and play cards in sage, discreet manner. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently — so does the number 7.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Relationship is not going to fly away. It is serious and of longstanding. Know it and plan accordingly. Capricorn, Cancer figure in scenario. Accent on hopes, wishes, friendship, money that accrues as result of business endeavor.

IF MARCH 31 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have always been considered a thorn in the side of orthodoxy. You were apart, separated from one or both parents at a relatively early age. You are independent, have creative ability and are subject to what others term wild flights of imagination. Aquarius, Taurus and Scorpio play important roles in your life. March and December stand out as your most significant months of 1978, a year featuring variety, writing, change, love.

FALLOUT NOT HEALTH HAZARD

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal official said Wednesday that nuclear fallout over Canada from a bomb exploded by China March 14 was not dense enough to be a health hazard.

Rene Messier, information officer with the health protection branch of the department of health and welfare in Ottawa, said Calgary had the highest reading in Canada with 22 picocuries March 20. He said he could not explain the phenomenon because nuclear fallout can be affected by various factors, including weather patterns.

Picocuries are used by scientists to measure the density of radioactive particles in the atmosphere and to determine the rate at which radioactive substance disintegrates.

Calgary's lastest reading was reported to be .96 picocuries and dropping.

He said the reading over Edmonton taken last week was .07 picocuries — one five-thousandth of the internationally recognized permissible level.

Unity Conference Clarifies Problems

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Delegates attending a three-day national unity conference which ended Wednesday appeared to have obtained a better understanding of the problems facing Canada but were unable to reach agreement on how to resolve them.

The conference on alternatives to Confederation was sponsored by the Calgary-based Canada West Foundation.

The foundation was incorporated in 1973 under a federal charter as a non-profit organization funded by private individuals as well as the four Western provinces and the two territorrial governments. Its ultimate objective is to strengthen the position of the West within Confederation.

The 300 delegates were drawn from across Canada, with 150 coming from Eastern Canada.

Dr. Sam Smith, president of Edmonton's Athabasca University, told delegates that while solutions were not found at the conference, they had taken the first steps to finding those solutions.

"This conference has demonstrated. . . some awareness to consider alternate forms of federal organizations," he said.

In his closing address to the conference, Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed said the provinces should have up to 40 per cent of the representation on federal regulatory agencies.

He mentioned such agencies as the Canadian wheat board, the national energy board and the Canadian transport commission.

Lougheed told reporters afterwards that provincial membership on such bodies as the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission could be added to a later list of such agencies.

The federal government now appoints members to various agencies and commissions.

Lougheed said provincial representation on the regulatory bodies would be more important than having a revised Senate, as suggested to the conference by three Alberta political scientists.

"We've got so much at stake in a province like Alberta on the Canadian wheat board and their marketing strategy," the premier said.

"Don't you think we're entitled, as a major grain-producing province, to have a say in their strategy that is going to effect the lives of the people we represent? Don't you think we'd have a better and more effective agency if they had that sort of direct input?"

Coffee Dip in U.S. But Not Canada

TORONTO (CP) — General Foods says although its coffee prices are being reduced in the United States, there are no plans to reduce prices in Canada.

General Foods Corp., the biggest roaster in the U.S., said Tuesday that cuts of between two and four cents an ounce on wholesale prices of instant coffee should be reflected in stores in the United States within 60 days.

General Foods Ltd., the Canadian subsidiary, says it has no plans for similar reductions.

"We make our own decisons based on our own price structure," a spokesman said.

PERU TO PAY

Without being grandly expensive.

Don't let the new Empress Room fool you.

True, our Maitre d' sports a morning coat. Our tableware is silver. And our service is very traditional, very Edwardian.

Yet our prices are suprisingly affordable.

Entrees start at $7.95, and that includes appetizer, salad, dessert and coffee.

All of which should be food for thought.

STARVED BABY EUTHANASIA?

WINNIPEG (CP) — A panel discussion on euthanasia has been told a grossly-deformed baby born without a brain was left to die of starvation and dehydration in a Winnipeg hospital.

Dr. Lawrence Whytehead, chairman of an Anglican Church committee on euthanasia, said the baby was born last year at the Women's Pavilion in the Health Sciences Centre.

He said it was decided it would be wrong to preserve the baby's life. The infant was placed in a corner of the nursery, not fed or given fluids, and left to die.

"It took 15 days to starve and dehydrate to death," he said.

Speaking Tuesday night at a panel discussion organized by the Manitoba Medico-Legal Society, Dr. Whytehead said the decision was well-intentioned but the method was wrong.

"If it was thought inappropriate for the child to live, it was not humane to achieve the end by the method chosen. It would have been more humane to give the child an injection."

He said an estimated 500 babies are born grossly deformed in Canada each year, and many are left to die through passive euthanasia — death by starvation and dehydration.

He stressed euthanasia is practised only on babies that "even a layman would see couldn't function as a human being" and only if the family and medical team involved feel the decision is in the best interests of all concerned.

"There is a wide discrepancy between legal theory and medical practice," Dr. Whytehead said.

He said society is taking an "ostrich-like attitude" in believing there is a difference between active and passive euthanasia.

"There is no significant difference between a drug that kills or relieves pain, except in dosage. Does the amount of the drug make a difference in the types of euthanasia?"

Another panel member, Winnipeg lawyer Harry Glinter, noted the Ontario legislature has given second reading, or approval in principle, to a "right-to-die" bill. It would allow for requests to limit life-sustaining treatment to patients in a terminal condition.

Convicts Given Privacy

MONTREAL (CP) — One of three convicts involved in a 14-day hostage-taking at nearby St. Jerome says the trio gave up their six hostages in exchange for private visits by their wives and girlfriends daily for a week.

Lucien Jacques said in an interview published by The Gazette today the other part of the deal that ended the incident peacefully March 22 was that 15 French-speaking prisoners in jails outside the province would be transferred to Quebec institutions.

The interview, arranged at the request of Jacques, took place in his cell at the east-end Parthenais detention centre before the three hostage-takers were transferred Wednesday to a new special unit at the Laval institution, north of Montreal.

Under the visiting arrangement, Jacques said, each convict was left undisturbed with his wife or girlfriend in his cell for 3¾ hours.

"It's no fun going through all the checkpoints," one of the women was quoted as saying, "but at least we can be alone with our men here for hours at a time and without a guard looking in every two minutes. Once they are transferred, we'll only be able to see them twice a month . . . through a glass partition."

Jacques said that at one point during the two-week hostage drama in the basement of the county jail at St. Jerome, police drilled a hole from the second floor through the ceiling.

They were spotted by one of 15 inmates at the jail who stayed in their cells throughout the hostage-taking.

"One of the inmates . . . shouted a warning," Jacques said. "The mediators were called right away and told the police had better stop or nooses (for the hostages) would be made. We thought the police wanted to plant a bug or shoot gas into the room."

Omni offers you a spunky 1.7-litre engine featuring the Electronic Lean Burn System. Other standard equipment includes four-speed manual transmission, rack-and-pinion steering, front disc brakes, glass-belted radial W.S.W. tires, AM radio, high-back bucket seats up front, carpeting underfoot, upper level ventilation, cigarette lighter, bumper nerf strips and protective vinyl side mouldings. How's this for starters?

Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price for Basic Omni including dealer preparation and transportation for Victoria. License and applicable taxes are extra.*

2. YOUR CUSTOM OMNI.

Add on the dazzle. Now that you have your Basic Omni, take a look at the options. The standard Omni's got the works—so now you can add on extra style. Your style. Is it sporty? Then the Custom Omni will give you all the right accents with a superbly designed array of bright trim accents and mouldings—right from the wheels up. Inside and out, your Custom Omni adds on plenty of convenient and decorative extras.

SELECTED 1978 CAR OF THE YEAR MOTOR TREND MAGAZINE

3. YOUR PREMIUM OMNI.

Add on the razzle-dazzle! This one goes a step beyond the Custom Omni with a gleaming set of strikingly elegant mouldings. Inside, low-back, all-vinyl reclining seats (a suede-like cloth covered version is also available) and a three-spoke "woodgrained" steering wheel, visor vanity mirror and other thoughtful features set the stage for some of the outstanding Omni options such as AM/FM stereo radio, automatic transmission, power steering—even air conditioning. But read on.

4. YOUR PREMIUM WOODGRAIN OMNI.

Omni does it—naturally. For those with a taste for the country lifestyle, Omni has the handsomely co-ordinated woodgrain look. The Premium Woodgrain Omni is a natural for the outdoor life, and it offers all the advantages of the Premium Omni, plus distinctive styling. From Basic to Ultimate—Omni does it all with an imaginative set of interior and exterior options—all designed to make your personal Omni do it all for you.

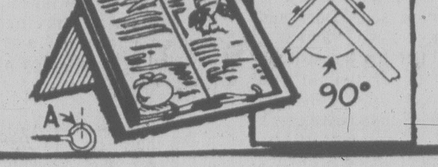
A RECIPE BOOK HOLDER

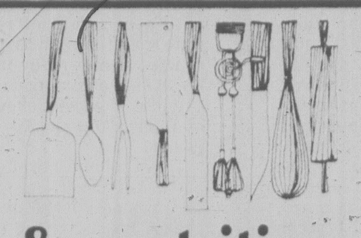
It's often difficult to maneuver a recipe book when you're using both hands to measure and mix ingredients. A book stand like the one in the sketch, however, will hold the publication securely while allowing you to see an entire page at once.

The holder either can be cut out of the corner of a wooden box, or can consist of two pieces of scrap lumber held together with corner, angle or shelf bracing. (The length of the back board determines the slope of the book rest.) The front board is then fitted with two screw eyes from which you've removed the section labeled "A."



Eating for Two? Then Don't Slim

Food for Thought



By DR. JEAN MAYER
and DR. JOHANNA DWYER

There are few times in life when what a woman eats is more important than during pregnancy; not only does proper nutrition increase the chances of having a healthy baby, but it also helps ensure that the mother will be healthy. Unfortunately, there are many misconceptions about what a pregnant woman should or should not eat.

One of the most common misconceptions involves how much weight a woman should gain during pregnancy. For years, women were told that they should virtually starve themselves to hold the weight gain to eight or 10 pounds. In reality, if you begin your pregnancy at or near ideal weight, you should gain an average of two to three pounds a month, for a total weight gain of 24 to 30 pounds. Of course, women who are overweight at the start of their pregnancy should gain less, and those who are very thin should gain more. If you plan to breast-feed your baby, you will find that you will lose the extra weight.

How did doctors get the idea that pregnant women should not gain much weight? In the days when many women had rickets, a small baby stood a better chance of a normal birth despite the mother's deformed pelvis. During the First World War in Germany, it was reported that women who went on a low-protein, low-calorie diet during pregnancy had a lower incidence of preeclampsia (a disease marked by high blood pressure, edema and protein in the urine) and toxemia than women who ate a normal diet and gained more weight. German doctors began advocating low weight gain during pregnancy, and other obstetricians in the Western world followed suit, even though there was no firm medical evidence that such a diet really was beneficial. Indeed, later studies have found that women who are undernourished during pregnancy have a higher rate of toxemia and preeclampsia than women who eat a good diet.

What should you eat during pregnancy? In general, a pregnant woman needs the same variety of foods and nutrients as the rest of the population, only more so. The old adage of "a tooth for every child" is not necessarily true, but if a woman does not have adequate calcium in her diet, she will sacrifice the calcium reserves in her own skeleton and teeth to build her baby's bones and teeth. To ensure that both mother and baby get enough calcium, the diet should supply ample amounts of such high-calcium foods as milk and cheese; vitamin D, which is in enriched milk; phosphorus, found in dairy products, meat and fruits and vegetables; and fluoride, which should be supplied by your doctor or dentist if it is not already in your water supply.

Vitamin A also is important to the developing fetus, as are protein, the B vitamins, iron, folic acid, various minerals — especially iodine, zinc and manganese — and vitamin C.

Most of these nutrients can be obtained by eating a varied diet that includes foods that are fresh or lightly processed. However, supplemental iron and folic acid are often prescribed by obstetricians. If your doctor decides that you should have extra iron or other vitamins and minerals, he or she will recommend as supplement. But let the doctor do it rather than take supplements on your own.

What we said earlier about weight gain does not mean that you can gorge yourself on all sorts of high-calorie sweets. You need to pack a great many nutrients into the calories that make up those 30 pounds or so. So cut down on sugar, candy, pastries and other fattening foods that have little or no nutritive value. Instead, be sure your daily diet includes plenty of milk, cheese and other dairy products, yellow and green and other vegetables, fruits, whole-grain breads and cereals, and lean meats, fish and poultry. To prevent constipation, a common problem during pregnancy, eat foods that are high in fiber or roughage (whole-grain breads and cereals and plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables), and drink lots of water and other fluids. As always, exercise is important, and unless your doctor advises otherwise, walking is a good way to exercise and get fresh air at the same time.

Unless your doctor recommends a salt-restricted diet, you can eat a moderate amount of salt during pregnancy. But it is a good idea to avoid heavily salted foods such as potato chips, salted nuts and anchovies.

More and more studies are showing that both smoking and alcoholic beverages are harmful to the developing fetus. If you smoke, we strongly urge you to stop entirely. If you drink in a social situation, limit your intake to one or two small drinks, such as wine.

SEAFOOD CREPES

Mary Moore

This may be the final recipe I will pass on to you from my Florida trip. I made it for a luncheon party for six of us, after which four played bridge and two played scrabble in the sunshine on the verandah. (As in the song "Summertime, when the livin' is easy.")

BENGALESE SEAFOOD CREPES

Crepes:
3 eggs
10 tbsp. (½ cup plus 2 Tbsp.) all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. salt
1½ cups milk.

Filling:
1 4½-oz. can baby shrimp (reserve liquid)
1 4½-oz. can crabmeat (reserve any liquid)
1 Tbsp. butter
1 Tbsp. chopped onion
½ to 1 tsp. curry powder
½ cup white wine.

Sauce:
2½ Tbsp. butter
5 Tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
1 cup milk
¼ cup brine drained from seafoods above
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 Tbsp. milk

To make crepes beat crepe ingredients together until smooth. (Crepes may be made well in advance of meal.) Using a 5½" diameter crepe pan add and melt ½ teaspoon butter to grease bottom. Using ¼ cup measure scantily fill it and pour into hot buttered crepe pan to cover bottom and cook until bottom is pale, gold, flip over and cook other side. Lift to holding plate and continue frying, one crepe at a time, until all batter is used up, rebuttering pan each time. You should have twelve. (Store, slightly overlapping, on carefuly covered plate in refrigerator if made ahead of time.)

To make filling drain shrimp and crabmeat and reserve ¼ cup of their brine. In a pot combine shrimp, crabmeat broken up a bit, butter, onion, curry powder and wine. Gently heat stirring for 5 minutes. Set aside.

To make sauce blend butter, flour and salt thoroughly then stir in milk and brine and cook, stirring, until thick. Remove from heat and stir ONE CUP of this sauce into shrimp mixture. Cool to room temperature.

Select a large shallow baking dish and place one crepe in it. Spoon about 3 Tbsp. filling onto crepe and cover it with side flaps. Move to end of dish, flap side down. Continue working neatly, until all crepes are filled and touching closely in baking dish. You will have to place two lengthwise at sides. To remaining sauce add the mayonnaise and milk and spread evenly over all. NOTE: If desired some grated mild or Parmesan cheese may be sprinkled over. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 15 minutes or until bubbly. Carefully serve with two narrow lifters onto preheated plates to six people.

CANNED FOOD EDIBLE EVEN AFTER FREEZING

QUESTION:
Can cans of food that have been frozen be safely used?

ANSWER:
As long as the seams of the can show no signs of breaking, the food is safe to use. During the freezing, the contents of the can expanded causing strain on the can seams, therefore the food should be used as quickly as possible. You may, however, notice a deterioration in the texture of the food.

QUESTION:
Do mushrooms contain any nutrients?

ANSWER:
Yes, mushrooms contain substancial amounts of potassium, iron, thiamin, riboflavin and niacin. For example, four large or ten small fresh mushrooms will contain 414 mg. potassium; 0.8 gm. iron, 0.05 mg. thiamin, 0.28 mg. riboflavin and 2.9 mg. niacin. This amount of mushrooms will also contain 2.7 gms. of protein but the protein is incomplete. That means it does not contain all the essential amino acids (protein components), that the body requires for cell growth and repair. However, when you serve mushrooms at a meal that contains such foods as meat, fish, eggs, milk or cheese, you will be obtaining complete protein. Also green peas, lima beans, brussel sprouts and broccoli will furnish the essential amino acids missing in the mushroom. For example, a dish which combines green peas and mushrooms will supply complete protein. Mushrooms, if they are prepared without fat, or eaten raw are a help to anyone on a weight reduction diet. The amount mentioned previously contain only 28 calories!

QUESTION:
What are the harmful effects of taking large doses of vitamin D supplements?

ANSWER:
Taking as little as 5 times the amount of vitamin D recommended by the Dietary Standard for Canada over a long period of time can produce a vitamin D toxicity. The daily recommendations for children up to age four is 400 I.U.s. children age four to six years 200 I.U.s and older children and adults, 100 I.U.s The symptoms of vitamin D toxicity include, abnormal calcium metabolism, the deposits of calcium salts in soft body tissue such as lungs and kidneys and gastrointestinal upsets.

Very few people require vitamin D supplements. Vitamin D is added to fluid milk, evaporated milk and skim milk powder. People who consume the amount of milk outlined in Canada's Food Gide will obtain adequate vitamin D.

Fun in Retirement Taught

elizabeth forbes

A letter from friends Pearl and Doris Clark in Hamilton, Ontario, tells me they are into their seventh successful year with a program of retirement planning courses sponsored by the faculty of continuing education at Mohawk College of Applied Arts and Technology.

They enclosed a printed outline of those courses and it is so interesting I cannot resist passing on some of the information here.

Perhaps . . . just perhaps . . . in reading, someone will pick up the idea and start something the same in this vicinity.

Sisters of Canada's well-known food expert, Mary Moore, whose popular recipe column appears regularly in the Victoria Times, both Pearl and Doris have been active in other fields of endeavour.

Doris was a seasoned social worker and also wrote a daily column in newspapers across Canada with the purpose of interpreting social work and social work services and to give help and advice to those seeking it through correspondence.

Pearl was agent over many years, for the popular silver souvenir spoons that commemorate special Canadian anniversaries and people.

As time went on they became interested in retirement planning and finally decided to do something constructive about it. Today they put on three courses a year at Mohawk College — spring, autumn and winter — Thursday evenings for six weeks, each time.

Those attending mostly range between 50 and 60 years of age, Doris and Pearl tell me.

They are the kind of people who recognize they need to know something about how retirement will go, also that courses on the subject can offer good ideas.

When they register many of them dread to even think of retiring from their job. They wonder what on earth they will do all day.

By the time the course is concluded they have had an opportunity to think things through and to pretty well eliminate any fear of the future.

The program is planned around the idea of personal growth and development in mature years.

It includes lecture-discussions, role-playing and "plenty of time for talk."

Husbands and wives are invited to attend together and singles (widows, widowers, unmarrieds) are also welcomed and encouraged to air their fears and problems.

Finance, community service, travel, home life, keeping fit and spiritual values are all debated and discussed.

Lectures on health, how to keep fit and how to understand what happens to an aging body, are given by a qualified woman medical doctor.

Weight problems, exercise, amount of necessary sleep, digestion, sex, alcohol, tobacco, mental health and widowhood are all taken up in this part of the course.

A professor from McMaster University divinity college conducts talks on a satisfying spiritual philosophy.

He does a good job of telling people about changing values as they grow older and points out that sooner or later we have to come to terms with ourselves, the Clark sisters say.

He also stresses the importance of a husband and wife keeping open discussions about serious things like illness, dying and death while they are both in good health.

The courses have sessions too, on relationships with other people "as we get older" and the way the public looks at the older person.

"No older person should be looked upon as just a nuisance or a sort of non-person," Doris and Pearl believe, "and that is all to often the attitude of younger people and even of our contemporaries themselves."

As to compulsory retirement at the arbitrary age of 65, they both think it is "complete nonsense and it is really cruel."

They say — "people should be allowed to work as long as they are healthy, because some people are so much younger than other people at various ages, and also they have a greater love of life and of being active."

Activity, they contend "is really the answer to a happy retirement."

Both Pearl and Doris are themselves well into senior citizens years now. One is 77 and the other 68.

In their letter to me they say "we co-ordinate these evening courses and work together as a team.

"We learn an awful lot about the process of aging, how to handle our finances and just how to keep fit.

"We recognize it when our energy is depleted and we rest. We know there are aches and pains that go with aging and we pay as little attention to them as possible, while at the same time having regular check-ups and the kind of help which a doctor can give."

Sounds as if they have found the answer to that old bugaboo of growing old, doesn't it?

Also, that in their retirement planning courses, they are passing on the message to others who are looking for a way to meet advancing years with courage and anticipation instead of fear and dread.

An Elegant Baked Apple

craig claiborne

Although baked apples may seem like nothing but good, plain, honest and ordinary home cooking, the fact is that they can be turned into a dessert as elegant and fancy as you might wish. Years ago, when Le Pavillon Restaurant was in its heyday as a place of splendor and excellence, the pastry chef's baked apples occupied a place alongside the chilled oeufs a la neige, the mousses au chocolat, the mille-feuilles and gateaux St. Honore on the cold dessert display. These were not the sort of baked apples likely to be found in a roadside diner. Rather, they were apple halves first poached in syrup, next filled with cooked fruits according to the season — at times, in midwinter, candied fruits were chopped and used — and then topped with pastry cream and baked. For home-baked apples with a difference, here is that recipe.

BAKED APPLES PAVILLON

5 medium-to-large-size apples, about two pounds
1 cup water
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons honey
Juice of half a lemon
1½ cups bananas cut into half-inch cubes (cut from about two bananas), or crushed pineapple
¼ cup chopped ginger in syrup (sold in bottles), or crystallized ginger; or use an equal amount of kumquats in syrup
2 tablespoons juice from the bottles of ginger or kumquats in syrup
3 cups creme patissiere (see recipe)
2 tablespoons dark rum
3 tablespoons crumbs made from ladyfingers, spongecake or any firm-textured cookies or cake make with vanilla.

1. Peel the apples and split them in half lengthwise. Using a melon ball cutter, scoop out the core of each apple. Trim away and discard the stem line leading from the core.

2. Combine the water, sugar, honey and lemon juice in a skillet large enough to hold the apple halves in one layer. Add the apple halves and cook, turning gently once or twice so that the apples cook evenly. Poach them about five to eight minutes until just cooked. Do not overcook or they will become mushy.

3. Let the apple halves cool. Drain them upside down on a rack, but do not discard the cooking syrup.

4. Preheat the oven to 450 degrees F.

5. Add the cubed bananas, chopped ginger and ginger syrup to a saucepan. Add half a cup of the syrup in which the apples cooked. Bring to the boil and remove from the heat. Let cool. It will thicken slightly as it stands.

6. Arrange the apple halves cored side up on a baking dish large enough to hold them in one layer.

7. Spoon equal portions of the fruit mixture into and over the centre of each apple half.

8. Blend the pastry cream with the rum and half a cup of reserved syrup from the cooked apples. If not wanted, discard the remaining apple syrup.

9. Spoon the pastry cream over the filled apple halves. Sprinkle with the crumbs.

10. Place in the oven and bake 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot or lukewarm.

CREME PATISSIERE
(pastry cream)

1½ cups milk
½ cup heavy cream
4 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch

1. Blend one cup of the milk and the cream in a saucepan and bring to the boil.

2. As the liquid is heating, add the egg yolks and sugar to a mixing bowl and beat until pale yellow.

3. Add the cornstarch to the yolk mixture and beat well. Add the remaining half cup of milk and beat until blended.

4. When the milk and cream are at the boil, remove from the heat. Add the yolk mixture, beating rapidly with a wire whisk.

5. Return to the heat and bring to the boil, stirring constantly with the whisk. When thickened and at the boil, remove from the heat and let cool, stirring occasionally.

Yield: about three cups.

OYSTER FRITTERS

½ to 1 pt. oysters, well drained, chopped
1¾ cups all-purpose flour
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
1 tbsp. melted shortening
2 tbsp. finely chopped onion
Seafood cocktail sauce (or tartar sauce)

Chop oysters; set aside. Into bowl, sift flour; measure; add baking powder and salt; sift again. In separate bowl, combine beaten egg, milk, and melted shortening. Pour egg mixture into dry ingredients; stir just until smooth. Stir in well drained, chopped oysters and onions. Drop batter by tablespoonfuls into deep hot fat (365°F to 375°F); fry for 3 to 5 minutes or until nicely browned on all sides. Turn fritters as they rise to surface; drain well on paper towels. Serve with seafood cocktail sauce or tartar sauce. Makes 6 servings.

High Blood Pressure Tied to Salt

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have high blood pressure. It came as a shocking surprise when I found this out. Does anybody know why high blood pressure should happen to a person like myself? I am 44 years old, an active sportsman and otherwise in good health. — Mr. M.B.

Dear Mr. B.:

Many of the secrets of high blood pressure have been revealed in the last 25 years. Scientific studies all over the world continue to provide bits of information that will eventually make hypertension, or high blood pressure, a controllable disorder.

You are one of the fortunate ones who have found out that you have this condition. Many people complain of a variety of symptoms without knowing that they have hypertension until some complication arises. It is for this reason that all educational campaigns are aimed at flushing out of hiding unsuspected hypertension.

It is an accepted fact that the frequency and severity of high blood pressure could be reduced if people would change their eating habits and patterns of living. By lowering the fatty intake of the diet reducing the salt intake and giving up tobacco, the risk of high blood pressure and heart attacks could be markedly lessened.

It has been found, for example, that high blood pressure in adults is virtually non-existent in the South Pacific Islands, where the average salt intake is less than one gram a day. By comparison with these significant statistics, in America, where 15 per cent of the population have high blood pressure, the average consumption of salt is 20 grams a day.

In Japan, where even more salt is consumed daily, more than 30 per cent of the population has high blood pressure.

Perhaps these facts may play an important role in the education of the public and will subsequently reflect in the lower incidence of high blood pressure.

I have arthritis of the knee joints that keeps me house bound. I read that hip joints can be replaced and that people can again walk normally. Can this also be done with arthritic knees? — Mrs. E.S.

Dear Mrs. S.:

The advances made in hip joint replacement have, indeed, been translated to the creation of artificial knees. New devices and surgical techniques can now offer great benefits to people suffering from severe arthritis of the knees.

It is now possible to duplicate all of the intricate motions of the knee with some of these mechanical devices.

At the Winnipeg General Hospital in Canada, knee replacements have been performed for the past eight years. Many hospitals all over the United States are using newly designed artificial knee replacements which convert "house bound" people to a new era of activity.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I will celebrate our golden wedding anniversary in five months — if one of us doesn't kill the other, that is. I'm only kidding, Abby, but right now we are having a big battle about something we hope you'll settle for us.

Everyone knows that after 50 years of marriage, very few couples "need" anything. In fact, most people our age have moved out of their large homes and into smaller quarters and are glad to get rid of most of their "things."

We are planning a party for our friends and family, and I want to put "No gifts, please" on the invitations. My wife says it is improper tomention "gifts" in an invitation. Our children think we should put "money tree" on the invitations. I am totally against that idea as it is like asking for money. What do you say?

READER

DEAR READER: I vote with your wife. If friends or relatives want to get together and give one gift — or money — it's up to them. But I certainly wouldn't engineer it.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22 and have a 7-year-old daughter who was born out of wedlock. (I'll call her "Terry.") Terry and I have always lived with my parents, and I work. In the last five years I have dated four very fine men. All wanted to marry me, but no matter who I brought home, Terry didn't like him.

When I ask her if she wouldn't like to have a "Daddy," she says she already has one. (She has always called my father "Daddy," although she knows that he is really her grandfather.)

I want to get married, but I don't want to marry anyone Terry doesn't like. What should I do?

TERRY'S MUMMY

DEAR MUMMY: Don't be a dummy. When you meet the man you want to marry, introduce him to Terry as your future husband — and leave the word "Daddy" out of it. Terry has known only one "Daddy" (your father), so she can't be blamed for rejecting any man she thinks will replace him.

Concentrate more on getting a husband for yourself and less on providing Terry with a new "Daddy," or she'll get married before you do.

DEAR ABBY: I am buying a house from a friend of mine for $95,000. He asked me if I would do him a favor and state the price of the house as $75,000 in the agreement of the sale, and give him the balance in cash.

He said he didn't want his wife to know how much he was actually getting for the house because she's the kind who spends a thousand if she thinks they have a hundred.

Would there be anything wrong with my doing this for him as a favor?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: Yes. Plenty. Don't falsify the price of the house on the agreement unless you want to be a party to a fraud. Tell your friend he'll have to work out the problem of an extravagant wife some other way.

DEAR ABBY: Our Social Issues class is having a discussion on today's problems and I have been appointed to ask you what you think is the greatest danger in the world today.

NANCY C.

DEAR NANCY: Indifference! The bystander who doesn't want to get involved helps the criminal.

Moro Gang Hints Trade

ROME (AP) — Officials think a letter received from Italian political leader Aldo Moro is a preliminary to a demand from his kidnappers to exchange the former premier for terrorist leaders on trial in Turin.

Police said the letter was received Wednesday and was written by the president of Italy's dominant Christian Democratic party. It contained no plan for a trade, but officials said they were expecting one.

"Moro was clearly forced to write some parts of his letter," said prosecutor Luciano Infelisi. "Specifically the reference to exchanges of prisoners or spies between opposing political factions or countries. This can only mean we can expect a similar request any moment."

Moro was kidnapped March 16 by 12 terrorists from the Red Brigades, Italy's most active urban guerrilla organization. So far, the kidnappers have made no demands, but officials said any demand for an exchange was certain to include Renato Curcio, the founder of the organization, and 14 other members on trial in Turin on sedition charges.

"Going back to the behavior of certain states," Moro wrote, "I'll recall the exchanges between (Chile's President Augusto) Pinochet and (Soviet President Leonid) Brezhnev, the repeated exchanges of spies, the expulsion of dissidents fron Soviet territory.

"I understand that when an event such as this occurs it hurts, but one must consider with a clear mind the worst that can come."

He was referring to the exchange in December, 1976, of Chilean Communist leader Luis Corvalan from a Chilean prison for Soviet dissident Vladimir Bukovsky, who had spent 13 years in Soviet prisons and mental institutions.

"All the states in the world have reacted in a positive way, except Israel and Germany," Moro added in an apparent reference to those two governments' refusal to negotiate with terrorists or meet their demands.

Appearing to plead for his life, he wrote: "It is inadmissible to sacrifice the innocent in the name of an abstract principle of legality whereas an unquestionable state of necessity should persuade to try and save them.

"Let's not say that the state loses its dignity because it has been unable to prevent the kidnapping of a leading personality who has some significance in the life of the state."

CLUB TO FIGHT EXPULSION

DUARTE, Calif. (UPI) — The Duarte chapter of Rotary International says it will fight its expulsion from the organization for admitting women.

The organization's headquarters in Evanston, Ill., said Wednesday the Duarte club had been stripped of its charter at midnight Monday for refusing to dis-admit its three women members, who were allowed to join in defiance of regulations limiting membership to men.

Dr. Richard Kay, president of the Duarte club, called the ouster "preposterous."

"We asked the women to join," he said. "It's time the bylaws were changed. We will fight this and we will all hang together if we have to."

The chapter's lawyer said he will ask a Los Angeles Superior Court next week for an order against the expulsion until it can be appealed to the Rotary International convention in Tokyo in May. Rotary has 17,500 chapters in 152 countries.

The chapter has been fighting a running battle with the international leadership for some months over its acceptance of women. The three women have offered to resign, but the male members voted twice to retain them.

"The rule is on the books and we must abide by it," a spokesman for the international headquarters said. "They are being treated like any other chapter. They are being treated equally."

TOBACCO FIRMS TO FIGHT

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — An executive of the Tobacco Institute says the tobacco industry has decided to fight further U.S. government efforts to discourage smoking.

William Dwyer, vice-president of the organization, said Joseph Califano, U.S. secretary of health, education and welfare, possesses a "neo-prohibitionist mentality."

Califano, a former heavy smoker who now calls smoking "Public Enemy No. 1," has proposed government actions aimed at discouraging smoking. Dwyer said if the actions are successful, they would have a devastating effect on the economy of major tobacco-producing states.

The institute, which represents 11 major tobacco-product manufacturers, will resist Califano's proposals because it considers them a clear-cut violation of individual rights, Dwyer said.

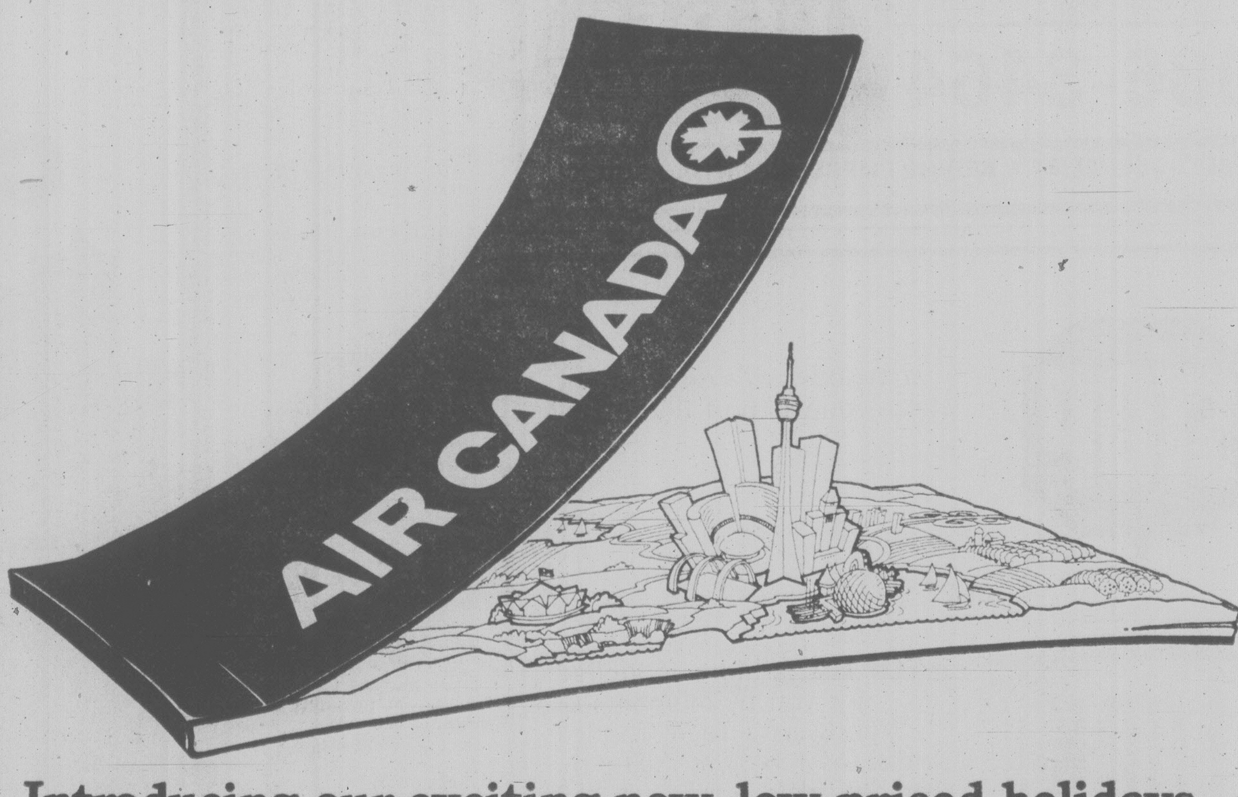
Here's your ticket to the world's most beautiful country...your country.



Introducing our exciting new, low-priced holidays.

We've got some great new ways for you to do more than your share of exploring your country this summer. New holidays combining our economical Charter Class Canada airfare with incredibly low-priced vacation packages.

Here's one example:

The price shown here is the per person cost (based on double occupancy) of our new Fly/Drive holiday*, including the return Charter Class Canada airfare, a Tilden rental car for seven full days, with 1500 free kilometers, and a choice of comfortable Holiday Inn accommodation for seven nights. You pay for gas, insurance and drop-off charges (if any), taxes and meals.

$414
includes hotel, car rental & return airfare from Victoria to Toronto.

The beauty of this particular holiday is that you're free to go where and when you please—but always have your car rental and hotel accommodation looked after.

And, this is just one example—there are motorhome camping holidays, vacation apartments, guided bus tours, and more. The variety of holidays, and the enormous choice of destinations mean that you can have exactly the kind of holiday you want—wherever you want in Canada. Each vacation is explained in our holiday brochure, "Share Canada". If you haven't already received one, pick up your copy at any travel agency or Air Canada office.

Papers Struck In U.K.

LONDON (AFP) — For the third day running, newspaper strikes here have deprived many Britons of their morning reading.

Distribution of national dailies has been disrupted by delivery workers demanding higher pay for overtime, while editions of the Times and the Guardian have failed to appear due to a printers' strike.

At one Fleet Street newsstand Wednesday, devoted newspaper readers were asked to pay more than five times the normal price for a copy of the Daily Telegraph.

Talks late Wednesday between the Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Society of Graphical and Allied Trades, acting for the delivery workers, ended in stalemate.

Both sides called in the Trades Union Council, Britain's central union body, to mediate in the negotiations.

Printers employed by the Times newspaper group, which also prints the Guardian, are demanding a 20 per cent salary increase. Management says the increase should be held to 10 per cent, in line with the Labor government's ceiling on wage increases.

CHINA LIFTS CURBS

NEW YORK (AP) — Cunard Line said Wednesday that China has lifted all restrictions on the number of passengers who may visit the country during the 1979 world cruise of the Queen Elizabeth 2.

Cunard spokesman William North said that, as a result of an agreement with the China International Travel Service, the ship also has been invited to dock for the first time at the port of Dairen on March 10 and 11, 1979.

During last week's stop in Hong Kong on the 1978 world cruise, 700 of the 1,400 passengers aboard were allowed to visit Canton and 65 of those were allowed to make the trip to Peking.

Under the agreement, all 1,400 passengers next year will be allowed to visit Peking, one of the most popular cities for tourists because of the Great Wall, the Ming Tombs and the Forbidden City.

Japanese Fishermen Club More Dolphins

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese fishermen on Tsushima Island caught more than 100 dolphins Wednesday and clubbed 76 of them to death, Tomikazu Hashiura, director of the Tsushima Fishermen's Co-operative, said today.

The dolphins were killed despite a wave of protests generated by a similar dolphin kill on another island last month.

"Yesterday's clubbing and killing was the last resort we could make in order to protect our lives," Hashiura said in a telephone interview. "We will perish if the dolphins around us are kept intact."

Japanese fishermen say dolphins feed on the same fish — mostly yellowtail and cuttlefish — that the fishermen depend on for their livelihood.

Hashiura said the growing dolphin population around Tsushima Island, 215 kilometres off Nagasaki in southwestern Japan, has been a problem since last year.

"We know there have been many telephone calls, telegrams and letters to the Japanese government protesting the killing of dolphins on the nearby island, but our lives hinge on the very dolphin. So we will continue catching them if our lives are threatened."

Hashiura said the 76 dolphins killed Wednesday were sent to members of the co-operative to be used for food.

New Wave Of Riots In Iran

TEHERAN (Reuter) — Rioters set fire to municipal offices and a movie house and smashed windows in a fresh wave of attacks in Iran, government sources said Wednesday night.

The sources said firemen quickly put out the blaze in the municipal offices in the city of Isfahan and damage was slight. The rioters were not identified.

Riots were reported in Abadan, where windows were smashed at the offices of the Rastakhiz Party, Iran's only political party, and in Babol and Kashan, where the movie house was set on fire. In Teheran a bank window was broken and police found a Molotov cocktail at the scene.

Waves Remain a Mystery

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The federal Environmental Protection Agency will join the investigation of those radio signals in Eugene, Ore., that are a nuisance to local residents and a mystery to engineers.

The regional EPA office in Seattle said Wednesday it would be moving its radio-frequency radiation-measuring van to Eugene within the next 10 days because the exact source of the signals was still uncertain.

Oregon officials, meanwhile, reported a theory that seasonal radiation from local power lines may be related to the pulsating signals, which Eugene residents blame for headaches, skin redness and other ailments.

The theory by consulting electronics engineers Linley Gumm and Glifford Schrock was reported at a Portland news conference by administrator Kristine Gebbie of the Oregon State Health Division.

"Origination of the signal is unknown," she said. "However, a strong correlation between the local power-line frequency and the pulse repetition rate was found."

George Toombs, health physicist in the division's radiological control section, said the signal measured by Gumm and Schrock Tuesday was entirely different in nature from that discussed in a Federal Communication Commission report.

The FCC concluded the signals originated from a Navy transmitter at Dixon, Calif.

Toombs also said investigators would not rule out the possibility the signal was related to the illness of faculty members working in an Oregon State University laboratory in Corvallis, 40 miles north of Eugene.

Poisoned Pot Feared

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The county Street Drug Identification Program said Wednesday it has been flooded with inquiries about Mexican marijuana treated with a poisonous plant-killer.

"This is one of the biggest things I've seen around here," said Dr. Roger Ritzlin, program director.

The questions came in response to a warning by the National Institute of Drug Abuse that about 21 per cent of the marijuana coming into the country has been contaminated with Parquat, a plant killer used by Mexican officials, with U.S. support, to kill marijuana where it grows.

The herbicide takes several days to kill the marijuana plant, which can be harvested and marketed if picked quickly after spraying.

'VACCINE' CONTROL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A researcher says he is developing a birth control "vaccine" that could revolutionize contraception, but it probably will not be ready for commercial distribution for about 10 years.

Dr. Alex Shivers, a University of Tennessee zoologist, said Wednesday the new drug has antibodies that successfully block fertilization of the human egg by attaching themselves to an egg and repelling sperm cells much the same way vaccines help the body fight diseases like the flu.

One shot could be good for years, Shivers said.

So far, Shivers said, his research has involved only the vaccine's effects on animals. "It can take up to 10 years of extensive testing before a new drug can go on the market," he said. "Research in birth control has developed slowly because funds for research are extremely hard to get."

Belfry's Lindy Joins McPherson Staff

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

Solid experience in teaching and participation in theatre, administrative ability, creative talent, and a contemporary and progressive outlook will accompany Lucinda Buchanan when she moves to the McPherson Playhouse from The Belfry in a few weeks' time.

She will join the present team which is operating the McPherson under the McPherson Playhouse Foundation, according to an announcement by Foundation chairman, Allan M. Purdy.

Lindy, as she prefers to be called, took over direction of The Belfry theatre last fall on the departure of Don Shipley.

She will now become an assistant to the Playhouse's executive director, John Dyck, and technical director Larry Eastick, starting June 1.

"It's been a hectic winter but it's also been challenging and interesting," says Lindy of her period of guiding the Belfry program.

But the McPherson Foundation's on-going development of the playhouse into a people-place and a mini-cultural centre — so far with conspicuous success — offers a scope and further challenge that is irresistable, she feels.

"It's all been arranged with my board at The Belfry and Don (Shipley) will be returning to take over before the end of May," Lindy explains.

A graduate of the University of B.C. with a Bachelor's degree in English and theatre, Ms. Buchanan did postgraduate study at Banff in speech teaching for the stage and has worked in Vancouver for City Stage as well as in amateur theatre.

She held a teaching position in Kelowna secondary schools for three years, but came to Victoria from Courtenay where, for four years, she had been teaching theatre arts at senior secondary and junior college level; she had also been district supervisor teaching teachers children's theatre techniques.

She was a member of the founding body of the Central Island Arts Alliance and president of it for two-and-a-half years, and on the board of the Western Association of Drama Educators.

"I finally said, that's enough teaching, and set out to look for something different," she says, "but I didn't really expect the kind of opportunities that have come my way so quickly. I'm delighted with the prospects and looking forward to my new job enormously."

AUTHOR DIES AT 89

NEW YORK (AP) — Ida Treat, a writer who taught English at Vassar and contributed articles and stories to major U.S. and French publications, has died in a nursing home in Poughkeepsie. She was 89.

BACK TO CLASS?

Prime Time and Camosun College will offer a five-week discussion group course for women who would like to go back to school but find the decision difficult.

Tours of the University of Victoria and Camosun College are included in this course held Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. beginning April 12.

Additional information is available from Prime Time, 388-6101.

Transplanting Seedlings

It is not difficult to germinate seed indoors if reasonably good conditions are available and the hints given in last Tuesday's column are followed.

The next step is to transplant, or prick-out, the seedlings into larger containers where they have space to develop into strong plants.

The next step is to transplant, or prick-out, the seedlings into larger containers where they have space to develop into strong plants.

Choose shallow boxes, called flats, of a suitable size and shape to fit the available space. Depth of boxes should be about three inches with bottom slats spaced one-quarter inch apart.

Boxes with solid bottoms should have half-inch holes drilled at three-inch spacings each way to provide adequate drainage.

Cover the bottom of the flat with roughage and twiggy pieces from sifted compost together with small stones and pieces of broken clay pots. Place the pieces of pot, curved side up, over the spaces or holes to prevent blocking when the roughage is added.

Fill the flat with a mixture of five parts compost to one or two parts sand (by bulk) rubbed through a one-half inch mesh screen. The finished mix should be damp enough for the seedling holes to hold their shape without collapsing.

Press the mixture firmly into each corner with the fingers then level the surface to the top of the rim with a piece of lath. With a short block of 2 by 4 gently press the mixture to prevent settling after the soil is planted. The finished level should be no more than one-half inch below the rim of the flat.

A piece of round wood (wooden dowel) about three-eighths inch in diameter and six inches in length is the tool used for setting the seedlings into the soil. It is called a dibber.

One end is smoothly rounded but not pointed, because a reasonably large hole is needed to take the roots without breaking or bending.

Most gardening books recommend pricking-out seedlings when "two true leaves have formed". This is much to late because the large root system which has formed is too easily damaged and the young plants suffer a severe set-back.

The first two leaves are called seed leaves. In a commercial greenhouse the pricking-out is done as soon as these two leaves are large enough to be held gently in the fingers.

Lift a half-dozen seedlings from the seed box or pot with the pointed end of a seed label. Holding them by the leaves, shake gently to remove excess soil and disentangle the roots.

Carefully lay each seedling on a piece of 3-ply or glass raised above bench or table level on a 2 by 4 block or a 4-inch pot. Work quickly so that the exposed roots do not dry out.

Starting at one end of the flat make a hole with the dibber about one inch from the side and end, of sufficient size and depth for the length of roots, pick up a seedling by one of the seed leaves and lower the roots into the hole with the base of the leaves at soil level.

Holding the seedling firmly, plunge the dibber into the soil beside the previous hole and lever it towards the seedling to press the soil closely to the roots and close the hole.

The next hole is made two inches from the first hole, and the second row of seedlings are also spaced two inches from the first row.

Place the finished flat out of direct sunlight but in good light for a few days. Arrange a double gauze screen to break sunlight if necessary. When the little seedlings show signs of having made roots into the new soil (indicated by renewed growth between the seed leaves) place the flat in a cool lively atmosphere with as much sun as possible. Sprinkle gently with water as needed.

In about four weeks the flats go into a coldframe, or are set outdoors during daylight and taken into a cool place indoors over night until the weather is settled in early May.

IMAGINE!

Your friends drop in and they will be unable to shake your hands and say hello because the view took their speech away. You'll show them the Coastal Range in the distance, Gordon Head, University, Mt. Baker, Mt. Tolmie, the City, Olympics, Cedar Hill Golf Course, and the Sooke Hills. Truly 360-degree view. Your friends will be green with envy; so much so, that they won't even see the great house with super size living room, family room, dining room, master bedroom with an en suite of Imperial Proportions and its own private deck. They probably will even miss seeing the "in ground" swimming pool — well, that way they get the green off their faces. A bargain at $124,500. Call:

BEFORE THE JUDGE

One of two men jointly charged with breaking and entering and possession of stolen property pleaded guilty in Victoria provincial court Wednesday to the first charge and was sentenced by Judge William Ostler to four months in jail and placed on 18 months probation.

Alfred Eugene Johnny, 33, of 521 Simcoe elected trial by magistrate through defence lawyer Ted Hanman and entered the guilty plea.

Crown counsel Nicholas Lang told the court Johnny and a companion broke into Metro Electronics, 1719 Quadra, shortly before midnight, March 19, and took a quantity of electronic gear. They were stopped and held by a private security guard about a block from the premises, Lang said.

Johnny told Victoria city police he intended to sell the radios for bottles of wine. Hanman said Johnny had been drinking vanilla extract and wine prior to the offence and remembered very little of the actual break-in.

Lang read out a record for Johnny which included a conviction for robbery with violence on Aug. 1, 1972, for which he received a 2½-year jail term. Hanman said his client had not been in any trouble since his release from the B.C. Penitentiary in April of 1974.

Co-accused Frank David Aleck, 36, of 1082 Bay, elected trial by judge without jury and a preliminary hearing date of June 1 was set.

Two Burnaby men who appeared in court in a battered and bruised condition pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by fighting in the lobby of the Empress Hotel late Tuesday night and were each fined $35.

Ward Vincent Dovey, 23, and Brett Arthur William Smith, 22, both appeared with a black eye and facial bruises and Smith accepted an invitation by Ostler to be seated during proceedings when the judge noted Smith didn't look very well.

Lang said the pair were involved in a violent fight at about 11:30 p.m. in which both were stripped to the waist. He said the participants broke a stained glass window valued at $200 during the scuffle.

Legal-aid lawyer Jasper Bomhof said the two men sustained most of the injuries at the hands of the hotel security staff.

Ostler noted that both men appeared "thoroughly embarrassed" about their physical appearance in court before handing out the fines.

Bradley Medford Thomas, 21, of 2343 Amity Drive elected trial by judge without jury on a charge of trafficking in marijuana. His preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 1.

Terrance Alexander Brown, 22, of 1100 Hillside had his preliminary hearing on a charge of indecent assault set for April 21. Brown was denied bail last Thursday and defence lawyer Mike Hutchison elected trial by judge and jury at that time.

Ostler allowed 17-year-old Gavin Wood, 134 Moss, to go free on $500 surety bail but ordered him to obey a 7:30 p.m. nightly curfew unless accompanied by his father.

Wood is charged with eight counts of breaking and entering and 17 counts of attempted breaking and entering. Two break-in charges and six attempted break-in charges are from a March 20 spree in the 300-block Cook while the other charges stem from incidents two days previous in the Sidney area.

He was remanded until Monday for election of his trial method.

Harold Keith Strader, 44, no fixed address, was given concurrent 30-day jail terms after pleading guilty to impaired driving and refusing a breath test demand July 21, 1977.

Lang told the court Strader was convicted twice previously of drinking driving, on March 23, 1971, when he was fined $225 and on Aug. 20, 1975, when he was fined $50 and placed on a year's probation.

Judge William Ostler handed a 24-year-old man a four-month jail term in Victoria provincial court Tuesday after learning that the man had a five-page record which dated back to 1970.

Montgomery Jones pleaded guilty to theft under $200 and Crown counsel Nicholas Lang told the court Jones shoplifted a serving set valued at $14.95 from Eaton's last Thursday.

Lang said it was apparent Jones had a problem with alcohol but Jones said he had been consuming pills prior to the incident. He said he had bought two "hits" of Tuinol before committing the offence.

Ostler suggested the Alouette River unit for alcoholics but Jones said it wouldn't help. He said the only thing that would help was if he was allowed to return to his reservation.

The judge said he would recommend Jones' time be spent at a forestry camp.

Fined for drinking-driving were: Gregory Hoover, 24, of 1623 Amphion, $800; Donald Howard Thomas, 53, of 3070 Leigh, $500, and Becky Jean Patterson, 22, of 1524 Begbie, $300.

Chamber 'Outmanoeuvred'

The next time Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce presents a brief at a public hearing chamber directors will be on hand to support the presentation, president John Ansell said Wednesday.

Ansell said the chamber must never again send one person to fight alone in the face of organized opposition.

"We have learned our lesson."

Ansell was referring to the public hearing eight days ago when Saanich council voted against the Royal Oak industrial park.

The chamber's lone representative was Cedric Steele, chamber's economic development director, who presented a brief.

Steele Wednesday told a meeting of chamber directors at the Strathcona hotel he was disappointed to find no other chamber member had come to the hearing in support of his presentation.

Meanwhile, he said, the opposition, the Royal Oak Ratepayers, were out in large numbers.

"We were outmanoeuvred by a small but vocal minority. I consider it a poor show that I didn't get more support."

Steele said factual argument was useless in the face of crowd reaction.

"As soon as I gave my name and said my address was Beach Drive, they began to shout: "What are you doing in Saanich? Go back to Beach Drive. It was over before I got started."

Ansell agreed the chamber must turn out crowd support as well as speakers to present briefs. As a start, he said, all directors should be in attendance as well as a large number of other chamber members.

Ansell said the crowd was wrong in questioning Steele's right to present a brief in Saanich. The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce represents the whole capital region.

Next public meeting of the chamber will be at noon, April 19, when new Oak Bay MLA Vic Stephens, the Conservative leader, will be the speaker.

Some chamber directors will meet April 20 to prepare plans for transportation week, which will run from May 27 to June 3 and will be a major event, Ansell said.

Dr. Brian Perry-Whittingham of Sooke, new president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, made a brief speech to chamber directors, saying a new economic blueprint is needed for Vancouver Island, reviving an idea started by former president Pip Holmes about three years ago.

Perry-Whittingham said the Island needs additional energy sources and serious consideration should be given to nuclear power and development of the dormant coal fields.

Transportation must also be improved and talk of a deep sea facility at Port Hardy should be supported by the chamber, he said.

Audiology Study Set

An inter-agency committee has been set up to discuss qualifications required by the health ministry for speech pathologists and audiologists, Health Minister Bob McClelland said Wednesday.

The minister said the committee is to make recommendations by April 28 on the preparation of graduates in this field from the University of B.C.

The ministry had been under critisicm for having U.S-trained audiologists and speech pathologists in its speech and hearing services. McClelland said this was because they were better trained.

Named to the committee were Dr. John Gilbert and Dr. Morton Low of UBC, Dr. P.T. Alexander of the ministry and Stanley Richards of the B.C. Institute of Technology.

Winning Posters

A poster contest for elementary school children sponsored recently by the B.C. Heart Foundation elicited so much interest that it became necessary to extend the deadline for entries.

Youngsters were invited to draw or paint a poster on the Foundation's 1978 campaign theme, physical fitness.

Twenty-three winners from kindergarten to Grade VII were selected and the posters, which reveal imagination, poignancy and well developed creative ability, are on display in Eaton's elevated Broad Street walkway.

Some of the ideas expressed provide sharp reminders of the dangers of smoking; five-year-old Mark Hill from St.Paul's Kindergarten for instance, filled a page with funeral parlor scenes, indicating that smoking is the quickest way to get in there.

Other winners were: Grade II; Brian Wakelin, Frank Hobbs School; Terra Rae, Rockheights; Lisa MacDermid, Rockheights. Grade III; Billy Baker, Cloverdale; Pat Kyffen, Margaret Jenkins; Erin Lingard, Margaret Jenkins. Grade IV; Sarah Henderson, South Park; Jasvender Bhoondysaid, Doncaster; Mandy Burgess, South Park. Grade V; Chris Haley, Fairburn; Corinna Hein, Tillicum; Bonnie Campbell, Fairburn, and Alain Cadorette (tie), Fairburn. Grade VI; Elisa Becker, South Park; Gary Kupitz, View Royal; Mark Deschamps, Doncaster. Grade VII; Murray Smith, Fairburn; Shirly Wong, Fairburn; Daryl Seal, Fairburn.

Special award for creative and imaginative design and thinking: John Cassidy, age 11, Doncaster. Honorable Mentions were given Jody Medd, Grade V, Tillicum, and Fiona Ballendine, Grade V, Craigflower.

WINKLE PICKERS

Youngsters by the hundreds, with and without parents, are taking advantage of the Easter holiday special being provided by McPherson Playhouse Foundation this week.

Colorful, tuneful and comical, The Winkle Pickers — a children's musical show — has drawn approximately 1,000 children and other people into the theatre in two days.

Performances are daily through Saturday at 2 p.m. and there will be a special 11 a.m. show Saturday.

The story concentrates on a midnight hunt for the illusive winkle (that's a kind of snail in case you're curious) which, according to one of the characters played by Kaleidoscope's Hank Stinson, becomes "different" at sunrise.

The subject is pursued energetically with song, a little dialogue and a lot of choreographed capering, all well done by a talented professional cast.

With Stinson are Colleen Winton (also from Kaleidoscope), Ralph Cole, Jamie Moore and Gini Lefevre (the winkle) whose fine hand can be detected in the neat and lively choreography.

All's Well At Carey Road

A production of Camosun College's Professional Actor Training Program is being presented this week at the Carey Road Campus, 3814 Carey Road.

It's a slightly abreviated version of Shakespeare's light-hearted comedy, All's Well That Ends Well and it can be seen tonight, Friday and Saturday starting at 8 p.m.

The students are enjoying the good fortune and stimulation, says artistic director Jean-Paul Destrube, of working under the direction of guest Fred Euringer who possesses a long list of professional theatre credits in Canada.

He has worked with Hart House Theatre, has been actor, assistant director and playwright at the Stratford Festival, was lead actor and artistic director for the Straw Hat Players, and from 1963 to 1974 headed the drama department at Queens University.

Anyone who would like to see this presentation will be welcome to come and bring friends but due to limited seating capacity should call 388-6523, preferably between 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. to register the number of seats required.

LAST PLAY of this academic year for University of Victoria theatre students opens tonight at the Phoenix Theatre on the UVic campus. Shakespeare's romantic comedy, Love's Labours' Lost, will feature Ned Lemley and Janice Dick, above, among the list of principals. The play is being directed by Dr. Harvey Miller, am assistant professor in the theatre faculty, who recently returned from a sabbatical in New York, where he studied acting and directing and taught.Starting time is 8 p.m. tonight through April 8.

No Compulsory Tipping

Victorians who eat out lots can consider themselves lucky — there are no restaurants here with compulsory tipping.

The Canadian Restaurant Association has come out strongly against compulsory tipping in hopes of stamping out the practice before it spreads.

Don Bellamy, managing director of the B.C. branch, today said there are five restaurants in the Greater Vancouver area who regularly add a tip to the bill.

"There are no restaurants in Victoria with compulsory tipping, thank heavens for that," Bellamy said.

"We want this practice exposed now so it won't spread."

Ken King, general manager of Harbour Towers Hotel in Victoria, said he supports Bellamy's statement 100 per cent.

"Tipping should be a voluntary thing," he said.

"I have never heard of this sort of thing happening in Victoria."

Bellamy declined to name the Vancouver restaurants involved but said he has asked them to stop the practice.

He said he was making a public statement in hopes it would pressure the five restaurants to change their policy.

If customers are forced to pay a tip, there is no incentive for waiters and waitresses to provide perfect service, Bellamy said.

Townhouses Rejected

A development plan for 1540 York Place and permitting dogs on Shoal Bay beach in the summer were rejected by Oak Bay council Wednesday night.

The proposal to build 15 townhouses on York Place, currently zoned for single family houses, was first raised at the last council meeting.

Council received 21 letters of opposition and two petitions signed by 93 persons also opposed to the plan and several residents addressed council.

Mayor Brian Smith warned residents, however, that the owner of the property could always submit another plan and councils change over the years and he urged residents to "give some thought to what you want done with that property because the problem will not go away."

Pat Lansdowne, 933 Falkland, asked council to reconsider its ban on dogs on Shoal Bay beach between May and September. She said it is a polluted beach, rocky and unattractive for sunbathing.

But council decided to stick with its ban with Ald. Isabel Craig commenting that during the summer there are too many people and too many dogs.

PIPE LINKS APPROVED

Applications for about 279 water connections have been approved by Sidney council.

The applicants have been on a waiting list since 1971.

"We feel safe that the town will have enough water this summer," said a municipal spokesman.

"We have a reserve of 15 million gallons a month in the Sidney and North Saanich wells at the McTavish Road tanks."

Lloyd Heads SC Caucus

The Social Credit party caucus elected Howard Lloyd (Fort George) as its chairman Tuesday, replacing Lyle Kahl (Esquimalt) who resigned after one year.

The caucus is holding a series of meetings this week to prepare for the next legislative session which begins Thursday.

SOUTH PARK HEARING

A public hearing on the possible closure of South Park Elementary School will resume Tuesday, April 4 at 7.30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The March 22 hearing was not completed because a number of briefs had not been heard.

Cars Collide

Two cars collided on the crest of a hill on Wain Road sending three persons to hospital with minor injuries Wednesday morning.

Sidney RCMP said Beverley Anne Shanks, of 556 Meldram, and her son Carson, four, were held for observation, while Ann Mary Creighton, of 1525 Shasta, was checked and released.

Federal Employees Plan Mass Protest at UVic

By MIKE HUGHES
Times Staff

Federal public service employees will hold a mass meeting Monday to protest Ottawa's proposed amendments to the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

The meeting at the University of Victoria was one decision which emerged Wednesday from a gathering of 41 presidents of component locals of the Public Service Alliance of Canada.

They represent about 15,000 public service employees including all those in the Greater Victoria area.

The union representatives also decided to run advertisements in Victoria newspapers outlining the PSAC position on the proposed amendments introduced in the Commons earlier this month.

The Vancouver Island PSAC members take the position the bill must be killed.

"If this bill is allowed to pass in the House of Commons and the Senate, it will restrict the rights of federal public service employees from collective bargaining and it is contrary to the government's own legislation in the Canada Labor Code as well as the United Nations charter of which Canada is a signee," said John Hart, PSAC regional representative in Victoria today, adding that the provisions in the legislation make a mockery of the collective bargaining process.

"We just won't have anything left," he said.

The PSAC feels the get-tough attitude by the federal government is the result of pressure from provincial governments.

The federal employees say Ottawa has been urged to impose restraint on its employees in order to provide an example to local governments.

Once the legislation is in place federally, it will then be matched at the provincial level, Hart predicted.

"I don't think any union is safe."

The legislation would provide a system of salary comparability with the private sector, based on total compensation.

Total compensation takes into account the aggregate monetary value of pay and fringe benefits in relation to the number of hours worked.

The bill would also give the government power to lock out employees, invoke layoffs of up to 60 days and exclude close to 5,000 more staff members from union bargaining units.

The alliance refers to the bill as the "illegitimate child of the Anti-Inflation Board."

Hart said for the first time the public service employees are going to get politically involved in an issue.

Pressure will be put on MPs to have the bill scrapped or to vote against it and if this fails the employees will make it known they will work to defeat at the polls any MP who votes in favor of the legislation.

$4,000 Favor For Nephew

VANCOUVER (CP) — In what he assumed was private conversation, a Vancouver man seeking landed immigrant status for his nephew asked an immigration officer for one favor and named a price of $4,000, a bribery trial was told Wednesday.

What John Ram Sanie could not know was that his discussions last year with Cheryl Susan Caddick, a federal immigration official, were being taped by the RCMP, the trial was told.

The tapes were presented as evidence Wednesday in a county court trial in which Sanie, 31, and Rattan Prakesh, 32, are charged with offering to pay Caddick $4,000 in return for her influence to obtain landed immigrant status for Prakash.

Judge Arthur McClellan heard recordings of a Nov. 10 conversation lasting more than an hour and of a 15-minute conversation a few weeks later.

In the first conversation, Sanie told Caddick that it was the "one particular favor" that he was after and that he wanted nothing more.

During the second conversation, Caddick told Sanie he would have to spell out what he had in mind.

Sanie replied: 'What Rattan had in mind is something like $4,000."

During the second conversation, Sanie said any compensation would be made unofficially. "I'm not trying to influence you in any way," he said.

The trial continues.

Juvenile Act Under Cloud

VANCOUVER (CP) — The validity of new provincial legislation aimed at combatting hard-core juvenile delinquency was placed in doubt Wednesday because of a challenge in the British Columbia Supreme Court.

A lawyer acting for a knife-wielding Port Alberni teenager, ordered held in a youth-containment facility, argued that the statute under which the youth is detained is beyond Victoria's ower to enact.

In a constitutional test of the provincial government's hard-line approach to serious delinquency, Thomas Gove asked Justice D. E. Andrews to set aside the containment order.

Gove argued that the Corrections amendment Act, the statute under which the juvenile containment centres were established, represents provincial encroachment into the federal government's jurisdiction over criminal law.

Justice Andrews reserved judgment, but said because of the urgency of the matter, he will give a prompt decision in advance of his reasons.

Gove said the 16-year-old youth was convicted Jan. 10 by Judge W. E. MacLeod of committing a juvenile delinquency by being in possession of a knife for a purpose dangerous to the public peace.

He was convicted under the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act and ordered under the provincial Corrections Amendment Act to be placed for nine months in a youth containment facility, the lawyer said.

Peter Insley, appearing for the B.C. attorney-general's ministry, statute was enacted for the protection and benefit of children, as well as the protection of the public, and is intended to help juveniles resolve their conflict with the law.

He contended that the statute, should be construed as social welfare legislation, a matter within Victoria's jurisdiction.

MP Mail Given Priority

OTTAWA (CP) — With an election presumed by many to be just around the corner, the post office has acted to make sure that MP's free mail gets through.

Postmaster-General J. Gilles Lamontagne told fellow MPs in a statement this week that regional managers have been told the mail must be delivered to their constituents on an urgent basis.

He was referring specifically to "householder" mail, unaddressed letters for distribution to all homes in an area. MPs get four free mailings of these each year.

Lamontagne told MPs he has given instructions for good handling "to make sure that all Canadians be informed of what their elected representatives are doing in the capital and in their ridings."

REEDS SPRING, Mo. — The frozen body of Gladys Rogers, whose evangelist son tried for weeks to resurrect her, will be buried today in Littles Cemetery, just north of Reeds Spring. A spokesman at the Clarkson Mortuary said Daniel Aaron Rogers, 41, had decided that burial "would be best" for his mother.

BOSTON — Actor John Wayne has been admitted to Massachusetts General Hospital for a series of tests. The 70-year-old Academy Award winner flew into Logan International Airport Wednesday from his California home. He has been undergoing treatment for chest pains and a respiratory condition.

PETROS, Tenn. — James Earl Ray, serving a 99-year sentence for killing Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said Wednesday he has made positive identification of a photograph of the man he says killed the civil rights leader. Ray, who has said he is innocent of the King slaying, said the photograph was shown to him two or three months ago but he would not say who showed it to him. Ray's lawyer, Mark Lane, said it has not been decided whether to turn the photograph over to the U.S. House of Representatives assassinations committee or to a judge.

NORTH TO ALASKA by rowboat is the plan of Ginger Cox, of Seattle. She and friend Letitia Davis plan to row this summer up the inland passage — a 1,000-mile trip. Cox, 23, estimates the trip will take 60 to 80 days.

HILL SWEEPS JUNOS

TORONTO — Canadian musician Dan Hill says he does not have to go south of the border to taste success.

The Toronto singer-songwriter proved as much Wednesday night when he won three Juno Awards for his work on the album Longer Fuse. That record, Hill's third album on the True North label, was a critical and commercial success in Canada and the United States, placing in the top 10 position on music charts in both countries.

For years Canada has been experiencing a drain of budding talent by artists who feel they would be stonewalling their careers by staying in this country.

In an interview following the Juno presentations, Hill said he does not believe Canadian artists have to move to the United States to be successful in their careers.

However, his popular ballad Sometimes When We Touch lost out to Patsy Gallant's recording Sugar Daddy as the year's best-selling single.

Miss Gallant took a second trophy as best female artist of the year. It was her second consecutive win in the category.

The Canadian Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, organizer of the Juno Awards, honored two veteran Canadian musicians by inducting them into the Canadian Music Hall of Fame. It was a fitting tribute to the late Guy Lombardo, the London, Ont.-born leader of the Royal Canadians, who died last year. The other honor award went to veteran jazz pianist Oscar Peterson.

42 BUSLOADS

Hundreds Protest Lack of Jobs

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

They came from the Kootenays, the Okanagan and the Lower Mainland— 42 busloads of them jamming the morning ferries.

They were woodworkers, mechanics and plumbers and they had one thing in common — they want B.C.'s 115,000 unemployed put back to work.

'Jobs Now' demanded hundreds of signs the demonstrators waved as they marched from their rallying point at the Memorial Arena to the legislative buildings.

The rally was tightly organized by the B.C. Federation of Labor, with demonstration marshals spread throughout the crowd to keep everyone informed and to head off any trouble that might flare.

Today's protest is the biggest demonstration the federation has ever organized for an opening of the legislature and federation officials said it would have been bigger except for the logistics of moving huge numbers of people across from the Mainland.

Total cost of the protest is not known but based on bus charter costs, transportation alone will come to about $20,000.

Federation organizers failed in efforts to have extra morning ferry sailings arranged to accommodate the rally.

The protesters gathered at the arena about 10.30 a.m., listening to music by Bargain at Half the Price, making up signs and planning their march to the legislature.

During the 1975 election campaign the Social Credit party promised jobs would be its number one priority if elected and with the third session of the legislature opening today, the federation said it was time to remind Premier Bill Bennett's government of that promise.

Some of the demonstrators had travelled all night to attend the rally — others who couldn't come held similar but smaller meetings in Vernon, Prince George and Nelson.

The Victoria protesters marched down Blanshard to Caledonia and along Douglas Street to mass on the legislative lawns for speeches from politicians and labor leaders.

Federation officers had met with Victoria police, RCMP and legislative security officers to discuss the protest.

NDP leader Dave Barrett, Liberal leader Gordon Gibson and Tory leader Vic Stephens were committed to address the crowd.

Federation president George Johnston, secretary-treasurer Len Guy, Vancouver Ald. Harry Rankin, Victoria Ald. Larry Ryan, Mike Kaufmann of the dVancouver Union of the Unemployed and representatives of the B.C. Teachers' Federation and the B.C. Students' Association also addressed the crowd.

Labor representatives had earlier lobbied MLAs pressuring them for action on the unemployment problem.

SALISBURY (Reuter) — Black nationalist guerrillas have abducted 420 pupils from a British Methodist Church missionary school in southwestern Rhodesia, a church spokesman said today.

The students, aged between 13 and 20, were taken across the border into Botswana at gunpoint after the raiders entered the mission Wednesday night, he said.

Twelve of the mission's staff of 24, including the headmaster, Rev. Luke Kumalo, had also been kidnapped, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, the government reported that Rhodesian troops have slain 78 guerrillas since a major new incursion from Mozambique was reported last week. Unconfirmed reports said remnants of the guerrilla force were on the move deeper into Rhodesia.

Eight security force men were killed in the fighting, the communiques reported.

Although there were conflicting reports, it appeared that more than 100 insurgents infiltrated from Mozambique into the thickly wooded Burma Valley, about 325 kilometres south of the eastern garrison town of Umtali.

They were reported to have brought with them bundles of leaflets denouncing the recent settlement reached between Prime Minister Ian Smith, head of the previous white-minority regime, and three domestically-based black nationalist leaders for establishing a black-dominated government by Dec. 31.

U.S. Cuts Funds Spent in Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. corporations have trimmed $830 million from projected 1978 capital expenditures in Canada, a U.S. commerce department survey shows.

The survey, released this week, shows that U.S.-controlled corporations now expect to spend about $5.94 billion in Canada this year, instead of the $6.77 billion they had projected in a survey conducted six months earlier.

This means that gross capital expenditures this year will be only about one per cent higher than in 1977, not 13 per cent as projected in the last survey.

The latest poll of major U.S. multinational corporations also predicts a decline in total 1977 expenditures in Canada, to $5.8 billion from $6 billion in the last check and $6.4 billion in a survey conducted a year ago.

Total 1977 investments in Canada are expected to be about five per cent higher than in 1976, the survey says. Final 1977 figures will not be available until later this year.

A commerce department official said in an interview Wednesday that uncertainty about Canada's economy and political problems created by the presence of a Parti Quebecois government in Quebec "could very well have had an effect" on the spending estimates.

He noted that the multinationals plan to increase world-wide investment this year by about 10 per cent. This figure is down two per cent from the projection in the last survey.

He said much of the spending decline in Canada is a result of postponement of major projects expected to have been started this year.

The biggest drop was in the mining and smelting industry, where spending estimates have been trimmed by about $400 million.

The official said uncertainty about metal prices and worry about low returns on investment apparently were factors in the postponements.

He added that uncertainty about the U.S. economy and projections of high inflation this year also likely affected over-all investment plans.

Long Shot

Marcello Mastroianni, the veteran Italian actor, has been nominated for the best actor Oscar this year.

He was a strong contender in 1962 when he was nominated for Divorce Italian Style and many were surprised when he didn't win.

This time, however, with his second nomination, he is seen as merely filling out the five places in the card in a rather weak year for male performers.

Most Hollywood observers rate him as the longest shot on the board, although the fact he has been around a long time may put some sentiment in his corner.

His performance in A Special Day opposite Sophia Loren was good but not spectacular and not of Oscar stature. Still, Liz Taylor won for Butterfield 8 and Jane Fonda won for Klute, and both actresses had done better without getting an Oscar — so Mastroianni must be rated at least an outside possibility.

The Times and CJVI are offering a chance to win a trip for two to Hollywood plus 10 secondary prizes for readers who correctly predict the Oscar winners for best actor, best actress and best movie.

Official entry form is in the advertisement on page 41.

THE BYRDS
YOU SHOULD QUIT. HAVE YOU GOT ANY IDEA HOW BLACK YOUR LUNGS MUST BE? AH, THAT IS TO SAY... I MEAN...

OTTAWA (CP) - Canada is about to undergo a shift in age structure of a magnitude unparalleled this century, says a Statistics Canada report released today.

"An increase in the proportion of the older population and a drop in the number of children are leading indicators of a major shift, which will undoubtedly have important implications for Canada society and its economy," says the report.

It says the government should be planning its programs and institutions for a society which by 2031 will see every senior citizen supported by three working Canadians, compared with the seven at present.

"What seems clear as Canada enters the fourth quarter of the 20th century is that the proportion of the national effort required to meet the needs of the younger population will drop. On the other hand, there will be demands of a different nature by the population 65 and older," the report says.

Retired Canadians now make up nine per cent of the population. By the year 2000, the proportion was expected to increase to 12 per cent. Within the next 50 years, it would rise to about 20 per cent.

At the same time, the report predicts the fertility rate will continue to drop from its present level of 1.8 births per woman to 1.5 by the mid-1980s. After that, it is expected to stabilize.

The study says the two trends will work in opposite directions and leave Canada's support ratio at about the present 65 per cent of the population. That is, those between zero and 17 years and over 65 would comprise 65 per cent of the population and would be supported by the remaining 35 per cent.

However, the burden of supporting this non-working population could change drastically. The report makes no attempt to compare the dependency cost of a child with that of a senior citizen, but says there are major differences to consider.

Instead of providing food, clothing and shelter and education for children, more of the national income would be directed into old age security, pensions, hospital care, nursing home support and senior citizen residences.

The medical field would be one of the major areas of expansion. Patients 65 years and older now use about 30 per cent of patient-days.

By 2030, when they will constitute 20 per cent of the population the percentage will shoot up to 104 per cent of the maximum capacity of today's hospitals — or 57 million patient days a year.

Slight Rise For Dollar

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian dollar staged a modest recovery on New York money markets after slipping precariously close to the 88 U.S.-cent mark in early Wednesday trading.

The dollar closed at 88.27 U.S. cents in the interbank wholesale market Wednesday, but was off 1-25 again this morning at $0.8823.

Pound sterling was down 2 at $1.8605.

The U.S. dollar improved in Tokyo today and was generally steady in morning trading on European money markets.

The price of gold continued Wednesday's sharp downward trend.

Cadboro Bay Bomb Scare

A bomb scare forced evacuation of several homes in the Cadboro Bay area this morning.

A Canadian Armed Forces bomb disposal squad was called by Saanich police to a Cadboro Bay home to dispose of a bag, following a reported bomb threat to an occupant of the house.

Police said a youth living at 2551 Sinclair contacted the department after he received a threat. He searched the property with an officer and they found a grocery bag in the garage which ought not to have been there.

The bag was placed in a military truck and driven away. It was not known if the bag contained an explosive device.

About a dozen neighbors on both sides of the house, across the street and on an adjacent street were asked to leave their homes for about two hours while the team was disposing of the bag.

Only Jobless Know the Anguish

By MARK HUME
and MIKE HUGHES
(Last of Four Articles)

Sometimes it seems like just so many wasted words trying to explain the anguish of unemployment to the employed.

To really appreciate it you have to have been there.

Unemployment isn't so bad at first. Painless really. The biggest problem is trying to get used to having so much free time.

But it doesn't stay that way for long. As the dry spell lengthens to a month, then three, then a half-year, and the bank account evaporates, things get rapidly worse.

The boredom is soon replaced by bleakness, cynicism, and a pervasive feeling of being unneeded. The unemployed interviewed by the Times during the past few weeks have all spoken of the same things, in one way or another, and reporter Hume experienced it for six months in 1976.

Most people learn to resign themselves to being without work. They make the regular trips to Manpower without any great hope, for then there's no let-down when the job boards call for things like a resident psychologist in northern Nova Scotia or an aerospace technician in Toronto.

The unemployed tend to laugh a lot when they read the job boards at Manpower, but it rings hollow.

There's nothing easy about adjusting to unemployment, and perhaps the hardest thing to learn — and believe — is that you are no less a person because you don't have a job.

That's easy enough to say, but it's not so easy to believe in a society that equates money with status.

In the consumer society, to be without money is to be worthless.

To a person without a job that lesson is driven home in countless little ways.

HYDRO READY TO LISTEN

The general manager of B.C. Hydro said Wednesday he has agreed to meet with each of the three unions that have served strike notice on the Crown corporation to hear their concerns about Hydro's contract offers.

J. Norman Olsen said in a news release that the meetings would take place during the next several days, but Hydro would not be entering into negotiations with the unions.

Hydro met Tuesday and Wednesday with the Amalgamated Transit Union (ATU), the Office and Technical Employees Union (OTEU) and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), all of which can legally strike at any time.

Fred Trotter, president of local 378 of the OTEU, said all parties concerned had agreed to provide no details on what had been discussed.

"We are simply meeting with Hydro to resolve the situation," said Trotter. "We are at an impasse and are trying to determine whether there are methods to resolve the impasse."

He said no job action is being contemplated while meetings with Hydro were continuing.

The ATU called off a week-long strike against Hydro March 20 to join with the other two unions in finding alternate ways to put pressure on the company.

The unions have pledged not to sign contracts until all have reached settlements with Hydro.

TEL TALKS BOG

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Telephone Co. and the Telecommunications Workers Union have given up on their search for a chairman to head a joint committee on contracting out of work, the major issue in a recent three month strike-lockout.

Under a provision in the back-to-work agreement, Nathan Nemetz, chief justice of the B.C. Supreme Court, has been asked to select the chairman.

Company spokesman Keith Matthews said Wednesday that neither side was able to come up with a mutually acceptable nominee to head the committee made up of four members each from the union and the company.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A bacteria and a virus will be used in limited tests this year by the British Columbia Forest Service in an attempt to control the spruce budworm, Forests Minister Tom Waterland said Wednesday.

Earlier this year the service cancelled its chemical spray program against the budworm because it could not be justified economically.

"Our research programs this year will cover control measures, the economic impact of the budworm and more detailed studies on the mortality and long-term damage to trees," Waterland said.

Mike Finnis, of the forestry protection service, said the bacteria and the virus will not cause any side effects on animals or humans.

"The bacteria (bacillus thuringiensis) is effective on a small group of insects and has been used extensively to spray lettuce," he said. "The virus causes a disease that affects only the budworm."

The virus, developed by the Forest Pest Institute at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was tested here in 1976 and the results were marginal.

Finnis said there is only enough virus available this year to treat 150 acres.

The new program was recommended by chief forester Ted Young and the forest pest review committee, composed of government, university and forest industry resource people who have been studying the budworm problem.

At the end of 1977, budworm infestation covered 585,000 acres of Douglas fir in the Fraser Canyon and 18,000 acres in the Adams-Shuswap region east of Kamloops.

Speaker First Priority

The appointment of a new Speaker was the first order of business when the legislative session opened today.

Ed Smith, Speaker during the first two sessions of the Social Credit administration resigned Wednesday moments after the second sitting officially ended.

Premier Bill Bennett and NDP leader Dave Barrett met this morning to discuss a replacement.

It was anticipated that deputy Speaker Harvey Schroeder, the Socred MLA for Chilliwack, would be named.

Smith, citing personal attacks he'd received over his appointing a close personal friend to the auditor-general's office, said he felt it was no longer possible for him to remain as Speaker.

He will join the Socred backbenches as MLA for North Peace River.

Smith said he made the decision entirely on his own and there was no pressure put on him from Bennett.

Smith's pay will drop from $43,000 to $24,000.

At a press conference Smith said he wanted to make it clear there was no political connection in his appointing Barbara Pennock in the Erma Morrison's auditor-general department.

Smith said after Morrison's appointment but before her arrival in B.C., he was asked by the special all party committee to organize the temporary staff and accommodation which she had requested.

"The young lady that I appointed on a temporary basis performed the work required of her and according to the auditor-general, performed very well."

Smith said any suggestion that she was a political plant or in the office to be used as a pipeline to government is completely false.

Miss Pennock has since resigned.

"It was just a simple case of a young lady doing the job she was called upon to do, with skill and dedication," he said.

FORMER POLICEMAN SOUGHT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial court Judge John Macintyre has ordered a bench warrant for the arrest of Hon Kwing Shum, former Hong Kong police detective, to face extradition proceedings.

Judge Macintyre authorized the warrant after he was told Wednesday that Hon has probably already fled from Canada.

The judge granted the application by Mark de Weerdt, Canadian justice department lawyer, who is seeking Hon's extradition on behalf of the Hong Kong government for Hon to face charges under Hong Kong's Bribery Ordinance Act.

De Weerdt said he wanted the warrant executed to show that Hon has already left the country. He wanted the ex-policeman present at his extradition hearing but was prepared to proceed even if Hon is not found.

Defence lawyer H. A. D. Oliver argued that if the Crown felt strongly that his client has already fled from Canada, the prosecution is wasting the court's time and taxpayers' money in continuing an academic exercise of extraditing him.

Oliver said if his client has indeed left the country, then he is beyond jurisdiction of the court, however, he refused to tell the judge where his client was, saying, "It is not the task of counsel to give evidence."

He argued that Hon had attended court proceedings as long as he legally was required to.

Most interior and south coastal communities lay under a blanket of cloud this morning. The odd shower lingered over the south coast while one or two flurries were reported in the interior. Residents of the north coast enjoyed sunny skies today as a ridge of high pressure continues to build in from the Pacific. The ridge will gradually slide over the rest of the province today bringing clearing conditions to most localities. The next disturbance approaching from the weather ship will spread cloud to the north coast tonight with rain arriving on Friday.

A DAY FOR KIDS

—John McKay photos

Huge crowds of railway well-wishers get the word from Premier Bill Bennett

The engineer's moustache fell off at a crucial moment and many of the squashed pennies were never found, but other than that the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway's 90th anniversary celebration ran smoothly.

About 1,000 people were on hand at the foot of Pandora Wednesday evening where 5,000 stood back in 1888 to greet the first train.

The gathering included Victoria Mayor Mike Young, Premier Bill Bennett, event organizer Ald. Murray Glazier and a host of other dignitaries representing up-Island communities, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the CP Retired Employees Association.

There was music and political speeches with promises to keep the railway running forever and ever, but the day really belonged to the kids.

Nearly $2 worth of pennies, nickels, dimes and an odd quarter or two went down on the tracks as old Dayliner 9103 rolled across the Johnson Street bridge.

The train looked unwashed and dingy, despite the red and blue bunting along its sides.

As the train wheezed in it hooted, whistled, flashed its headlight and did everything but blow off jets of steam.

And it squashed the small change flatter than tiny pancakes.

In the excitement, the engineer's fake moustache fell off but he soon had it restored.

There was a big to-do up front when 9103 shuddered to a halt beside the waiting dignitaries, but the real fuss was back where the caboose would have been if Dayliners had such things. (They sure don't build trains like they used to.)

A flock of kids, and even an oldtimer or two, scoured the tracks looking for the flattened currency.

"Goodness grief," said one lady who was old enough to be the engineer's granny.

"My penny must have stuck to the wheel."

She wasn't the only one to lose money on the E&N — CP Rail's been doing it for years and that's why it wants to shut the service down.

The Canadian Transport Commission has ruled CPR can abandon the passenger service, but the original Jan. 31 cut off date has been put back until the end of June to allow the provincial government to appeal the ruling.

Premier Bennett has said he will pursue the matter through the courts and to the federal cabinet if need be.

Wednesday Bennett repeated that promise, saying he will fight to see that "this railway runs not for 90 year celebrations, but forever."

CPR wants to mothball the Dayliner service because it has been eating money almost as quickly as the old steam engines ate coal. Last year it finished $230,000 in the hole.

But Bennett has pointed out that between 1946 and 1974 the railway netted $136,872,358 in timber land sales and in 1969 sold 86,000 acres for $12.9 million.

CPR got a land grant of 2.1 million acres from the government when it took over the E&N operation.

But while the politicians made speeches the kids who'd lost their pennies were looking under the train.

"It's got to be somewhere," said one while his friend scratched at the imprint of the Queen's head left on the rail.

STOLEN SECURITIES FOUND HERE

Part of some $54,000 in securities stolen in Vancouver have been recovered by Victoria members of the Co-ordinated Law Enforcement Unit.

A joint forces operation Wednesday arrested Theodore Captain, a Victoria businessman, and charged him with possession of stolen securities. He was to appear in provincial court today.

About $33,000 worth of the stolen items had surfaced previously, according to a member of CLEU.

Laurel Pt. Freebie Friday? Forget It

Mention the word freebie and you've had it.

Town Talk Tuesday mentioned Laurel Point Inn's opening events, one of which was a free breakfast held this morning for cabbies and other drivers.

Scheduled for Friday is a luncheon at noon and a reception later that night, but by invitation only. The inn said it has been been deluged with phone calls from people wanting to know where to park, exact times, how many could come in one group and so on. Apparently, they were left with the impression that Friday's reception was a freebie open to all.

But unless you've been invited, forget it.

RECORD RUN ON FERRIES AT EASTER

Easter weekend travellers set records for the number of passengers and vehicles on the B.C. Ferry system.

The two main routes to Vancouver Island carried more than 38,000 vehicles and 130,000 passengers over the five-day period.

This represents an increase of about 9,000 vehicles and 27,000 passengers over the same period last year.

Extra sailings solved most line-up problems although some travellers experienced waits of two hours on the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run.

Contracting Bid Draws Union's Ire

Saanich council instructed its staff Wednesday to investigate possible cost savings by putting the municipality's janitorial and building maintenance services out to contract.

The move brought an angry response today from a spokesman for the Saanich municipal employees' union.

"They're liable to be asking for a shutdown of the whole ruddy place," warned Larry Newman, president of local 374 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

He said the proposal is yet another example of council's apparent willingness to "cut the working man down."

The concern over present janitorial costs surfaced during council's first meeting to discuss the draft 1978 budget.

Mayor Mel Couvelier noted that the janitorial bill for the three main civic buildings — municipal hall, public safety building and the health and welfare building — is now running at about $160,000 a year.

He asked if any comparisons had been made on a cost-per-square-foot basis with janitorial and maintenance costs in the private sector.

Parks administrator Frank Andrews replied that no such comparisons were available, although Saanich costs were generally in line with those of the school board.

Andrews pointed out that the $160,000 total mentioned by the mayor covered much more than just salaries and benefits. It included, for example, provision for repainting building interiors, repairs, moving furniture and similar work.

Finance committee chairman Ald. Dave Paterson moved the motion instructing staff to obtain tentative cost estimates from one or two private building maintenance firms.

Three other council members — Couvelier, Ald. Ian Cass and Ald. Geoff Vantreight — supported it, with Ald. Mary Casilio, Ald. Fred Severson and Ald. John Mika opposed.

Paterson said if the investigation showed only marginal savings it probably would not be worth the hassle of changing the present arrangements.

Couvelier said in that case the staff reductions could be accomplished through normal attrition.

But Newman said today he couldn't see where the eight or nine janitors involved might be transferred.

While council is concerned with eliminating lower-paid employees, he said, there seem to be more managerial staff standing around municipal hall with little to do.

Mediation For City, Firemen

Clark Gilmour has been appointed mediator in a contract dispute between the city of Victoria and its firefighters.

His first meeting with the parties will be next Monday.

The 115-member firemen's union and the Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association, bargaining agency for the city, have reached an impasse on the issue of salary and fringe benefit increases and a change in a job classification.

Union president Richard Brideson said Wednesday the firefighters are demanding the maximum allowed under the federal anti-inflation guidelines — a six per cent increase in a one-year agreement for wages and fringe benefits.

He said the city is offering a four-per-cent increase in the total package.

The firefighters' contract expired last Dec. 31.

The city says department heads have been limited to a four per cent increase and wants the firemen to show similar restraint, Brideson said.

"But they're talking to the wrong guys," he added.

Brideson said the firemen were the first group in the area to come under the anti-inflation guidelines and will be one of the last to get out. They also have been rolled back three times by the Anti-Inflation Board.

"So we aren't to be played with. We are going for the six per cent."

Lum Back in Politics To Save Industry Park

Former mayor Ed Lum announced today he is back in Saanich civic politics in hopes of saving the Royal Oak industrial park.

Former alderman Joe Bourque said he, too, is considering running again in support of the industrial park.

Their comments confirmed a statement by Ald. Geoff Vantreight that a slate will run for council in the fall in a bid to provide votes to reverse council's stand on the Royal Oak project.

The proposal to construct an industrial park at Royal Oak was defeated last week following a public hearing. Voting against it were aldermen Robert Cameron, John Mika, Mary Casilio and Howard Sturrock.

In favor were aldermen Vantreight, Fred Severson, Ian Cass and David Paterson.

Cameron and Mika are up for re-election in the fall along with Cass and Paterson.

In a harsh attact on Mayor Mel Couvelier and some Saanich aldermen, Vantreight Wednesday told the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce that property taxes in Saanich will jump about 15 per cent this year due in part to council's decision against the industrial site.

Said Vantreight: "If I ran my business the way Saanich council runs the municipality's business, I would have been broke years ago."

Lum said with increased grants from the provicial government there is no excuse for a 15 per cent hike in municipal taxes.

"They should be able to hold the line this year. Couvelier is not doing a good job and isn't providing the leadership he talked about in the election campaign. He is giving in to pressure groups."

Lum, defeated by Couvelier last November, said: "I have been sitting back, trying to stay out of it. But Saanich is being so badly mismanaged I feel I should speak out in the best interest of the municipality."

Lum said unless there is a dramatic reversal in council's policy towards industrial development, he will run for alderman in November and is determined to challenge Couvelier for the mayoralty the following November.

Meanwhile, Bourque said he also is considering running for office in November on the Royal Oak industrial park issue.

"There is no doubt the project is needed, and not just the scaled-down version of 100 acres but all 168 acres as in the original proposal," he said.

Bourque dissociated himself from the attack on Couvelier.

"The mayor is a businessman and he's doing a pretty fair job. But the Royal Oak decision was wrong."

In a speech to the chamber Wednesday, Vantreight said as recently as two years ago about 95 or 98 per cent of the people of Royal Oak favored the industrial project.

All this changed, he said, because of the activities of a small, vocal group — apparently a reference to the Royal Oak Ratepayers Association which organized the opposition to the project.

Vantreight said council is looking at land in a flood plain west of Roy Road to buy for an industrial park.

Earlier Ben Pires, the president of the Royal Oak Ratepayers Association, urged landowners to turn the property into a residential development as soon as possible to prevent a future council from reversing the present decision.

Consultants on Block To Keep Socred Peace

A Social Credit MLA said Wednesday he is considering firing two prominent members of the Social Credit party he hired as $30-a-day consultants for the Committee on Crown Corporations which he heads.

Elwood Veitch said in an interview that he is considering the move to keep political peace within the 14-member committee.

Veitch, the member for Burnaby-Willingdon, said Lorne Fingerson of L.A. Fingerson and Consultants, who served as his fiscal agent during the 1975 election campaign, and Norman Kelsey of N.B. Kelsey and Associates, were hired to do research for the committee's investigation into the affairs of the Housing Corporation of B.C.

"There are only five or six people in B.C. qualified to do this work, and these are two of them," Veitch said in an interview. "They are highly qualified management consultants."

The committee was set up to investigate the operation, management and administration of various Crown corporations.

Veitch said the two consultants are doing the work as a favor to him and are being paid at the lowest end of the scale.

He said that to date the two consultants have billed the committee for no more than $3,000, and they should be finished within the next two or three days.

Veitch said they were hired for their professional qualifications.

"I don't give a damn what their politics are as long as they are competent," he said.

"If their professional qualifications are being questioned, that's another thing."

He said he had also hired Peat Marwick and Partners, the same firm hired by the previous NDP government, to do research on the transit operation at B.C. Hydro.

TIGHE

. . . "I went through hell"

He speaks with a rich Irish brogue that belies the 35 years since he left his native Ireland.

He speaks with experience about alcoholics.

He is one.

The man is Peter Tighe, a Roman Catholic priest who left his calling after seven years when he became an alcoholic. He has since beaten the bottle.

In Victoria to check on some of his former patients, Tighe is now chief counsellor at Schick's Shadel Hospital near Seattle.

The hospital, similar to one in Fort Worth, Tex., treats alcoholics medically for 10 days. A two-day treatment is given 30 days later, another one 60 days from the start and follow-ups continue for two years.

Tighe says he could have remained in the priesthood but honesty forced him to leave.

"Booze divorced me from a great vocation," he says. "I went through hell for a while."

Now married with a grown-up son who is a successful attorney, Tighe uses every spare moment he has to try to educate people to the danger of alcoholism and to change social attitudes to alcoholics.

He met with Health Minister Bob McClelland on his last visit to Victoria and hopes to see the minister again before the year ends.

Tighe is convinced that treatment for alcoholism should be covered by the provincial health program.

He says two of every 30 patients treated at his hospital are Canadians, mostly from B.C.

"There's too much talk about drunks on Skid Row," he says. "Only 3½ per cent of alcoholics are on Skid Row. The other 96½ per cent are responsible people, hipped by the bottle — full of guilt and desperation."

He says the Washington hospital has treated many priests, nuns and ministers in the past.

Tighe says his organization has spent $6 million in research and has been operating for 43 years.

The organization hopes to have new hospitals in operation in the Irish city of Dublin and in Great Falls, Mont., by 1979.

Tighe is convinced the Schick treatment is superior to any offered in any other centre. He says the method used combines aversion and the use of sodium pentothal.

The aversion treatment is carried out by giving patients controlled amounts of alcohol, along with emetine, which prevents the alcohol from getting into the system.

"After 20 minutes the patient gets a little nauseated," he explains.

The hospital only treats 30 patients at a time, charging $2,400 for the two-year program. On the staff are five doctors, 27 registered nurses, 10 counsellors and seven pentothal technicians.

While Tighe works with the ardor of a crusader to help alcoholics, he also campaigns for more preventive medicine.

"If I had one wish to be granted I would have an educational program, not only on a national level but in our schools," he says.

Transplanting Seedlings

It is not difficult to germinate seed indoors if reasonably good conditions are available and the hints given in last Tuesday's column are followed.

The next step is to transplant, or prick-out, the seedlings into larger containers where they have space to develop into strong plants.

The next step is to transplant, or prick-out, the seedlings into larger containers where they have space to develop into strong plants.

Choose shallow boxes, called flats, of a suitable size and shape to fit the available space. Depth of boxes should be about three inches with bottom slats spaced one-quarter inch apart.

Boxes with solid bottoms should have half-inch holes drilled at three-inch spacings each way to provide adequate drainage.

Cover the bottom of the flat with roughage and twiggy pieces from sifted compost together with small stones and pieces of broken clay pots. Place the pieces of pot, curved side up, over the spaces or holes to prevent blocking when the roughage is added.

Fill the flat with a mixture of five parts compost to one or two parts sand (by bulk) rubbed through a one-half inch mesh screen. The finished mix should be damp enough for the seedling holes to hold their shape without collapsing.

Press the mixture firmly into each corner with the fingers then level the surface to the top of the rim with a piece of lath. With a short block of 2 by 4 gently press the mixture to prevent settling after the soil is planted. The finished level should be no more than one-half inch below the rim of the flat.

A piece of round wood (wooden dowel) about three-eighths inch in diameter and six inches in length is the tool used for setting the seedlings into the soil. It is called a dibber.

One end is smoothly rounded but not pointed, because a reasonably large hole is needed to take the roots without breaking or bending.

Most gardening books recommend pricking-out seedlings when "two true leaves have formed". This is much to late because the large root system which has formed is too easily damaged and the young plants suffer a severe set-back.

The first two leaves are called seed leaves. In a commercial greenhouse the pricking-out is done as soon as these two leaves are large enough to be held gently in the fingers.

Lift a half-dozen seedlings from the seed box or pot with the pointed end of a seed label. Holding them by the leaves, shake gently to remove excess soil and disentangle the roots.

Carefully lay each seedling on a piece of 3-ply or glass raised above bench or table level on a 2 by 4 block or a 4-inch pot. Work quickly so that the exposed roots do not dry out.

Starting at one end of the flat make a hole with the dibber about one inch from the side and end, of sufficient size and depth for the length of roots, pick up a seedling by one of the seed leaves and lower the roots into the hole with the base of the leaves at soil level.

Holding the seedling firmly, plunge the dibber into the soil beside the previous hole and lever it towards the seedling to press the soil closely to the roots and close the hole.

The next hole is made two inches from the first hole, and the second row of seedlings are also spaced two inches from the first row.

Place the finished flat out of direct sunlight but in good light for a few days. Arrange a double gauze screen to break sunlight if necessary. When the little seedlings show signs of having made roots into the new soil (indicated by renewed growth between the seed leaves) place the flat in a cool lively atmosphere with as much sun as possible. Sprinkle gently with water as needed.

In about four weeks the flats go into a coldframe, or are set outdoors during daylight and taken into a cool place indoors over night until the weather is settled in early May.

IMAGINE!

Your friends drop in and they will be unable to shake your hands and say hello because the view took their speech away. You'll show them the Coastal Range in the distance, Gordon Head, University, Mt. Baker, Mt. Tolmie, the City, Olympics, Cedar Hill Golf Course, and the Sooke Hills. Truly 360-degree view. Your friends will be green with envy; so much so, that they won't even see the great house with super size living room, family room, dining room, master bedroom with an en suite of Imperial Proportions and its own private deck. They probably will even miss seeing the "in ground" swimming pool — well, that way they get the green off their faces. A bargain at $124,500. Call:

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was fractionally higher in active mid-afternoon trading today despite a decline of more than two points at New York.

Trading halts continued in shares of Y and R Properties Ltd. and Oxford Development Group Ltd. at the companies' requests pending news. Y and R Properties last traded at $15 a share and Oxford's first preferred A shares at $14½.

L.E. Shaw Ltd. has announced it will ask shareholder approval for the redemption of all Class A and C shares. A trading halt was issued about 11 a.m. for dissemination of the news.

Class A shares last traded at $7⅞ and Class C at $6¼ a share.

Anglo United Development Corp. Ltd. climbed 37 cents to $1.37 a share on the sale of 215,600 shares following its resumption at the opening. The company has reported significant radiometric readings in a mineralization zone in Ireland.

Among industrials, Asbestos Corp. gained ¾ to $36, Texasgulf ¾ to $29½, Inco A ⅜ to $18¼, Power Corp. A ½ to $12⅝ and George Weston Ltd. ⅛ to $16½.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were fractionally higher in moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Volume at 2:30 p.m. EST was 296,000 shares, compared with 529,300 shares traded up to the same time Wednesday.

Inco A gained ⅝ at $18⅜, Cominco ¼ at $25⅝, Bank of Montreal ⅛ at $19, Cadillac Fairview ¼ at $12 and Power Corp. A ⅝ at $12⅝. Dominion Textile lost ⅛ at $9⅜, Consumers Gas ⅛ at $16⅞, Aquitaine ¼ at $15½ and Imperial Oil A ⅛ at $19⅜.

London

The London Financial Times index of 30 industrials closed at 467.7, down 0.4.

Leading industrials and oil issues were mixed, while gold stocks slipped lower with the drop in bullion prices.

Canadian shares advanced.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was down today, plagued by a "two-headed demon of inflation and high interest rates," in the words of one analyst.

One analyst said, "Inflation fears are running wild here." He added that large institutional investors are wary of government anti-inflation action that could depress stock prices.

President Jimmy Carter plans to announce a program to deal with higher prices when he returns from his current overseas trip.

Brokers also said that the broad-based decline in prices was a reflection of concern that the nation's money-supply figures, to be announced later, would show an increase that could be a harbinger of higher interest rates.

Airco Inc. was one of the most active issues, dropping two to 40¾. BOC International Ltd. said it purchased 841,500 additional shares of Airco, increasing its holdings to 6.6 million shares, or 54 per cent.
